Annual Relay for Life walk raises over $34K

Staff

Thundershowers outside did little to dampen the spirits of participants at the fourth annual Relay for Life last Friday. Hundreds came out to celebrate those who have won the battle, to honour those who are still fighting and to remember those who have since passed away.

Participants walked the make shift track in the Collegiate from 6-11 p.m. raising just over $34,000. Every dollar raised through the Relay for Life goes towards research and support programs through the Canadian Cancer Society.

Guest speaker Jenna Hopkins shared her families cancer journey asking for love and support as her mom Sue Ennis begins a clinical research trial treatment.

Cancer survivors and their loved ones walked the first lap led by the Khartum Shrine Pipes and Drums.

Dawn Bourque spoke during the luminary ceremony. She talked about her husband Gilles's treatment and the importance of fundraisers like the Relay for families dealing with cancer. Gil passed away in March 2019, one year after his diagnosis.

Every team had someone they were walking for.

This year's top fundraiser was Bev Heggie who raised $2,773.80 for her team the Stonewall Stompers and they raised a combined $4,396.10.

Alysha Gareau was walking for her daughter Natalie Smith who passed away last month, she raised $1,470.70. Bernadette Lagace raised $1,452.50. Her brother Matthew lost his battle to pancreatic cancer in June of this year.

Trevor King and his band Broke "N" Busted played throughout the evening providing music and words of encouragement.

Relay for Life chair of Stonewall's event Lana Meier would like to thank all the volunteers and supporters who helped make the event a success.

"The Collegiate staff and Jocelyn Derksen helped us to move the event indoors last minute and my entire committee made it happen," said Meier. "The track we made in the hallways was a little smaller than the track outside but we made the best of it. Everyone stayed dry and had fun. It was an incredible night with so much love."

Honouring those who fight for our freedom

By Ligia Braidotti

A group of four friends engaged in a super challenging and selfless task.

From Sept. 19 to 22, Laurie Andrusiek, her husband Matt, Mike Madson, and Richard Charette walked 153 kilometres to raise funds to the Royal Canadian Legion's Poppy Trust Fund.

Road to Recovery is an annual ruck march held by Ruck to Remember, a non-profit organization that supports frontline responders such as military, law enforcement, paramedics, and firefighters.

Ruck to Remember started in Ontario by Lino di Julio. The organization is in its sixth year raising funds and awareness for issues facing veterans in Canada, but this was the first time the event was held in Manitoba and the first time it was held outside Ontario.

"It's an honour to bring awareness to this kind of situation and do what not everyone can do to bring awareness to it is kind of a big feat, but it's something that I am happy to do. I'm very proud to bring it to Manitoba and have a group of great people to pull it off for the first year," Laurie said. "It's definitely something we're going to do again next year."

The Andrusieks, Madson and Cha-rette chose the Royal Canadian Legion's Poppy Trust Fund as the recipient of their donations. Through the funds, the legion provides financial assistance and support to veterans and their families.

Poppy Funds are used for food, healing, clothing, prescription medication, medical equipment, home repairs, emergency shelter, housing and care facilities, funding from Veteran Transition Programs, education bursaries and more.

The group explained the issue of homelessness among veterans is not well known in Canada, even though the numbers are pretty high. According to the 2016 National Shelter Study, approximately 2,400 veterans resorted to homeless shelters in Canada in 2016. The 2018 Point-In-Time Count provides a snapshot of homelessness in Canada, and their statistics show that veterans account for approximately 4.4 per cent of homeless individuals.

"Lino described it best when he said these guys put their lives on the line to defend our country and our lives and there's just no excuse they should be homeless," Matt said.

Despite blisters and thunderstorms, the group kept on steady and finished the march successfully. The group said the experience was honouring and rewarding. During the journey, curious drivers stopped to talk to the group and donated money to the cause.

Left to right: Richard Charette, Matt Andrusiek, Mike Madson and Laurie Andrusiek headed to Winnipeg from the Stonewall Legion shortly after 7 a.m. Sunday morning, to complete their 153-kilometre journey. The group walked to raise awareness and funds to the Royal Canadian Legion's Poppy Trust Fund, which helps our veterans who are homeless.

They also mentioned people were surprised when they learned that not all of them were veterans.

"People were surprised. They just assumed we were all veterans and people were surprised where we were like 'No, not all of us are. We are just passionate about the cause.' So hopefully people go home and start thinking about that. They can help out even if they are not directly involved," Madson said.

Charette, who is from Quebec but has been living in Winnipeg, is the only one in the group with a military background. He said he understands why some veterans end up homeless and feel helpless.

"They train us to be self-sufficient, to never give up, independent, fight to the end. You help each other as brothers and sisters, but outside of that tight community you don't go ask help to so and so," he explained. "It makes me sad that those men and women don't say, 'I need help.' It's a very complex problem to solve in the end."

The group's route was determined by the number of veterans and front-line workers who died in 2018. This year, the number totalled 148 kilometres. They started their journey in Lac du Bonnet Legion and stopped at the Beausejour Legion on Day 1. On Day 2, the group continued to the Selkirk Legion and followed to the Stonewall Legion on Day 3 and finished at the St. James Legion in Winnipeg on Day 4.

Put a pause to political finger-pointing

By Evan Matthews

In case anybody missed it this past week, Canada's Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is in trouble again.

This time, it's not for breaching ethics or for breaking election promises; it's for something far more thoughtless.

Blackface is an absolutely abhorrent "costume" by today's standards and completely 100 per cent politically incorrect.

One of the surfaced photos featuring Justin Trudeau as Aladdin with a darkened face is as recent as 2001, dating 17 years, making him a 30-year-old at the time.

You're not really a kid at 30, that's for sure.

But does the photo indicate Trudeau is a definitive racist? Not necessarily.

