Rockwood residents concerned about issues on Rd 75N

By Jennifer McFee

If you feel like it's time to hit the old dusty trail, you might mosey down to Road 75N.

Residents in the area are voicing their concerns about high-speed traffic and dust control issues between Highway 7 and Sturgeon Road. They are also concerned about truck use along Road 75N.

At the Aug. 22 committee of the whole meeting, Rebecca McLean spoke to Rockwood council on behalf of her neighbours.

They would like to see the current speed limit reduced to 50 kilometres per hour from the current 70 kilometres per hour, especially since school bus pick-ups and drop-offs occur along this road. Area residents also use the road for fitness and recreational activities, and there is a large deer population in the area.

At the intersection of Road 75N and Sturgeon Road, they believe that a four-way stop is required.

The residents would also like for Road 75N to be designated as "not a truck route" since truck use deteriorates the road conditions, which costs the municipality money for upkeep.

They also asked council to reinstate the dust control program after it changed to a user-pay system in 2017.

Reeve Jim Campbell said they are currently investigating the possibility of making it a non-truck route, and they are waiting for a report from the transportation manager. However, he noted that if Road 75N becomes a non-truck route, the traffic will be pushed elsewhere in the municipality. If it were to proceed, the process would also require bylaw readings, which can be a lengthy procedure. As for the speed limit, he said that the municipality currently has no control over it since it is regulated by the Highway Traffic Board. In addition, a four-way stop would require a report as well.

Coun. Mark Hidlebaugh said that efforts are underway to get more speed limit enforcement in the area.

Community Yard of the Week winners for August

The seventh 2018 Yard of the Week, sponsored by Stonewall's Communities in Bloom and Home Hardware, was awarded to Laura and Len Feeleus at 33 Keith Cousins Dr.

New to Stonewall, for the past two years the couple has created an eye catching yard filled with a mix of perennials, shrubs and annuals. Growing up the side of the garage is a climbing rose surrounded by dahlias and shrubs with a castor bean at the edge of the walkway. A water fountain is surrounded by Angel's trumpet, phlox, salvia, portulaca and marigolds. Another bed in the middle of the yard is filled with roses, bleeding heart, shrubs and annuals for colour.

The eighth 2018 Yard of the Week, sponsored by Stonewall's Communities in Bloom and Home Hardware, was awarded to Ivannia and Paul Pelletier, who have resided at 186-4th St. West since 1986. The yard has three large apple trees loaded with fruit, a rock garden with hostas and impatiens leading up to a larger perennial bed. There is a rare peony, irises, lillies and poppies that bloom early; salvia, roses, echinacea, rudebeckia that are in bloom now and sedums that will be in full bloom in a few weeks. Morning glories and hyacinth beans climb the fence and a trellis in amongst bird baths, a butterfly and a bee house and bird feeders. Paul built raised beds that are full of swiss chard, tomatoes, peppers, beets and a mix of herbs. > ROCKWOOD RESIDENTS, FROM PG. 2

For dust control, council decided to eliminate some of the free dust control as a budget decision in 2017. Until then, that area had free dust control while others in the municipality had to pay for the same service. Now those residents have the option to pay for dust control in front of their property, the same way residents do in other areas of the RM. This method creates a fair process with the same options available for residents, unlike before when some had to pay and some got the service for free.

Campbell noted that council considers all feedback from residents and that it is never a waste of time to speak to them about concerns.

Hundreds show up for hearing on proposed development

By Jennifer McFee

A proposed housing development prompted Stonewall residents to speak their minds on the project at a packed public hearing last week.

On Aug. 22, Stonewall council hosted three public hearings at the Heritage Arts Centre. After waiting in lines that went right out the door, a total of 217 people signed in for the hearings. The majority of them turned up for discussions on a proposed planned unit development at 19 Alan McLeod Ave.

IV Development Solutions is seeking conditional use approval to build townhouse bungalows and multi-unit condos with a total of 86 units. The first phase of 14 condos would break ground in 2019, followed by the second phase of 72 condos breaking ground in 2020.

The land is within a residential single-family zone, but council can consider approving planned unit developments in this zone on a case-bycase basis by granting conditional use.

On behalf of the developer, Celine Doll provided a PowerPoint presentation to the crowd that filled all the seats and stood along the perimeter of the room. She indicated that the proposed development would fill the need for changing demographics and address Stonewall's multi-family housing shortage.

The majority of the condominiums would be available for purchase, with some available for rent.

According to the letter of intent, the developer plans to respect homeowners in the surrounding residential area.

"Neighbours can feel confident that their quality of living will remain intact with the addition of this development," states the letter of intent.

"The condominium association will enforce strict rules and regulations regarding upkeep, esthetics, security, noise levels and parking."

However, many nearby residents are not convinced, and they lined up to express strong opposition to the project.

Concerns focused on issues such as increased traffic and potential parking problems. Others expressed concern about bringing high density to the area, which they said wasn't designed to accommodate it.

Several people indicated there was inadequate information about the project provided by both the developer and the town.

Kelly Hallock and her family live on Oakford Boulevard adjacent to the planned development, where they moved four years ago from Winnipeg. She mentioned potential problems during emergencies due to the development's keyhole design, which has only one way in and one way out.

More girls speeding into Interlake Dragway

Race Day and Jet Cars Sept. 2 and 3

By Caitlyn Gowriluk

It only takes Emily Wruck a few minutes to get suited up for a drag race.

The list of protective gear is long — a helmet, a neck collar, arm restraints, shoes, pants, gloves and a jacket — but for Wruck, it has become something of a routine.

Behind the wheel of her car — a purple 2011 Hercules junior dragster covered with skulls, barbed wire and flames, and adorned with her first name in a brassy font on the side — Wruck acts like an old pro. And although at 13 years old and 4'10 (or "basically 4'11," as Wruck said), she may not be exactly what people picture when the phrase "drag racer" comes to mind, Wruck is one of an increasing number of young girls joining the sport.

"When my son started, I think there was maybe three girls and, like, 12 boys," said Wruck's mom Brandy, who has been running the Interlake Dragway with husband Darryl since 2012. "It's dominated by girls right now."

This shift at the dragway has been happening slowly over the past five years, Brandy said. Of the 10 kids enrolled in the junior dragster program at the dragway this year, six are girls. And as the Wrucks expect at least five more to join the program next year, and two boys to age out of it, the number of girls participating in the sport is continuing to increase, said Wruck.

While drag racing may not be what everyone thinks of as a family activity, Brandy said that's exactly what their family business has become.

"Anybody will do anything to help each other," she said. "If you're racing your best friend, well, you guys are enemies. But as soon as you cross that finish line, what happened there stays there."

Emily Wruck and dad Darryl practise the handshake they do each time Emily races.

Racing can also become something of a ritual between parents and kids, said Darryl.

"Every parent here, when it's eliminations, has their own little thing they do with their kid," he said.

For Darryl and Emily, it's a handshake they do just before she starts the race.

"The key to winning is doing the same thing over and over, just to be a routine," he said. "And it works."

As the Wrucks gear up for their last big event of the summer coming up on September long weekend, they said they're hoping to get a big crowd out to see what drag racing is all about.

"Lots of noise, adrenaline," said Brandy."It's just pure excitement."

For more information and to see dates for the rest of the Interlake Dragway's race weekends, visit the dragway's website at interlakedragway.org.

Inukshuk guides travellers in Stonewall

By Caitlyn Gowriluk

A few years after moving his family's landscaping business to a new location in Stonewall, Ken Francis decided he wanted to do something to liven up the front of the formerly abandoned quarry.

Last summer, he found the perfect thing to do that: an Inukshuk.

"The history of the Inukshuk is to guide travellers," said Francis, owner of Waring Landscape Supply. "Up in the Arctic, there's no trees, there's no nothing, so for waypoints for travellers, they would build these Inukshuks."

The 12-foot-tall statue is made of limestone boulders from the Stonewall quarry and sits atop a five-foottall boulder buried in the ground beneath it. Altogether, Francis estimates it weighs between 10 and 12 tonnes. The whole process took about two months to complete, he said.

After spending the past few years revitalizing the lot, Francis said he hopes the Inukshuk will be something that remains there long after he's gone.

"This was abandoned for a lot of years. We purchased this land, and we're slowly developing it into something. It was an eyesore for many, many years," said Francis. "We developed the roadside front, did the ditching and everything, and kind of turned it into something, trying to give back to the community. ... We wanted something permanent, that would last for — I hope — hundreds of years."

As someone who grew up in Stonewall, Francis said he hopes to play a role in the town's ongoing development.

"The reason people come out of here is because it's a small community. It's clean. It's well-maintained. It's beautiful. You don't have the hustle and bustle of the city. You don't have the traffic. You can go out for a walk. You know your neighbours," said Francis. "We want to be a part of that."

Waring Landscape Supply is located at 154 4 St. E in Stonewall.

Summer's Triangle in the Sky

By Ted Bronson

I find that the nights of September are the best times to go outside and enjoy the stars.

Darkness descends much sooner than just a few weeks ago. The sun sets at 9:40 p.m. in our area on July 1. By Sept. 1 sundown occurs at 8:12 p.m. or one hour and 28 minutes earlier than two months ago. For some observers, this is more convenient as they must go to bed at a reasonable hour. This is the time of year when I enjoy the night sky's stars of summer.

Once the sun drops below the western horizon, the brightest stars begin to reveal themselves as twilight fades to darkness. Looking high overhead, you will notice that three stars are the first ones to appear. These stars form the asterism known as the "Summer Triangle."

A constellation is an area in the sky containing a group of stars that are connected together to form a figure or picture. Some popular constellations are Scorpius (the Scorpion), Hercules (after the Greek mythological hero Heracles), Ursa Major (the Great Bear), Lyra (the Lyre – a stringed instrument), etc. There are 88 official constellations in the sky. An asterism is made up of a pattern of stars that is not a recognized constellation but is a part of one or more constellations. The Summer Triangle contains the brightest stars from the constellations of Cygnus (the Swan), Lyra (the Lyre) and Aquila (the Eagle). A basic star wheel or map will make finding these constellations easy.

The brightest star of the Summer Triangle is Vega in the constellation Lyra. Vega is a blue-white star shining at a magnitude of 0.0. It is relatively close to us at a distance of 25 light years. A "light year" is the distance that light travels in one year in space. This star is about 58 times larger than our sun.

Just east of Vega is a star called Epsilon Lyrae. A set of binoculars will separate this star into two components. Using a telescope of at least 100x magnification on this pair of Abas said that this move to temporarily open Crown land fields for this purpose is a good move by the government but expressed some concern with access to these fields.

"Barriers with respect to access is potentially an issue. Some farms are closer than others to viable pieces of Crown land. The cost to move equipment to cut bale and haul hay could add up very fast. Time is running out for candidates interested in local politics

By Jeff Ward

The next general municipal election takes place on Oct. 24 and the deadline for anyone interested in running for councillor or reeve in their municipality, town or school board is Sept. 18.

Residents who are interested in becoming involved in municipal politics are asked by their respective senior elections official (SEO) to fill out a registration form. Candidates need to declare whether they intend to run for head of council or as a councillor and in which ward, if applicable.

The candidate will also be required to submit a bank account number and name and address of their financial institution if they will be accepting monetary contributions from others. Candidates for mayor or reeve can receive a maximum of $1,500 as a campaign contribution from one individual and candidates for councillor can receive a maximum of $750 from one individual. Donors who give more than $250 must be identified.

Candidates who register and change their mind have until Sept. 19, the day after the registration deadline to withdraw from the election. Candidates must be Canadian citizens, be at least 18 years of age on election day, and be a voter in the municipality, which means that they are a resident or own property for six months prior to election day.

Nominations take place between Sept. 12 and 18, which requires all candidates to fill out nomination papers provided by their SEO, taking a declaration under oath that they are qualified to be nominated and supplying the names, addresses and signatures of eligible voters to support their nomination. Nominations papers need to be signed by at least 25 voters of the municipality or by one per cent of the voters in the municipality, whichever is less.

Manitoba Municipal Relations has a 2018 Candidates Guidebook that explains in detail how the election process works, who is in charge and what steps candidates need to take in order to run.

Your respective SEO will have the forms you need to fill in to get the process started. If you do not know who your SEO is, you can contact your local RM or town office to find out.

> HEARING, FROM PG. 5

our schools and the emergency response," she said. "... The sudden increase in population, and thus the demand, will have an immediate impact on the ability to respond and provide adequate essential services to the community."

Aspen Drive resident Annette Brown acknowledged the need for multi-family dwellings in Stonewall but she objects to the location of the proposed development.

"Nature, green space and quiet family neighbourhoods won't survive against human ambition and overdevelopment unless we choose to put them first. ... Our community profile clearly states that proper planning and careful development have given us a positive, prosperous, friendly, quiet rural alternative to city life," she said.

"The residents that stand here today have chosen to live here for those very reasons and it is how we will continue to attract new people to our community."

She urged council to consider smart growth principles and deny the conditional use application.

On the flipside, many others spoke in favour of the proposal.

Stonewall Chamber of Commerce president Graham Starmer wrote a letter expressing support for the project.

"I personally wish to move from the farm and into town, but there currently are no vacancies in condos or sideby-side dwellings for sale or rent," he wrote.

"Many communities in the capital region have built facilities to accommodate their aging population who may not feel it is time to move into a facility like Lions Manor. In Stonewall, there are few facilities available at this time. The need for more available housing is very clear and should be supported."

Likewise, Stonewall resident Kaycee McNeill spoke in support of the proposal.

"I am currently a student working towards my nursing as well as a mom. I should also note that I live with my mother-in-law because to purchase a home in Stonewall is simply not feasible for my family as the cost is so inflated here," she said.

"I believe this proposal is a great idea for our community. We all deserve a chance at living comfortably, and the choices in this town in regards to the price ... is out of most of our budgets." On behalf of the South Interlake Planning District, Eric Shaw presented a detailed planning analysis to council.

He said that SIPD believes it is premature to approve the project at this time since the applicant hasn't fully demonstrated that the project will "occur in such as way to minimize conflict with the adjacent land uses."

As a result, SIPD recommends that council defer their decision on the conditional use application until the applicant provides additional information for review.

This additional information includes a traffic impact study, 3D architectural renderings, a floor plan for the proposed 18-plex condo buildings, a landscaping concept plan and a revised site plan.

Council did not make any decisions after the public hearing. The issue will be discussed at a future council meeting, likely on Sept. 26.

Until then, the applicants and members of the public must refrain from communicating to council members about the proposal.