Does the photo indicate, at the very least, he didn't understand racism at the time? Likely, but also not necessarily.

We, as a society, actually don't know what the photos are indicative of. It could indicate nothing more than a bad choice, or it could indicate we have a racist Prime Minister in this country.

Or there could be nuance to the topic, and the photo could be indicative of neither of those things and could offer a glimpse into the changing of the times, the politically volatile environment we live in, and the socially sensitive times we live in.

In no way is something as obviously offensive as blackface an acceptable "costume" or "joke."

But for whatever reason, the Liberal Party of Canada will stand by its man, and Justin Trudeau will be the party leader heading into the next election as the Libs seek their second consecutive majority government.

The Progressive Conservative Party of Canada has chosen Andrew Scheer as the party leader, and they'll look to overthrow the incumbent Liberals.

Scheer has also been on the hot seat of late.

The CBC reported Scheer had said if a Conservative candidate made racist and/or homophobic comments in his/her past, the party leader would stand by said candidate as long as they had taken responsibility for those comments and apologized.

He more or less said, "People make mistakes."

And there are Conservative candidates, at the moment, being called racist, no different than Trudeau, for things they've said in the past. Look up the Conservative names John Hirst,

The moisture has arrived a little late this year for Interlake farmers; however, the above-average record rainfalls this past weekend were a welcome relief. Rain gauges varied from 2.7" near Argyle to 7.2" southwest of Meadow Lea. Looking ahead, the Weather Network predicts more rain later in the week. The Old Farmer's Almanac calls for below-average temperatures and precipitation. The Canadian Farmers' Almanac, which is always more vague, appears to call for colder-than-average temperatures along with near-to above-average amounts of precipitation.

Council makes good on promise

By Evan Matthews

Now official in the form of a resolution, Crescent Creek residents have nothing to worry about in relation to their access to Main Street South.

At its Sept. 17 meeting, Teulon council passed a resolution ensuring residents would have access to the road until such time an alternative road has been built and connected to the community.

The resolution made good on council's promise to Crescent Creek residents over the last few months; that no barriers will be installed to physically close Main Street, at least until such a time where the municipality could install a connection from Crescent Creek to 1st Street.

That process would heavily involve taxpayer consultation, according to council.

"Therefore be it resolved that council uphold this verbal promise to the residents of Crescent Creek," Deputy Mayor Ledarney read aloud.

Background

Residents and members of council gathered at the Teulon Rockwood Centennial Centre to discuss the "closure" of Main Street South on June 5.

By the end of the meeting, the majority of people had landed on the same page.

Because Main Street does not have an adequate base, Coun. Danny Hutchinson explained to the public that the cost associated with fixing Main Street would be more than triple the town's annual road works budget.

The road will remain open from Crescent Creek's entrance, north to the curling rink.

The change is, simply, to the designation of the road.

Prior to the "closure," the road was designated as a road allowance.

Now the road has been "closed," it is no longer considered a road allowance.

A 15-foot stretch running along the fire hall's property running from Highway 415 to 8th Avenue SE was surveyed incorrectly years ago, and the town is working with Manitoba Land Titles to correct the error and acquire the stretch of land.

Council has made a request to Manitoba Land Titles in order to have the strip of land given to the town.

With the road now "closed," and if Manitoba Land Titles grants the town its request, Hutchinson said the land will become a titled parcel of land (owned by the town).

An exact timeline as to when Manitoba Land Titles will finalize the request is unavailable, according to council.

The rationale for the change in the land's designation, in congruence with acquiring the parcel of land, relates to the new fire hall's site plan, and making sure its property boundaries are congruent with all adjacent properties and roadways, according to Hutchinson.

Hutchinson told taxpayers council has conferred with Manitoba Public Insurance regard-

The fish who stole the new rod

> Fish tales?

Call Arnie Weidl at 204-641-2210
sanarn@mymts.net

Hi folks.

The waves and swirling currents on the Winnipeg River by Pinawa churned about restlessly as Cindy Kovach from Selkirk came to stand on its bank, fishing gear in hand. Beside her, Cindy's sister, Shary, watched the mid-summer heat waves wafting above the water. Sweat poured from the women with every movement but they had come prepared. They put aside their rods and tackle boxes, shook out two expensive floating lounge chairs and inflated them. Baiting their pickerel rigs, they held their rods high as they boarded their chairs and pushed off from shore. Once out a couple of boat lengths, they dropped anchors linked by thin rope to their chairs, cast out and sat back waiting for action. Cindy glanced with affection over at her sister Shary. They had been fishing buddies for as long as she could remember.

Bobbing about in her chair, Cindy looked across the water at a flock of screaming geese who kept dunking their heads and wings in the water to cool off. Even on the cold water, Cindy found the heat stifling. She put her rod in the chair holder and lazily rolled over falling into the refreshingly cool river. She swam in a circle around her chair, and as she climbed back onto it, she saw her sister following her example. She lay back comforted in her short, wet summer wear.

The plastic of her rod holder squeaked as the rod in it twitched. Cindy shot a look at it and, yes, the rod's tip was jerking! She wrested it from its berth and began reeling in slowly gauging the size and kind of fish she was dealing with.

"It must be big it's sitting like a log!" Cindy cried out to Shary. "Maybe a walleye; the line is shuddering like it's trying to throw the hook."

Cindy locked her rod between her legs and flicked off the drag, giving the fish slack. At the same time, with one hand she pulled up the anchor as she paddled to shore with the other. Her chair hit the bank's weeds and she jumped off kicking it aside. She put her drag on and, standing on firm ground, reeled her fish in.

Not far from shore, her jackfish showed its long, narrow green back as it arched up breaking the water's surface. Cindy brought it to shore, thrashing from side to side in the reeds and mud.