Fall weather offers great fishing

RED RIVER > CHALET BEACH > LAKE WINNIPEG

Hi gang.

> ARNIE WEIDL

The first signs of fall have quickly appeared, driving folks to squeeze in a few last summer activities — other than fishing. I say that because last week when I went to the three fishing spots I wanted to feature, I found only solitary couples. Fortunately for us, they all had good fishing stories.

Early in the week, upstream of Selkirk on the banks of the Red, I found a kind, quiet fellow fishing with his not-so-quiet, energetic daughter. As I picked my way down a narrow steep trail to the flatter bank, the girl jumped up from her folding chair. She turned to me with a big bright smile as I called out, "Have you had any luck?"

"You bet," she remarked as I handed her my card.

"I'm Ria Giroux and that's my dad, Romeo Siminig, sitting in the shade of the willows over there," she said as she walked to the water's edge and pulled up a string of bass and walleye.

"Is there a fishing experience that you would like to share with your fellow anglers?" I asked.

She thought for a moment and then launched into story from her youth.

"I was 12 years old when mom and dad began taking me fishing and I loved it. Dad taught me how to clean and cook a fish over a fire. Once I could do that, he gave me his knife and soon when I caught fish, I would go off by them. I remember my mom would call out to me, 'I see smoke. What are you eating?""

Around midweek, I thought it was time to visit anglers at Pine Falls. Again, there was no one around except for one couple. I parked and carefully walked along the wobbly pier being pitched about by choppy waves.

"How's it going, guys?" I made to open a conversation.

"Nothing yet," a jovial chap in shorts and hoodie responded. "We're Vance and Nancy Flett from Winnipeg,"

Nancy, also in shorts and hoodie, seemed a little cold from the wind with her hands in her pockets and her rod imprisoned between her legs and chair. Both had slight streaks of grey through their dark hair. As we talked, I could feel their deep understanding of nature and their bond to each other.

"Thirty years we've been together," Vance declared, "and we've fished everywhere."

"I remember last year we were boat fishing on the far side of the river here on an overcast day with choppy waves and I thought I got a snag. I lowered my rod, reeling in, then hauled up on what felt like dead weight. Again and again, I reeled and hauled. Then a curious wave moving in a zigzag fashion with smaller waves on either myself, make a fire, then cook and eat side appeared on the surface about 10 boat-lengths away. Abruptly, the spiny back of a sturgeon came out of the water. With a slow, strong whip of its tail, it ran with my line."

Vance loosened the drag and let it

"How long have we been going?" he called to Nancy.

"Two hours. Have you had enough?" she asked.

"No," he grunted rocking back and forth in time with his reeling and hauling as the tug of wills went on. Slowly he brought the grey-white four-foot-long delta-tailed sturgeon to the boat's side with Vance's arms aching and rigid from hours of tension. Then suddenly a rogue wave slapped the side of the boat, rocking it wildly, and his line snapped. The fish was gone. Vance shook his arms back to life, smiling, looking at the water where the fish had disappeared. It had been a good fight.

Last Saturday, I strolled down the Gimli pier and again I could only see one couple fishing. I approached them as they sat tending their rods and asked if they had a story. Like the Fletts, they were open and friendly. They started chuckling, eyeing each other as a story came to mind.

'Can I ask your names?" I quickly interjected before they started.

"We're Moises and Helena Rego

from Winnipeg," they chimed in.

With graying hair, round faces and comfortable bodies cradled in wellused chairs, they told how last week Moises' nephew Nuno met them on the Gimli pier with his three-year old-son Leo. Moises had bought little blond-haired Leo a kids' fishing rod. Now, Moises has a sense of humour, and when Leo wasn't looking, he snuck a big minnow on the boy's hook and tossed the line in the water.

"Leo, come reel in your fish," Moises called to the lad.

Leo was beside himself, trembling with excitement as he grabbed his rod and furiously reeled in that minnow. Now Leo is constantly after his dad to go catch"baby fish."

See you next week. Bye now.

Council approved a conditional use application to expand dairy operation

Rosser council news in brief

By Jennifer McFee

Rosser council granted several recreation and cultural grants to churches and facilities for the payment of their 2018 property taxes.

The grants went to the following organizations: Meadows Community Club ($655.43), Marquette Curling Club ($71.64), Grosse Isle Recreation Club Inc. ($1,758.34), Rosser Central Community Club ($0.21), Church of St. Michaels ($51.06). trustees of Lilyfield United Church ($43.43), trustees of Rosser/Grosse Isle Pastoral ($65.03) and the Vintage Locomotive Society ($2,137.78). The Grosse Isle Heritage Site also received a $2,500 recreation and cultural grant to install asphalt inside their picnic shelter.

In other Rosser news:

Reid & Associates Chartered Professional Accountants will be the auditor for the RM of Rosser for 2018.

CAO Larry Wandowich is the appointed secretary for the Board of Revision.

At the Aug. 14 meeting, a public hearing was held for Terry Wedge's conditional use application to allow a single-family dwelling on his property on Highway 6. The decision was deferred to the next council meeting.

Karen Sinclair spoke to council about a possible subdivision.

Janet Hagan spoke to council about future plans for the Rosser Cemetery and acknowledged the municipality's work in the cemetery.

Council approved an application to replace culvert crossing on Road 3E. The applicant will cover the cost of the supplies and installation.

Council accepted an asphalt-patching quote from Superior Asphalt for $43,000 plus GST. Additional money will be used from other under-budget road reconstruction projects and from savings in the gravel-hauling budget.

Council approved a conditional use application from Rosser Holsteins Ltd. to expand their dairy operation to 1,000 animals (2,000 animal units) from the current 600 animals (1,200 animal units). The applicants will need to meet conditions that include entering into a development agreement with the municipality.

Lifelong skills learned through 4-H programs

Submitted by Joan (Hudson) Zaretsky

Every year, when September rolled around, I always looked forward to going back to school with my friends but I also had something else I couldn't wait to start — a new year in my 4-H club.

I was a member of the Rosser Heights Home Economics 4-H club from the time I was nine years old until I graduated from high school. I took many different projects over the years and learned from many different 4-H leaders who were my neighbours. I worked hard to complete my projects for our Achievement Day every April. It was so rewarding to get the red ribbon acknowledging all the practical life skills I had learned. In my later years, I became a junior leader and instructed members in a number of different projects.

I also recall when I was an associate member giving my first two-minute speech on "Our Tour of the White House." I had my cue cards all printed in big letters and had practised until I had memorized the whole speech. I continued to participate in the public speaking competitions in our club and often won the opportunity to go on to competitions at the district and even the provincial level. I worked with different partners to present demonstrations on floral arranging, hair care and other topics of interest at the time. As a junior leader, I participated in a Toastmasters program for 4-H members held in Stonewall every Saturday morning in the Pamany long-lasting friendships were made. Just two years ago at a baseball tournament in Clearwater, I met a man who looked familiar. When we exchanged names, I recalled he had given a hilarious speech about how to stuff a turkey over 40 years ago as part of the Toastmasters program.

Each 4-H club elects an executive in order to run the club business and this offered me the opportunity to learn about the roles and responsibilities of being a president, secretary, treasurer and other important positions. I learned how a meeting is run, how motions are made and adopted, how to balance your financial books, and other organizational skills. Because of my involvement in 4-H through the years, I won a trip to the Minnesota State Fair one summer with a bus load of Manitoba 4-Hers. As a result of my public speaking and junior leadership experiences, I was awarded a citizenship trip to Ottawa where I met 4-H members from across the country. There we were presented with our citizenship papers by the Governor General at the time, Roland Mitchner.