"Watch out for its teeth. It might bite your feet," Shary cautioned.

Cindy stood over her catch, sizing it up and then quickly leaned down. With her long pliers deftly gripped, she freed her hook from the jack. Proudly Cindy held her fish as Shary took a picture and then they released it.

On a sunny warm afternoon last week, I drove down to the Selkirk waterfront pier and spent some time swapping fishing stories with the many anglers sitting side by side in folding chairs. One thin chap with short, brown hair and goatee stood out having given me a big smile and wave. I went over to him and sat down on the raised concrete edging of the pier as he said, "I'm John Wall and I've got a story for you Arnie."

I laughed, pulling out my recorder. "OK, let me have it."

He recalled how many years ago when he was 13, he went boat fishing with his father and family members around the Sandy Hook area on Lake Winnipeg. It was a hazy, dead calm day. They weren't far from shore as John sat beside his father proudly holding his new rod dad had just bought him. He cast out a short distance from the boat into flat mirror-like water. Soon young John saw a ripple on the lake surface. Then the water went flat again. Seconds later, John's rod was torn from his hands as a fish struck his baited hook. The excited young lad jumped up in the boat screaming. That fish had stolen his new rod!

Without thinking, he leapt overboard and started swimming for his rod that was skipping away just above the water. Sadly, he was not a good swimmer and was making little headway until his father cried out, "What are you doing? The water's shallow. Stand up!"

John's feet found the sand bottom and immediately began striding against the water after his rod. His body strained ahead and, with an outstretched hand clamped onto its handle, he could feel a hard shaking from the fish on his line. He turned to the boat and, putting the rod over his shoulder, stomped to his father's waiting arms. He felt himself being pulled aboard and, when settled in a seat, he reeled in. Soon a master-sized bass sprang wiggling from the water and young John had his fish!

Till next week. So-long friends.

> POLITICAL FINGER, FROM PG. 6

Justina McCaffrey or Arpan Khanna
Though, it's unlikely Scheer feels Trudeau made a mistake with his "costume."

But this is where it becomes frustrating.

Most people can agree, racism is bad; ignorance is bad.

Most people can agree, political discourse is good; conversations about social issues and a better society are good.

People do make mistakes, too.

If a person has owned up to those mistakes, they've apologized for them, then fantastic. Because, really, it's all they can do. Whether or not a person has changed their ways, unless you're a mind reader, is unlikely to be common knowledge.

Then, if a federal party chooses a person who has made past mistakes, so be it.

Society will hear about the mistakes, as always, and people within society will have their individual reactions.

Maybe these stories need to come out for political discourse, social conversations and the betterment of our society — inclusion.

But we need to stop the political finger-pointing and let the votes fall.

Before the votes fall, we need to talk about issues legitimately affecting Canadians: taxes, immigration, the national energy sector, global warming, agriculture, etc.

Those issues do not include Justin Trudeau in blackface or who Andrew Scheer chooses as his friends.

It's time for the political sphere to mature a bit.

Canadians are demanding better.

Warren Elementary students learn of Terry Fox's Journey of Hope

By Jo-Anne Procter

Alton Langrell, a Grade 3 Warren Elementary School student, shares a passion with the late Terry Fox — running and helping others.

Fred Fox, brother to Terry, paid a visit to Warren Elementary last Friday and was able to see first hand the effort that Alton has put forth in fundraising efforts as well as bringing awareness to his classmates of the history of Terry Fox and what he has done for Cancer Awareness.

Fred first met Alton when he joined his mom Rene Langrell, a teacher at Sturgeon Heights in Winnipeg, to listen to one of Fox's presentations. It was at that time that Alton decided he needed to help raise funds and bring awareness to Terry Fox's Marathon of Hope.

Alton began collecting pledges and running in his school's Terry Fox runs.

"Some people donated online, and we knocked on doors and asked friends and family," Alton told the Tribune.

But it didn't stop there. Alton asked his mom if they could make big banners with information on them about Terry's journey. A colleague of Rene's, James Rogowy designed the banners with permission from the Terry Fox Foundation. Alton and his mom put together an exhibit to honour Terry Fox in the Warren Elementary School multi-purpose room. The banners stand with footsteps taped to the floor following a map of the route that Terry Fox ran through eastern Canada until his Marathon of Hope came to a halt due to his cancer returning.

Alton is very proud of the exhibit. "The banners are interesting to see, so we have a little bit of information for everyone in my school," he said.

Fred Fox was impressed with the banners. "They (the banners) are amazing. It sounded like a fantastic idea, but to see them and the information, it is just a beautiful tool for kids to learn about Terry and to read about Terry," he said. "He (Alton) is an amazing kid. Seeing anybody that young, inspired by Terry, fundraising, doing what Terry did, wanting to help out and make a difference in other people's lives. To see somebody like that is just amazing."

Terry was doing it to help other people. "Terry would say it is important to help others and that is what Alton is doing."

Fred Fox, who lives in Maple Ridge, B.C., visits schools and community events across Canada to share his personal story of growing up with his brother Terry and some of his memories of his brother's journey during his Marathon of Hope.

Grade 4 student Katie Atchison presented Fox with a booklet she made for him about Terry Fox and his Marathon of Hope.

Terry Fox's story is well-known to Canadians of all ages. After having his right leg amputated 15 centimetres above the knee due to osteogenic sarcoma, a type of bone cancer, at the age of 18 in 1977, he decided to run across Canada to raise funds for cancer research.

He embarked on the Marathon of Hope in St. John's, N.L., on April 12, 1980, and ran 5,373 kilometres. Terry was forced to abandon the run on Sept. 1 of that year when doctors in Thunder Bay confirmed that the cancer had spread from Terry's leg to his lungs.

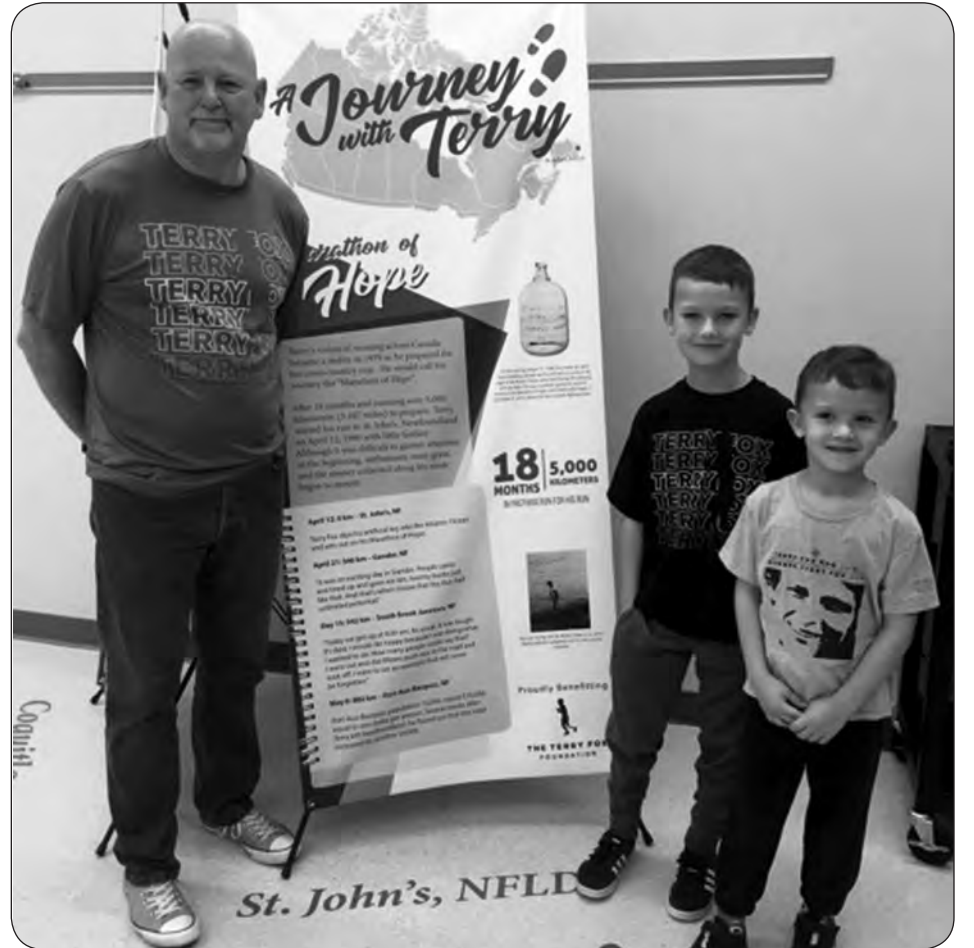

Fred told his audience that their mother, Betty Fox, remembered that from an early age Terry never thought about quitting. Fred recalls their mother instilling in the Fox children that when you start something, you finish it to the end, whether it was colouring a picture or playing on a sports team.

Terry loved to compete and was a very passionate athlete. When the suggestion of organizing an event every year, the Terry Fox Run came to fruition with Terry suggesting it take place in September as he was forced to stop running Sept. 1, 1980.

Terry Fox passed away on June 28, 1981, at the age of 22.

His legacy continues through the annual Terry Fox Run every September. Thirty-three countries, including 9,000 schools in Canada, participate in Terry Fox runs. An astounding $750 million has been raised in Terry's name. Over the past 39 years, these funds made an indubitable impact on research and have fuelled much of the advances made in the fight against this disease.

"It is so great to see that Terry has inspired young people to carry on his dream. Terry wanted to make a difference, Terry wanted to impact cancer research in this country and could never have imagined 39 years later this was happening, that young people would carry on his dream," Fred said.

For well over 15 years, Warren Elementary has come together to raise funds and make a difference through a Terry Fox run.

"The money you guys are raising is truly making a difference. A cancer diagnosis isn't nearly the way it was 10, 20, 30 years ago but we know we still have work to do," he said.

"Terry was just an average ordinary kid, that showed us that one person can make a difference. Each and every one of you can make a difference in whatever you want to do."

This year, Alton

and his younger brother Copper, who is in Grade 1, raised $1,685.40 for their Terry Fox Run.

Quarry Physio celebrates 25 years in Stonewall

By Jennifer McFee

Congrats to Quarry Physiotherapy for marking a milestone 25 years in the community!

The local clinic opened in October 1994 by co-owners Scott Allan and Stephanie Roberecki. In recent years, the partnership has grown to include Sherry Scott and Beth Gutkin Roy.

"We're celebrating our 25th in Stonewall but our group of clinics started 30 years ago as Physiotherapy Works! in downtown Winnipeg," Allan said.

"Then 25 years ago, we opened up the clinic in Stonewall and provided physiotherapy services. Since then, we've expanded and grown in a number of ways. We found that the patient was better served if you're able to offer a selection of other complementary services, so it expanded over the years to bring in several more services."

These additional services include massage therapy, occupational therapy and chiropractic services.

"We have nurses who do foot care and we have a sports medicine physician on staff that works at one of our other locations. We have athletic therapists, kinesiologists/personal trainers and a dietician," Allan said.

"We have lots of specialty physiotherapy services as well, such as pelvic floor therapy for both men and women. We also have therapists who specialize in vestibular rehabilitation for patients that suffer from balance disorders and vertigo."

In an entrepreneurial spirit, they also decided to open up other locations. Currently, locations are set up throughout the Interlake including Stonewall, Arborg and Gimli, as well as downtown Winnipeg, Creekside Physio and in Sage Creek, plus two in Portage la Prairie. They also go out to Gillam twice a week in conjunction with Manitoba Hydro.