You may ask why I am relating these events to you? I am now retired from my career as a teacher and school administrator but look back very fondly at my years in 4-H for the foundational skills I learned and practised throughout the years. I learned that it takes time and patience to do a good job when learning something new. I learned that not all my leaders taught me the same way but in accordance with how they learned and believed I would learn best. I learned to challenge myself and to take risks along the way. I gained the confidence to face change head on and try Plan B or C when Plan A didn't work. I learned that sometimes you have to work outside the box to accomplish a task and be flexible to adjust to the circumstances. I learned very valuable skills regarding how to run an organization with elected executive members.

I feel the skill which proved most beneficial in many walks of my life was my ability to stand up in any group or crowd and speak about issues and to present workshops and teach classes. I no longer need those index cards which were my crutch when I was first learning. I have delivered speeches to audiences of 350 educators and 10 educators. The size of the group does not intimidate me. I prepare my talks differently but have the self-assurance in my ability to deliver my message. Over the years, colleagues have asked where I learned to speak like this and I always respond "In my 4-H club!"

As a lifelong learner, I recently completed a two-and-a-half year academy program offered by Learning Forward designed to support educators in embracing the change process required to improve student learning in schools. For one of my assignments, I developed a leadership quilt. My"4-H Leadership Program" was the first of 12 squares reflecting on my leadership opportunities. I presented this quilt in Washington, D.C., at my academy to a group of 80 educators from across Canada and the United States. I had many questions about the 4-H square and was so happy to be able to comment that my 4-H club was my first experience with leadership building activities.

I know that the Rosser Heights 4-H Home Economics Club does not exist anymore. However, there are still 4-H clubs in the Interlake area that support young people in raising cattle, taking care of their horses and other multi-purpose practical life projects.

I believe all these clubs still promote public speaking and have executives elected to assist in carrying on their club business. While the projects may be different, the learning of lifelong habits and skills are always a part of being a 4-H member. Being a 4-H member today offers young people the opportunity to learn valuable life lessons and is truly an investment in their future success as they move into whatever direction or career they take in their life!

Talk with your child(ren) to determine which club best matches their interests. Support them in learning lifelong skills and developing memories such as mine, which may prove to be the starting point of their leadership success throughout their future life.

Fifth Annual

Rodeo action in Teulon

By staff

The dust was flying, the bulls were snorting and the broncos bucking last weekend at the Teulon Rodeo.

A pancake breakfast kick-started the festivities both days that were jampacked with fun for all ages.

The Heartland Rodeo events included bareback, saddle bronc, bull riding, barrel racing, tie down roping, goat tying, breakaway roping, steer riding, steer wrestling and team roping. Other events throughout the weekend were goat dressing, the Ruff House Dog Show, thoroughbred chariot racing and a Patsy Cline tribute concert.

Secondary suite will allow senior couple to age in place

By Jennifer McFee

Home is where the heart is.

That's the certainly the case for Brent and Gwen Sharp, who received the nod of approval from Stonewall council to build a secondary suite to accommodate Gwen's aging parents. The suite will allow her parents to receive their personal care at home, thereby eliminating the need to move to a nursing home or seniors' residence.

Their plan is to develop the north side of their property on Shady Lane to connect a 576-square-foot suite to their existing home. The family will make every effort to ensure that the new addition blends in with the neighbourhood's esthetic.

The Sharps plan to return the landscaping to the current condition or even an improved state, and they will ensure that proper grading and drainage are in place.

At a public hearing on Aug. 22, neighbour Chuck McClure spoke in favour of the proposal, as did Eadie McIntyre of South Interlake 55 Plus.

"I would just like to give my support wholeheartedly to this project," McInytre said.

"I am a caregiver for my aging father and he lives with me. It is the most wonderful experience a person could have to share their family love with their parents. I think that's wonderful. I commend these people."

The South Interlake Planning District had no concerns about the proposed secondary suite, which will provide an opportunity for Gwen's parents to age in place.

Council approved the conditional use application.

"I AM A CAREGIVER FOR MY AGING FATHER AND HE LIVES WITH ME. IT IS THE MOST WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE A PERSON COULD HAVE TO SHARE THEIR FAMILY LOVE WITH THEIR PARENTS."

Benefits of regular physical activity

If you are regularly physically active, you may:

- reduce your risk of a heart attack
- manage your weight better

• have a lower blood cholesterol level

• lower the risk of Type 2 diabetes and some cancers

have lower blood pressure

• have stronger bones, muscles and joints and lower the risk of osteoporosis

• lower your risk of falls

• recover better from period of hospitalization or bed rest

• feel better — with more energy, a better mood, feel more relaxed and sleep better.

Physical Activity Guidelines

• Doing any physical activity is better than doing none. If you currently do no physical activity, start by doing some, and gradually build up to the recommended amount.

• Be active on most, preferably all, days every week.

• Accumulate 150 to 300 minutes $(2\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 hours) of moderate intensity physical activity or 75 to 150 minutes (1¹/₄ to 2¹/₂ hours) of vigorous intensity physical activity, or an equivalent combination of both moderate and vigorous activities, each week.

• Do muscle strengthening activities on at least two days each week

Ways to increase activity

Increases in daily activity can come from small changes made throughout your day, such as walking or cycling instead of using the car, getting off a bus stop earlier and walking the rest of the way, or walking the children to school.

See your doctor first

It is a good idea to see your doctor before starting your physical activity program if:

• you are aged over 45 years

• physical activity causes pain in your chest

• you often faint or have spells of severe dizziness

• moderate physical activity makes you very breathless

• you are at a higher risk of heart disease

• you think you might have heart disease or you have heart problems • you are pregnant.

Pre-exercise screening is used to identify people with medical conditions that may put them at a higher risk of a experiencing a health problem during physical activity. It is a filter or "safety net" to help decide if the potential benefits of exercise outweigh the risks for you.

How to make exercise fun

Many of us find it difficult to stick to some form of exercise; others don't know where to start. Experts say the key to taking up or keeping to any form of physical activity is to have fun. Get off the couch and enjoy getting fit by following these few simple steps.

Embrace your inner child

What types of activities did you enjoy when you were a kid? Did you participate in an organized team sport or do something less structured? Give them a try again. Take time out to discover what suits your physical, emotional and social needs.

Find an exercise buddy

Let's face it, we're more likely to stick to physical activity if we do it with friends or family. It's a great way to catch up and a great motivator.

Explore the local community

Join a club or community group — it's a great way to meet new people who may even become lifelong friends. You'll be surprised how many opportunities are out there — from leisure centres and sports clubs to parks, trails, organized classes or groups. Check your local newspaper or ask at the town office for contacts.

Start small

Increase your activity time and intensity gradually. Take extra care if you are new to exercise or haven't exercised for a while. Start out gently and build your endurance little by little — this way you'll avoid overdotonewall Community Registration Evening, Tuesday, September 11, 2018, 6:00-8:00 p.m. at the Sun

Keep up your interest by trying new activities. You may like to join others and sign up to a local fitness event, such as a fun run that raises money for a good cause. You'll not only be helping yourself but others in the process. Try a mantra

Replace "no pain, no gain" with "no fun, no future." If you are not enjoying yourself, you won't be able to sustain it.

Keep a training diary or journal

Take time to recognize these little improvements to your daily quality of life — it can increase your motivation. Reflect on how you feel before, during and after exercise. It's a great way to track your progress.

Reward yourself

Give yourself a reward each time you reach a fitness goal. It gives you the incentive to keep going. Treat yourself to something you enjoy, but make sure your rewards match your healthy lifestyle. As you make progress, you may find you end up rewarding yourself with something physical, such as a walk through the park after a hard day's work!

This popular interval class mixes calisthenics/body weight exercises with cardio and strength training to achieve the best results possible. No two classes are the same as each lesson is exclusively planned and is designed to push participants harder than they'd push themselves alone. This high intensity training experience encourages participants to find their unique personal upper limits, while they train hard in a fun and inclusive environment. Shred and Sculpt Circuit Interval training is suitable for all levels because all the moves are introduced gradually, and modifications (simple and challenging) will always be offered. *Please bring: indoor runners, yoga matt, water bottle and 5-10 lb weights. F18/10 TABATA (H.I.I.T CLASSES)

High Intensity Interval Training (H.I.I.T) is one of the most effective workouts to build up strength and the cardiovascular system. This work out immediately boosts metabolism, and past participants have said they feel "energized" and can "feel the burn" for hours after! Ideal for cross-training and healthy weight maintenance; every class consists of a variety of simple, yet intense, uniformly timed exercises. So, whether your goal is muscle tone, weight loss, or both, this class provides it. Tabata is suitable for many fitness levels because the participant will decide the intensity to put into each class, so being aware of personal minimum AND maximum limits is a must. *Please bring: indoor runners, yoga matt, water bottle and 3-8 lb weights. 8 Wednesdays starting September 12, 2018

6:30 - 7:20 pm at Stonewall Centennial School

F18/25 HALLOWEEN THEME OWL PRESENTATION

Come out and get up close and personal with a live owl! Learn about Manitoba owls with biologist and world owl expert Jim Duncan. Using a variety of media, personal owl impressions, owl parts and 'puke' (aka pellets), and Rusty (a female Longeared Owl) Jim will introduce you to the mysterious lives of these nocturnal creatures, and owls in mythology. Since 2005 Jim and his owl colleagues have given over 300 owl presentations to over 16,300 people, from pre-school kids to retirees. If you have not seen this presentation come out and see why it continues to be a much sought-after experience. Bring your camera or video camera and 'capture' Oska, a great gray owl, as she flies over your head,

Night is not something to endure until dawn. Darkness is its own kingdom ... and many things dwell in it. P.A. McKillip help your child fine-tune her ear and enhance skills needed for education and social interaction.

Between soccer and scouts, your school-age kid's schedule is loaded with fun activities. If you're on the fence about adding music classes to the list, take note of the benefits that come with signing your little one up for violin or piano lessons. Maybe she won't be the next Beethoven, but she may have an easier time learning math, practising good manners (including patience!) and becoming a team player.

It improves academic skills. Music and math are highly inter-ons. scientific principles.

It develops physical skills.

Certain instruments, such as percussion, help children develop coordination and motor skills; they require movement of the hands, arms and feet. Enhancing co-ordination and perfecting timing can prepare children for other hobbies, like dance and sports.

It cultivates social skills.

Group classes require peer interaction and communication, which encourage teamwork as children must collaborate to create a crescendo or an accelerando. If a child is playing his instrument too loudly or speeding up too quickly, he'll need to adjust. It's important for children to know and understand their individual part in a larger ensemble.

It refines discipline and patience.

Learning an instrument teaches children about delayed gratification. The violin, for example, has a steep learning curve. Before you can make a single sound, you must first learn how to hold the violin, how to hold the bow and where to place your feet. And in waiting for their turns and listening to their classmates play, kids learn to show their peers respect, to sit still and be quiet for designated periods of time, and to be attentive.

It boosts self-esteem.

Lessons offer a forum where children can learn to accept and give constructive criticism. Turning negative feedback into positive change helps build self-confidence. Group lessons, in particular, may help children understand that nobody, including themselves or their peers, is perfect, and that everyone has room for improvement.

It introduces children to other cultures.

By learning about and playing a variety of instruments, kids can discover how music plays a critical role in other cultures. For instance, bongos and timbales may introduce children to African and Cuban styles of music. Although the modern-day violin has roots in Italy, learning to play it exposes children to classical music popularized by German and Austrian musicians. It's important to familiarize children with other cultures at a young age because this fosters openmindedness about worlds and tradistars, under dark skies and steady seeing conditions, will split both into two stars hence a"double-double["] star system.

The next brightest star of the Triangle is Altair in the constellation of Aquila. This is a white star glowing at a magnitude of 0.7, a bit fainter than Vega. Altair is closer than Vega, its light needing only 17 years to reach us. Altair is similar to our sun in size.

The third corner of the Triangle is marked by the star Deneb in the constellation of Cygnus. This star is slightly fainter than the other two glowing at a magnitude of 1.3. While the other two stars are close to us Deneb is much more distant. Its light must travel over 1,500 years to reach Earth. To appear this bright at that distance means Deneb must be a supergiant star shining about 60,000 times that of our sun. Our sun seen from Deneb would be magnitude 13.3 (the dwarf planet Pluto is magnitude 13.9). The faintest stars that can be seen from a dark sky site without optical aid are about sixth magnitude. Deneb also marks the top of the asterism known as the Northern Cross. The bottom of the Northern Cross is marked by the star Alberio (Beta Cygni). It is one of the most beautiful double stars in the sky. A small telescope reveals the brighter component (magnitude 3.1) as a pale golden yellow and the companion (magnitude 5.1) as a sapphire blue. The similar brightness and the contrasting colours of these two stars make this one of my favouthe night sky.

A waxing crescent moon can be seen above Venus on September 12 just after sunset. The next night the moon has moved to the upper right of Jupiter. By September 17 the first quarter moon is just past Saturn on its eastward trek through the night sky. A waxing gibbous moon will make its way above and to the left of Mars the night of the 19th. Mars is now falling behind the Earth in its orbit around the sun and continues to fade in brightness throughout September. The dust storms on the planet Mars are currently subsiding allowing glimpses of patchy dark and bright surface markings. These can be seen during moments of good seeing through a telescope. The smoke laden skies we have been experiencing tend to degrade observations as well.

The autumnal equinox for 2018 occurs on September 22 at 8:54 p.m. CDT. This event marks the first day of the autumn season for us in the northern hemisphere. Those residing south of the equator bid farewell to winter and welcome the return of spring.

Plymouth Brethren to build new church

TRIBUNE PHOTO BY JENNIFER MCFEE Representatives from the Stonewall Gospel Trust attended a public hearing on Aug. 22.

By Jennifer McFee

Prayers were answered for Stonewall Gospel Trust, which got the goahead from Stonewall council to build a church on 12th Street West.

At a public hearing on Wednesday, Aug. 22, council learned about the request to build a small church at 190 12th St. West for the Plymouth Brethren Church to assemble in to fulfill their church calendar.

In the letter of intent, the applicant explained that the new church would be used mainly for smaller gatherings such as prayer meetings and the Lord's Supper.

"The Trust feels that the location chosen will be of least concern to those nearby and around," states the letter of intent.