"Over the years, we opened up these clinics under different names other than Quarry Physio with the exception of the three in the Interlake," Allan said.

"In the last couple of years, we've amalgamated them and we now call ourselves the inMotion Network of Physiotherapy Clinics and More. The 'more' represents all the supplementary services that we provide."

Although 25 years has passed, Allan still remembers their first patient in Stonewall. "We were delayed in opening. At the time, Stephanie and I were the physiotherapists at the clinic and we had a patient booked. We didn't have our occupancy permit at the time, so we couldn't actually physically treat patients at the clinic. So Stephanie went out and did a home visit with the first patient," he said.

"That was our first connection to the community in terms of developing an ongoing relationship now 25 years strong. We've always been big believers in customer service and we do everything we can to make the patient experience as good as it can be and to meet or exceed patient expectations. About half of our patients are referred directly by physicians. The other half are patient-initiated referrals and repeat patients."

The community connections continue with a dedication to supporting and giving back to community initiatives, including charities, local events, fundraisers and sporting teams. Over the years, they've raised more than $125,000 for the MS Society. In the past four years, they've also raised more than $12,000 for CancerCare Manitoba and Children's Hospital Foundation through the dragon boat races. This year, they even won their recreational class in the race.

To celebrate its long-standing history in the community, Quarry Physio will host an open house on Friday, Oct. 4 from 4 to 7 p.m. at 3-347 Main St. in Stonewall. The event will feature some wine and food, as well as live music, stories and some laughter.

"We want to say thank you to the community and to our great staff," Allan said.

"Thanks for the support and the continued patronage of the clinic. We've had a lot of patients over the years that have become friends, and that's a reflection of our commitment to the community."

ing the use of the road after the closure, and MPI stated as long as the road is maintained to the same level it was prior to the "closure," there is no liability issues associated with using the road.

Meaning, the road will remain open to public use, and in the unfortunate case of a vehicular accident, someone could make a claim to MPI the same way they would on any other roadway.

If, in the future, the current or a future council decided to physically close Main Street South — after being granted ownership of the 15-foot stretch on the fire hall's land title — and due to poor conditions, Hutchinson said the municipality would look at an alternative entrance to Crescent Creek.

"We could connect Crescent Creek (Estates) with 1st Street," said Hutchinson, emphasizing this situation and decision would come way down the line, after Manitoba Land Titles granted the town's request.

Hutchinson also made it known that Crescent Creek residents, and other taxpayers, would be included in the process.

"The entrance, rather than entering and exiting on Main Street, would involve entering and exiting on 1st Street," Hutchinson said, adding 1st Street is wider, with a better base, and would be easier to maintain to an effective standard.

Council made a promise to Crescent Creek residents that there would be no barriers installed to physically close Main Street until such a time where the municipality could install a connection from Crescent Creek to 1st Street.

At that time, the "closed" portion of Main Street would become a walking trail as part of the Active Transportation Network. Ledarney also told residents at no point will their physical address ever change.

Teulon CAO resigns amidst council strife

By Evan Matthews

The Town of Teulon is without a chief administrative officer.

The former CAO's resignation was confirmed by the town's spokesperson, Deputy Mayor Mike Ledarney.

When asked if CAO Steg resigned due to council transgressions over the last number of months — in addition to being named a defendant in Mayor Debbie Kozyra's legal case against the majority of council, town resident Shannon Dupont and former-CAO Steg — Coun. Ledarney said, "In a general sense, yes."

"Doreen initiated talking to an auditor because there were things being said about her and the office and the way it was being run," said Ledarney.

"The auditor took a look at what was being said and published, and after talking to Doreen — keeping in mind he has familiarity with how things are set up in our system — he offered an opinion based on his knowledge."

Former CAO Steg could not be reached for comment by press time, nor could the exact date on which she resigned be confirmed by press time.

Neutral auditor clears Steg's name

Though the council has been split from the get-go, Teulon Mayor Debbie Kozyra took aim at the administration — former CAO Steg, specifically — back in May.

In order to clear her name, after the mayor accused her of filing town legal expenses in a deceptive way, former CAO Steg then contacted the Town of Teulon's contracted auditor, Anthony Reid of Reid and Miller Chartered Professional Accountants.

Coun. Ledarney said Reid had sent a letter to the town and found upon analyzing the mayor's accusations that the former CAO acted in good faith and had not made an error.

At Teulon's May council meeting, Mayor Debbie Kozyra began questioning a payment to "Phillips Aiello" during the meeting's "list of accounts for approval" section.

The town's list of accounts for approval stated the payment to Phillips Aiello totalled $5,169.75.

At the meeting, Deputy Mayor Mike Ledarney stated these were the fees paid to a lawyer who the town had consulted in regards to Mayor Kozyra's election expenses.

CAO Steg assured the Tribune the administration allocated the funds in the correct place.

The town had a few different subcategories to "legal" accounts, she said at the time, listing bylaws, disputes and property transactions, just as a couple examples.

Because of the confusion, Steg said at the time administration had eliminated all subcategories of legal accounts, meaning all accounts payable now fall under one "legal services" category.

"It is unfortunate that the (category) name was not changed to 'legal services' prior to the (Phillips Aiello) invoice being processed since it would have avoided this confusion," said Reid.

"But I feel the account used was the best choice to use."

Rosser council news in brief

By Jennifer McFee

At the Sept. 10 meeting, Rosser council passed a resolution to enter into an agreement with CIBC for $6 million in bridge financing.