"At the time of the gatherings, typically 10 to 15 households will be meeting at this church. Typically, each household will travel in one vehicle; however, some households are within walking distance to the proposed church."

Community members and church members own the residential properties to the north and west of the proposed church, while the Stone Ridge Meadows development is to the south.

The design and construction of the building will be consistent with the area, and the drainage will be designed to minimize impacts on nearby properties.

At the public hearing, one person spoke in opposition to the proposal with concerns about traffic and pedestrian access since there is currently no sidewalk on 12th Street West.

The South Interlake Planning District expressed no significant concerns with the proposal. Council approved the proposal with conditions.

worship with us FAITH The impossible commandment

Jesus commanded us in John 15:12 "This is My commandment, that you love one another, just as I have loved you." So here's GOD saying "I want you to LOVE just like GOD LOVES." That's like Sidney Crosby saying "I want you to play hockey like Sidney Crosby plays hockey." Good luck with that. It's impossible. God's not only an expert at love — the Bible says HE IS LOVE. If we think we can love like God on our own strength, we're not Christian, we're crazy. We put the "mental" in fundamental. And it's a train wreck. We see it time and time again, especially in the world news. You see, Jesus told us how to tell real Christians from fake crazies. John 13:35 says you can tell true Jesus followers by how they love. Simple. A God of love with a law of love should have a people of love. Think. What would the world look like if everyone loved like Jesus? Would we have less terrorism, war, hunger, suicides, school shootings, etc? You bet. Would we have happier people, better marriages and stronger communities? No doubt. But we're left with the question. How do we love like God? With us it's impossible, but with God all things are possible.

It has to be HIM living in us and through us. In John 15:5, Jesus says that if we ABIDE IN HIM and HE ABIDES IN US that we'll BEAR MUCH FRUIT (love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control). In Galatians 2:20 Paul writes "I am crucified with Christ; and it is no longer I who live, but it is Christ who lives in me." It's a supernatural thing. Jesus in us. A miracle. But it's also a gift God wants to give YOU. The gift of Himself. His presence. His power. His love. In your life. Jesus wants to help you achieve the impossible. Will you let Him? Cockerill enjoying time on Mackenzie Tour

By Brian Bowman

Aaron Cockerill had some rare time off from competitive golf last week.

With a tournament in Nova Scotia being cancelled due to a sponsorship loss, Cockerill's next stop won't be until Sept. 6-9 in Montreal.

"There's some off time right now and then we're headed to Montreal," said Cockerill last week. "In the three years that I have played (on the tour) I don't remember ever having that before so it's kind of nice to have some time at home."

Cockerill was among eight Manitobans competing in The Players Cup at Southwood Golf and Country Club earlier this month.

The Players Cup featured a field of 156 players and a purse of $200,000, which included $36,000 for the champion.

Cockerill carded rounds of 72 and 68 but missed the cut.

Still, he really enjoyed the local support from family and friends and not having to travel.

"That's my favourite event every year and the one I'm most excited to play in," said Cockerill, who now lives in Winnipeg.

"I wish it would have gone a little better. There was no wind down in Southwood so there was no separation in the field. Scores were very similar, there was like 15 guys at every number.

"I played OK but I didn't putt very good. I had some of the better ball striking that I have ever had but my putting was pretty pathetic."

There's no room for error amongst the talent-laden field on the Mackenzie Tour. A couple of missed putts can make the difference if a player gets a chance to compete on the weekend.

"The margins are just so small with being in contention or missing the cut," Cockerill admitted."If you miss a couple, then the next thing you know you're not playing the weekend and the scores have been so low.

"If you have a cold putter for nine holes, you're behind the eight-ball."

Cockerill's best finish this summer was at a tournament in Victoria where he finished tied for 14th overall.

"I was with the last group on Saturday and was in contention pretty much the whole weekend," he recalled. "That's kind of been the highlight of the year, I guess, so far.

"That showed me that if I play well and make some putts, I can pretty well win out there.

"It's just doing it on a more consistent basis."

He is currently 92nd on the order of merit ranking with $5,166. Cockerill feels, at times, he can play better.

"This year hasn't been great, it's probably my worst year but, overall, my game feels like it's OK," said Cockerill.

The 26-year-old isn't quite sure what the game of golf holds for him in the future. But he is really enjoying travelling to different cities.

"When I started this I had a five-year plan and I still have a little bit more time to see what I can do with this game," he said. "I'm heading to the European Tour qualifying school this fall in France and in Spain in October and November."

It's been a pretty wild ride for the talented Cockerill, who had a late start playing competitive golf as a youngster.

"I didn't start playing tournaments until I was about 15," he remembered. "I never would have imagined that this is what I would be doing. At 15, 16, I thought baseball was the goal and I just progressed to where I'm at now.

"I'm just thankful for the opportunity I've had these last three years and the places I've gone to. I've been super fortunate and it's been a pretty cool life experience."

Manitoba winless at 13U baseball nationals

By Brian Bowman

Team Manitoba finished with an 0-4 record at the 2018 13U National Baseball Championship in Woodstock, Ont., last weekend.

Manitoba started the tournament with an 11-5 loss to B.C. last Thursday. The teams were tied at 3-3 after the first inning and then Manitoba added a run in the third to take a 4-3 lead.

But B.C. responded with three runs in both the fourth and seventh innings while adding singles in the fifth and sixth.

St. Andrew's Andrew Hladun had a single and scored a run while St. Andrew's Rylan Sliworsky belted out a pair of hits, scored a run, and added an RBI.

On Friday morning, Manitoba lost a tough 8-7 decision to Ontario.

Manitoba took a 7-6 lead in the top of the seventh with a run but Ontario came back with a pair in the bottom of the inning for the walk-off win.

Balmoral's Bryce Meyers had a great game with two hits and three runs scored.

St. Andrew's Colson Smith drew a walk and scored a run while Stonewall's Rylan Slatcher knocked a hit and scored a run.

Sliworsky drew a walk in four plate appearances.

Later that day, Manitoba lost 11-8 to Quebec Grey. The difference in the game was Quebec's four-run fifth inning.

Smith was 2-for-2 with a run scored while Slatcher had a hit and RBI.

On Saturday, Manitoba was shutout 5-0 Prince Edward Island.

Hladun had a hit and was hit by a pitch in three plate appearances.

Woods striving for spot on Team Canada

By Brian Bowman

These days, it's rare for a Manitoban to compete at the Softball Canada Men's Fastpitch Nationals.

But Brady Woods will get that rare opportunity when he plays for Prince Edward Island at the nationals in St. Croix, N.S., this week.

The captain of the Canadian national team, Jeff Ellsworth, a former Winnipegger, invited Woods to play for P.E.I. at nationals.

"When the captain of the national team asks you to play, you say yes," Woods reasoned.

Woods just returned home from the ISC Championship in Kitchener where his Kegal Black Knights (based out of Fargo, N.D.) finished in a threeway tie for ninth.

Woods pitched in three games, compiling a 1-2 record with a 2.72 earnedrun average. He had a whopping 32 strikeouts in just 18 innings.

That tournament was a great tuneup for Woods heading into nationals.

"I've played against all of those guys before so we all know who each other are," Woods said. "All 40 guys on the national team will be there and all of the coaches will be there.

"It will be my first experience throwing at a men's national championship because Manitoba hasn't had a chance to represent with the game dying so bad (in our province)."

The nationals are very important for Woods as he would love to get another opportunity to play for Team Canada. He is currently on Canada's 40-man roster.

"This is the big one," he stressed. "The coaches were there last week and they watched me at all of the games that I threw there and they were all very happy.

"But this where they will probably pick the team the week after nationals. We'll know probably by mid-September who is going to the Czech Republic."

The 31-year-old Woods was last on Team Canada back in 2012. He was left go from the national team in 2013. "I wasn't playing enough," he explained. "The family life kind of got in the way. I have had two kids since then and a wife — that kind of takes over your life."

Woods started playing high-level fast-pitch again in 2016 when he finished on the All-World Team.

He had a tremendous arm in his 20s but Woods strongly feels he is a better pitcher now than six years ago.

"To be honest, I think it was a maturity level that I hit once I had kids," he admitted. "When I was 25, 26 and I was on the national team, I wasn't anywhere near mature yet. When I returned in 2016, things changed. I didn't have the attitude on the diamond anymore and it resulted in a better pitching performance.

"2016 was probably the best year I ever had and it was my first year after taking two, three years off."

Woods is now more of a pitcher rather than just a thrower looking to blow guys away with pure speed.

"That's 100 per cent the case," he said. "When I was 24, 25, I was obsessed with throwing the ball by people but now I get more joy making guys look foolish with changeups and stuff out of the zone."

The men's nationals will begin Wednesday and wrap up on Sunday.

Stonewall United playing sound soccer in August

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall United have been playing some real good soccer this month.

And they have been rewarded in the standings.

Stonewall now sits in sixth place in the 10-team MMSL Division 5 standings after a win and a tie last week.

The top six teams advance to the post-season.

On Aug. 21, Stonewall blanked a very good Interlake Impact team 1-0.

"The win against Interlake, who are high up in the standings, was good for us," said the United's Jason Ferris."Interlake has a lot of young kids and a lot of hustle, so it's a little bit tougher for us."

It looked like it was going to be a scoreless game until the Impact's goalkeeper dropped the ball, allowing Stonewall's Dylan Felgueiras to pounce on a loose ball and score the game winner with about eight minutes remaining in the game.

"It was one mistake and we capitalized on it," Ferris said."But, other than that, it was a 0-0 close game."

The United carried the momentum from that win into Saturday where they played to a 3-3 draw with Carmania SC.

Carmania SC led 2-0 in the first part of the opening half but Stonewall answered with three goals to take a 3-2 lead.

Carmania SC tied the score, however, with about five minutes remaining in the game.

Chris Thompson scored twice for Stonewall while Freddy Attiglah also tallied.

Carmania SC currently has 14 points, two ahead of Stonewall in the standings. The United has played two fewer games, though.

Stonewall has seven more games left in its regular season.

"We have a lot of games to make up," Ferris noted. "A couple of games got cancelled earlier in the season."

Stonewall will be in Portage to battle the Cobras on Thursday (if they have enough players) and then the two teams will clash again next Tuesday (6:45 p.m.) in Stonewall.

That contest will be the first of six games through the first three weeks of this month for Stonewall.

The United's Dylan Felgueiras battles for the ball during Stonewall's 1-0 win against the Interlake Impact on Aug. 21.

Klimpke enjoys national baseball experience

Staff

Manitoba finished with a 1-3 record at the 2018 Men's Baseball Championship in St. Thomas, Ont., from Aug. 16 to 19.

But the experience for Stonewall's Emerson Klimpke was a surreal one.

Klimpke, 20, was selected to play for the St. James A's, who were representing Manitoba at the national tournament.

"It was definitely something that I never thought I would be a part of because the way my season went, it wasn't the best," said Klimpke, who plays in the Manitoba Junior Baseball League with the Interlake Blue Jays. "I was definitely thrilled when I was hanging out at the house and my dad sent me a text to check my email.

"Sure enough, it was from the head coach of the St. James A's, Kevin Turney, sending me a message inviting me to go with them and I was super excited ... and the experience was second-to-none."

ago to earn a spot at this summer's nationals.

Manitoba started the tournament Aug. 17 with a 4-1 loss to Oshawa and then was defeated 8-3 by Newfoundland and Labrador.

The next day, Manitoba blanked New Brunswick 3-0 and before losing 10-5 to Mississauga North.

Klimpke pitched two thirds of an inning against Mississauga North, allowing two hits and a run.

He wasn't disappointed with the scarce playing time.

"I went for the experience and, if I got to play, then I got to play,"Klimpke reasoned."There were a lot of talented guys. That was the true all-star team of Manitoba."

The hitters are a lot tougher to get out at the national level, said Klimpke.

"It was so cool because I pitched against the champions, not knowing they were going to win it all," he said. "I've never experienced anything quite like that. It was different St. James won the MJBL title a year in the fact that the guys at the plate are skilled to the point and their approaches are amazing.

"Throughout the year, I could place pitches where I wanted and guys wouldn't touch them but some how, some way, these guys would get a piece of something. You had to be spot on against those guys."

Klimpke also earned a walk in his lone plate appearance.

Klimpke played mostly second base this past season with Interlake but he can play a multitude of positions.

"I was basically a utility guy with the odd time that we didn't have the numbers in our favour, Adam Kirk would just look at me and ask, 'Do you feel like playing centre field today?' and I would say, 'Sure, why not?'" he recalled.

"I started all the outfield positions, played at short, second, I pitched. I was all over the map."

Mississauga North won the gold medal after edging Windsor 6-5. New Brunswick took home the bronze after beating Quebec 7-2.

Victoria, which outhit Manitoba 14-4, scored a pair of runs in the top of the eighth inning.

Manitoba began the nationals with an exciting 8-6 extra-inning win over

New Brunswick Thursday afternoon.

Manitoba scored three runs in the top of the eighth inning while New Brunswick added just one in their half of the inning.

Turner had a very good game, finishing with three hits, a walk, and two runs scored.

Manitoba then lost 6-5 to Nova Scotia on Friday.

Turner doubled and walked in three plate appearances.

Sprague named Fearless offensive MVP

By Brian Bowman

Making a position change in football isn't easy.

In fact, it's pretty hard.

But Julie Sprague made her switch from offensive lineman to fullback with ease.

The Grosse Isle product was very, very good for the Manitoba Fearless this past season. As a result, she was named the team's most valuable offensive player earlier this summer.

"It was nice, I didn't expect it at all," said Sprague last Sunday. "Our tailback was amazing and essentially our whole offence but it was nice to get a little recognition."

Manitoba's talented tailback Hallie Eggie was named the team's MVP this past season.

"She'll just hit a seam if you could open up a hole, which is really nice," Sprague said.

Sprague, 20, loves to block but she does get the ball on occasion in Manitoba's run-first style of offence. Being a fullback is different than being a lineman.

"It wasn't the easiest transition," Sprague admitted. "But they are similar in many aspects. It took a little bit of time but it wasn't too bad."

Manitoba had a great offensive line this past season, said Sprague, and it was the best they have ever had.

"We're a super run-heavy offence," said Sprague, who has played five seasons with the Fearless. "Our passing game isn't necessarily there yet but it's getting a lot better and improving a ton."

The Fearless compete in the Prairie Conference of the Western Women's Canadian Football League.

Manitoba's competitors in that conference include the Regina Riot, Saskatoon Valkyries, and Winnipeg Wolfpack.

The Fearless finished this past season with a 2-2 record to place third in their conference.