Council had previously passed a bylaw to authorize borrowing and spending money for a wastewater collection system and water distribution system to service the developed portion of the Rosser CentrePort Phase 1 Stage 1A area. The project would include any feeder mains from the intersection of Klompke and Farmer roads and from the feeder main under Canada CentrePort Way, as well as a low-pressure sewer connection to the City of Winnipeg wastewater line at Brookside and Inkster boulevards as a local improvement.

In other council news:

- Rosser council hosted a public hearing about a conditional use application to build a new single-family home on Road 72N. Council conditionally approved the request, with Reeve Frances Smee abstaining from the vote.

- Council will submit the Wheatfield/Roy Roche road replacement project for grant funding through the Investing in Canada Infrastructure Program. The RM will commit its share of $88,044 towards the project.

- Reeve Frances Smee will be the presiding officer of the Board of Revision for 2019, with the four councillors and Bob Brown as members of the board.

- Council defeated a resolution to approve a tile drainage application and preliminary plans dated Nov. 27, 2017, submitted by Precision Land Solutions on behalf of Jim McCowan.

- Council approved culvert crossing applications for Goldenrod Drive and Road 7E, with the applicants to cover the cost of supplies and installation.

- Council approved Manitoba Hydro's proposal for electrical work on Ronn Road.

- Council approved Bell MTS's request to install facilities on municipal rights of way.

- Council passed third reading of a resolution to regulate the distribution water system in Rosser. Coun. Lee Garfinkel was absent from the vote.

Council receives correspondence from legal counsel

Mayor's campaign expenses to be discussed

By Evan Matthews

Though the rest of Teulon will have to wait, legal counsel has reached out to Teulon council in regards to the mayor's alleged breach of The Municipal Act.

Deputy mayor and spokesperson for the town Mike Ledarney confirmed the town's correspondence with lawyers at the Tuesday, Sept. 17 meeting, which caused Coun. Barb Mankewich to appear surprised.

"Where do we stand on this, and how much has (the town) spent so far?" Mankewich asked, receiving an answer of roughly $7,500 spent investigating the mayor's alleged breach of the Municipal Act.

"When did we discuss the (correspondence)? Is it on the agenda for next meeting? It should be. I'm in the dark on this. I don't know what's going on," she said.

But there may be good reason for Mankewich's lack of understanding on the subject.

Though Ledarney said council would discuss the correspondence with all members of council (in camera) when they're advised to do so, to date, lawyers have advised majority of council otherwise.

"Mayor (Debbie) Kozyra, she is — for lack of a better term — the subject of the (legal) investigation," said Ledarney, who added it is actually Coun. Danny Hutchinson who is acting as primary contact between the town and the lawyers.

"Our lawyer has urged us not to share information with the mayor," he said.

With an obvious split between council, one could glean legal counsel would advise the same filter of information relating to Coun. Mankewich given her association to the mayor.

Mayor Kozyra released a brief statement to the media following the last meeting.

"Upon advice of my legal council and the pending legal litigation, I will not be responding or commenting on these matters," Kozyra said via email.

Ledarney said council expects to have discussion and correspondence between the town and its lawyers brought forward to the next council meeting, though the correspondence would be in-camera and not open to the public.

For the in-camera portion relating to the mayor's legal expenses, legislation states Mayor Kozyra would be forced to recuse herself from the table.

Ledarney also said it would be unlikely for the public to receive any significant updates on the legal investigation before some sort of resolution comes to be.

Mayor's litigation

As previously mentioned, the mayor's statement was limited.

The mayor did not provide an update relating to her upcoming legal defamation dispute against councillors Danny Hutchinson, Rey Girardin, Mike Ledarney, town resident Shannon Dupont and former CAO Doreen Steg.

Deputy Mayor Mike Ledarney said the named defendants have been advised not to comment until the matter is resolved.

Mobile blood donor centre comes to Stonewall

By Jennifer McFee

Generosity is in the blood of Stonewall residents.

Canada Blood Services' mobile donor centre came to town on Sept. 17 with a goal of collecting 120 donations at the centre.

Town council showed their commitment to helping Canadian Blood Services achieve that goal by "adopting" the Stonewall mobile donor centre. Mayor Clive Hinds, Coun. Peter Bullivant and Coun. Jackie Luellman were on hand to greet and thank donors who walked through the door of the Stonewall Legion Hall.

Blood donors are always in demand to make a difference in the lives of patients in need. To book appointments for upcoming blood donor clinics, call 1-888-2-DONATE, visit www.blood.ca or download the GiveBlood app. The next scheduled blood donor centre in Stonewall is set for Tuesday, Oct. 29 at the legion.

Canadian Blood Services is a not-for-profit charitable organization that is regulated by Health Canada.

McLeod House Tearoom continues with new owners

By Jennifer McFee

Changes have been brewing at a popular tearoom that is steeped in local history.

McLeod House Tearoom and Gift Shop changed ownership on Monday, Sept. 16, with founder Leanne Stewart handing over the keys to new owners Jon and Joy Billings.

Stewart launched the business in 2003 and spent the next 16 years building it into a strong local business. The eatery and gift shop are housed at 292 Main St. in a turn-of-the-century home built in around 1898 by Dr. Alexander McLeod, who ran his medical practice from the building. His son, Alan, received the Victoria Cross for his brave efforts and service during the First World War.

"The house has such a great charm that way. There's this nice story behind the family. It's important to tell it and to keep it alive," said Stewart, a Stony Mountain resident.

"It's a draw to the area and we've really thrived in growing a destination experience."

For Stewart, she's looking forward to entering a new chapter of her life while also appreciating the one that's drawing to a close.

"You just get that kind of feeling in your belly," she said.

"As hard as it is to say goodbye, it just feels like time for me to move on and let somebody else take it to a new level."

Looking ahead, she plans to take some time to rest and enjoy life.

"I hope to catch up at home and to do some things I haven't had the ability to do, like maybe some mini trips. Then I'll re-evaluate. I think sometimes when you sit back and take some time, the right thing comes your way," she said.

"I haven't really had time to focus on that yet because I was just focusing on the business. It was a very busy summer. Also, with the sale happening, it took every ounce of energy and time, so now I'll sit back and relax and figure it out."

While she transitions to the next phase, Stewart will miss the daily connections that she forged at the tearoom.

"I'll definitely miss the customers and the day-to-day contact with everybody, especially my staff. We're all good friends and we enjoy working together as a great camaraderie of women. It's a really great work atmosphere, so I'm really going to miss that. It will be hard to replace," she said.

"I'm also going to miss the buying and creating and the new seasons. There's always something new."

As she embarks on her new adventure, Stewart extends her gratitude to the community.

"Thank you for such a wonderful experience and for helping us grow our little gem. Everyone has been so supportive and the community at large has been fantastic. It's been an honour to serve everybody and to be a part of the community," said Stewart, overcome with emotion.

"We worked really hard to keep that standard and quality. I've made so many friendships and had great relationships with customers. I thank them and I wish them all the best. I've enjoyed this so much and I'm thrilled that it's continuing on."

For the new owners, Stewart also wishes them well with the home-grown business.

"I would like to express my hopes and wish the new couple the best," she said.

"I've been helping for the last two weeks to guide them, and I wish them all the best and success."

The husband and wife duo moved in 2012 to Balmoral, where they're raising their four children.

Jon Billings describes himself as a "serial entrepreneur," while his wife Joy is an artist by trade.

"I've been involved in multiple different businesses. We've been looking around for things for the last number of years and we just stumbled across the Tea House," he said.

"We looked at some of the options for it and what was involved, and it hit all of our marks."

The local business stands out for its ambiance and the character of the home, he said, as well as the excellent service from the staff and high quality food and merchandise.

"One of the best things about it is that nothing really needs to change between 10 and 4, which are the normal operating hours. We plan to have the same reliability and the same quality of service and food. Our focus is more after 4 p.m. We'll see what the future brings for different events and special evenings," he said.

"We're looking forward to diving into this role. It's a new adventure, so we're looking forward to the challenge of it all and we're looking forward to being able to service the community."

Billings encourages everyone to follow McLeod House Tearoom and Gift Shop on Facebook and to check out the website at www.mcleodhouse-tearoom.com, which will be updated soon.

Lions Manor marks 30-year milestone with barbecue

By Jennifer McFee

Congratulations are in order for the local Lions Manor, which recently celebrated its 30th anniversary with an end-of-summer barbecue.

On Wednesday, Sept. 18 the Lions Manor staff and tenants joined together for two barbecue sittings, with the first group at 11:30 a.m. followed by a second gathering at 1 p.m.

General manager Andre LaFleche welcomed the crowds with a short speech.

"Over 30 years ago, members of the Stonewall Lions Club felt the need of senior housing in Stonewall and had the foresight to plan and build a 52-suite independent living senior complex. A building committee that included Gordon Kernsted, Cole Campbell, Keith Cosens and Glen Durant had many challenges but were able to complete the project," he said.

"Financing at that time would have been a nightmare. The life-lease concept was new and this was one of the first life-lease complexes in Manitoba. Many people told the committee, 'You'll never fill up that building.' Look at us now. With 197 suites and over 270 residents, the Manor still has a waiting list and people are eager to move in."

The facility officially opened on Dec. 2, 1989. From that initial move-in date, three tenants remain at the building: Muriel Lillies, Robert Mollard and Carolina Nagy entertained by playing the violin.

Eva Cameron. Soon after, Gary Munro moved in, and those four tenants have been living at the Lions Manor for 30 years.

The current Lions board includes chairperson Mel Harrison and vice-chair Bill Ridgeway, as well as Gary Durant, Len Kolenich, Dick Slatcher and Pam Palcat. LaFleche reports to this committee and together they all make decisions on running the current Lions Manor.

Tenant Allen Hickey spoke at the first barbecue sitting, noting how privileged he feels to be living at the Lions Manor. Shohn Godin of the maintenance department cooked the hotdogs and Diane Mailman prepared most of the meal. Caroline Nagy provided entertainment by playing the violin at the event.

Manitoba is celebrating gender equality this week

Submitted by Manitoba government

The Manitoba government is celebrating Gender Equality Week by recognizing the record number of women candidates in the 2019 election, Sustainable Development Minister Rochelle Squires, minister responsible for the status of women, announced Tuesday.

"Equality is the foundation from which everyone can lead healthy, happy and fulfilling lives," said Squires. "I want to recognize the record number of diverse candidates who identify as female, 2SLGBTQQIA, and women of colour who put their name forward on the ballot this fall to help make democracy work, advance gender equality and create a more thriving, prosperous Manitoba for all."

On Sept. 10, a record number of women were elected to the Manitoba legislature including women that identified as Indigenous women, 2SLGBTQQIA and/or women of colour.

The minister noted the Manitoba government has taken a leadership role in addressing gender equality within in the Manitoba legislature. Since first elected in 2016, some of those significant initiatives include: creation of the Gender Based Violence Committee of Cabinet; updated respectful workplace policy; creation of the legislature's first gender-neutral washroom; and record number of women represented on the province's agencies, boards and commissions.

Stonewall council discuss policy for filming industry

By Jennifer McFee

At the Sept. 18 meeting, Stonewall council approved a policy regarding film work in the town.

"The Town of Stonewall has become a destination location for the film industry. Given Stonewall's location in relation to the City of Winnipeg, its inventory of unique buildings, and extensive community beautification efforts, the Town has seen significant filming activity in recent years," states the document.

"It is the intention of this policy to provide for the facilitation of the filming industry by providing an efficient procedure for obtaining municipal approval while at the same time protecting the residents and businesses from injury or loss."

The town supports the film industry in its efforts to work in the community. At the same time, the policies and procedures aim to minimize the impact on the public and ensure the safety of property and people during filming.

As well, the implementation of the policy acknowledges the potential economic loss to businesses due to filming as well as the need to provide fair and reasonable compensation.

The policy ensures that the film industry won't cause damage to public or private property. If damage does occur, the film industry will be responsible for repairs or compensation in lieu of repairs.

Applications for a filming permit will be required, along with a non-refundable application fee of $200. Applicants must also provide proof of at least $2 million in public liability and property damage insurance.

The policy includes a list of permits, fees and services the might apply while filming in Stonewall.

In other Town of Stonewall news:

- Council approved a schedule of rates for private works. These rates will be charged if municipal equipment, materials or labour are needed for private works on private property in the municipality. Private works won't take precedence over the town's public work and they will only be considered if private contractors aren't available in the general area to perform the work.

- The regular council meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 2 has been rescheduled to Tuesday, Oct. 1 at

- A special screening debut of a new documentary focused on collaborative leadership will take place on Thursday, Oct. 10 at 7 p.m. at Park Theatre (698 Osborne St.). The short documentary, filmed by Denis Paquette and Carmen Henriquez, captures the journey of the mayors and reeves of the Winnipeg Metro Region and the chiefs of the Southern Chiefs' Organization, led by CIER.

Together, they've worked for two years to build a foundation of trust and tackled the challenges of collaborative leadership. Free tickets are available through EventBrite for the event entitled "Collaborative Leadership Hits The Big Screen! (Public)." Donations will be accepted with proceeds going towards the Bruce Oake Recovery Centre. The project received financial support from The Winnipeg Foundation and Environment and Climate Change Canada.

Dementia Friendly Communities

The Alzheimer Society hosted a very informative evening on Dementia, Caregiving and Dementia Friendly Communities in Stonewall September 19. It is important for business owners and their staff to understand how to provide helpful, courteous service to their customers living with dementia.

Here are some points from the evening:

Approximately 2/3 of people with dementia live in the community. It is estimated that ¼ of them live alone.

Dementia is being recognized as both a health and social issue. Care partners of people with dementia benefit from supportive communities too.

People with Dementia want:

- To be treated with greater respect and courtesy.
- Service providers to be more skilled in communicating with them.
- To feel more included in groups.
- Community places to be better signed and safer.
- To be empowered to make choices.

Dementia Friendly Customer Service:

Remember that most people with dementia do not look different than others in their age groups.

They may appear a bit lost or confused, have problems expressing themselves or understanding you, have difficulty in handling money, or forget to pay for things

Ways to help:

Be open and friendly and ask:

National Small Business Week October 20-26, 2019

Why should we celebrate Small Business Week?
Small and medium-sized businesses are the foundation of the Canadian economy, accounting for 99% of all businesses. In 2015, these businesses employed approximately 10.5 million Canadians in the private sector. With the small business industry growing, it is important that we take the time to celebrate our Canadian entrepreneurs, their successes and their contribution to Canada's economy.

Files from <https://www.thinkingcapital.ca>

SHOP LOCALLY I work my local economy!

My local economy needs to work! My neighbour needs to work, my cousin needs to work, and so does my best friend. By shopping in my town and in my community, I work my local economy. By becoming a "local" customer, I exploit my local economy. By shopping at home, I help create jobs in local businesses. I support my neighbourhood business owners. In the end, I benefit abundantly!

It is a win-win situation, for me and everyone else. My purchases represent revenue for the merchants. The more I buy at home, the more my local merchants are able to offer stable employment. In turn, the employees have the necessary financial resources to work the local economy. A local economy that works well stays healthy and everybody benefits.

I also spread the word to my friends and family. If, every week, I encourage one person to work the local economy, who, in turn, invites one other person to do the same, just imagine the contribution we can make to our region! An economically strong region always ends up reinvesting part of its profits into the community that works it. In addition to jobs, a strong economy also creates parks and children's playgrounds, water fountains and landscaping along commercial streets, a flourishing community where it is pleasant to live.

Celebrating fall at Pumpkinfest

By Jo-Anne Procter

It was pumpkin everything at Teulon's annual Pumpkinfest this past weekend.

There were pumpkins for sale, pumpkin carving, a presentation on growing gigantic pumpkins, pumpkin pie bingo, a pumpkin pie eating contest and, of course, the largest pumpkin competition.

Jason Terwin of Carman claimed first place in the largest pumpkin competition with his 1,007-pound pumpkin, which also happens to be the largest ever entered at the event. Second place was awarded to Gerald Fehr of Tyndall for his 622-pound pumpkin and third place was awarded to Stony Mountain's Mr. Walker for his 622-pound pumpkin.

The activities for all ages were endless with games and entertainment, a petting zoo, pony rides, food trucks and a fair competition that included entries of fall arrangements, canning, photography and more.

The community hall was filled throughout the day, starting with a pancake breakfast, a farmers market, vendors, speakers and fall family photos. Due to inclement weather, the Golf Ball Drop by helicopter, a fundraiser for Teulon Rockwood Rec was rescheduled to Oct. 5.

Health Foundation supports patient care with the purchase of ultrasound machine

Submitted by IERHA

Stonewall and District Health Foundation's recent donation of $65,110 was used to purchase a portable ultrasound machine for the hospital.

This new ultrasound will allow physicians to perform non-invasive diagnostics while giving a clear picture of soft tissues that do not show up well on X-rays. Portable, real-time imaging makes it easy for staff to diagnose and treat patients quickly, leading to better health care.

Stonewall and District Health Foundation board member Kevin Beresford says he's thankful to the Interlake Eastern