"The way we played this year was better than it ever has been," Sprague said. "We've never been competitive with Saskatchewan but we were this year. Our defence has been stellar the last couple of years and our offence really stepped it up this year."

The Western Conference of the league features the Calgary Rage, Edmonton Storm, Lethbridge Steel and Northern Anarchy.

The level of play in the league is continually getting better. Players have to be at least 16 years of age to compete in the league.

"Every year, women's football is increasing and getting more popular," Sprague said. "There were amazing players when it started but it's starting to grow and the numbers are growing. "A lot of that is because of the awesome work of people starting minor programs. The word is getting out more, which makes a huge difference."

Manitoba places seventh at 16U Girls' Invitational Baseball Championship

By Brian Bowman

Team Manitoba finished in seventh place at the 16U Girls' Invitational Baseball Championship in Bedford, N.S., last weekend.

Manitoba's squad featured Stonewall's Megan Humeniuk and Teulon's Jacey Ledochowski.

Manitoba won the seventh-place game, defeating Quebec 2 by a 13-5 score on Sunday.

Manitoba led 2-1 heading into the bottom of the third and then the home side exploded for 10 runs.

Humeniuk belted a pair of hits, scored a run, and had two RBI. Ledochowski also had two hits, scored a run, and added an RBI.

Humeniuk earned the win on the mound, going four innings while striking out six.

Manitoba wrapped up play on Saturday with a solid 8-2 win over Nova Scotia 2.

Manitoba plated five runs in the top of the third inning and then added three more in the seventh.

Ledochowski contributed offensively with a single and two RBI.

Manitoba had a tough start to the tournament with a 22-4 loss to Alberta Thursday morning.

Alberta led 11-0 after the first inning and 18-1 after two in the four-inning game.

Megan Humeniuk was 0-for-1 while Ledochowski was 0-for-1 but was hit by a pitch and later scored.

Later that day, Manitoba was defeated 13-3 by Quebec 1 in a five-inning game.

Quebec, which scored in every inning, outhit Manitoba 10-6.

Humeniuk hit a single and scored a run while Ledochowski had a base hit. Humeniuk also pitched an inning and a third, allowing a hit and a run while striking out three. On Friday, Manitoba lost 17-3 to Ontario as the winners ended the game with a seven-run sixth.

Humeniuk earned a walk in the loss.

WATER AND WASTEWATER UTILITY ACTUAL OPERATING DEFICIT RECOVERY FOR 2017 &VARY OF BOARD ORDER No. 47/18 FOR ACTUAL OPERATING DEFICIT FOR 2016

PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD ORDER NO. 115/18

THE TOWN OF STONEWALL

As stated in Board Order 47/18 the rate rider of $18.35 per customer per quarter (effective April 1, 2018) will remain in effect until December 31, 2018. The Board varies the rate rider set out in Board Order No. 47/18 to account for the adjusted 2016 operating deficit, and include the 2017 operating deficit, to $0.31 per cubic meter over two years, or until the amount of $361,856 is fully recovered or whichever comes first. This rate rider is effective January 1, 2019.

The approved deficit recovery rates are provided:

	Year 1 2018	Year 2 2019	Year 3 2020
Deficit Recovery per Quarter	$18.35	$0.31	$0.31

 Flat rate $18.35 per customer per quarter for three quarters for 2018 for deficit recovery.

For years 2019 and 2020 $0.31 per cubic metre charge per quarter.

Details of the Town's PUB Order No.115/18 are available for review at the Town office or the Public Utilities Board's office.

PROPOSED QUARRY IN THE RM OF ROSSER Community Consultation Meeting

The previously advertised September 5, 2018 Community Consultation Meeting for the proposed Lilyfield Quarry has been POSTPONED until October 30, 2018. There will be no meeting on September 5, 2018. Our apologies for any inconvenience.

Under the authority of the Rural Municipality (RM) of Rosser's Quarry Operations By-law 8-15, Hugh Munro Construction Limited (HMCL) has applied to establish a quarry operation in part of the NE, SE and SW of Section 17-12-2 EPM in the RM of Rosser. Come learn more about the proposed quarry operation and speak with the quarry operator and technical experts.

DATE:	Tuesday, October 30, 2018 (RESCHEDULED DATE)
TIME:	7:00 PM - 9:00 PM
LOCATION:	Anderson's Hitch n' Post Ranch (2079E Rd 70N, Grosse Isle, MB, near the intersection of PTH 6 & Rd 3E)
FORMAT:	Formal presentation at 7:00 PM, followed by an opportunity to speak with the quarry operator and technical experts
APPLICANT:	Hugh Munro Construction Limited
RSVP:	Please RSVP to lauren.lange@wsp.com or call 204-943-3178

If you would like to review HMCL's Quarry Permit Application in advance of the meeting, you can access the document:

• In-person at the RM of Rosser Municipal Office (77E PR 221, Rosser, MB | 204-467-5711)

- Online at www.rmofrosser.com
- Request an electronic copy from lauren.lange@wsp.com

Prior to the Community Consultation Meeting, in accordance with the By-law, all interested persons are invited, no less than 20 days prior to the Community Consultation Meeting, to provide in writing to the Quarry Operator any comments, recommendations, suggestions, and/or concerns that arise from a review of the Quarry Operator's application.

All written comments, recommendations, suggestions, and/or concerns that arise from a review of the application can be forwarded to Lauren Lange, Planner, WSP Canada Group Limited, at lauren.lange@wsp.com, as WSP will be collecting all input from interested persons on behalf of HMCL. Any comments, recommendations, suggestions, and/or concerns that have already been submitted will be considered for the rescheduled October 30, 2018 Community Consultation Meeting and do not need to be resubmitted.

OBITUARY

William Everett Baker

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of our father and grandpa, Bill (William) Everett Baker on August 19, 2018 at Rosewood Lodge, Stonewall.

Father was predeceased by our mom, Alice Baker; by his parents, William and Grace; and by his grandson, Daniel. Also preceding him were his sister, Beverley and brothers-in-law Wayne, Tom, Stephen, and Joe, and sister-in-law Patricia.

Left behind to mourn him and to celebrate his life are his six children and their spouses, Chris and Netty, Wade and Joyce, Dale and Lorna, Barry, Jackie and Martin, and Colleen and Scott. Missing their Grandpa and biggest cheerleader are Chris Jr., Karen (Scott), Roberta, Patricia (Travis), Michael (Marie-France), Derek, Stefanie (Anthony), Robert (Dayna), Duncan (Brittany), Sam (Justine) and Nicholas (Gabrielle). Our Dad was blessed with seven great-grandchildren as well. He will also be missed by his sister Patti and brother Tom (Judy). Our dad grew up in the north end of Winnipeg and then lived happily with his new family in Story Mountain for over 55 years enjoying the suddars as besting the family set of the family in Stony Mountain for over 55 years enjoying the outdoors, co-hosting the family corn roast, and building projects in his workshop. During most of his working years he was employed by Bulman Brothers. He was a very social person and enjoyed talking with anyone and everyone.

Our parents loved animals, and in particular labrador retrievers and stray cats which at times were too many to count. As a result, flowers are gratefully declined with donations to the Winnipeg Humane Society being appreciated.

A private funeral will be held at a later date with interment to follow in Stony Mountain.

The family thanks the staff of Rosewood Lodge and Teulon Hospital who took such great care of him over the past three years. He considered you his extended family.
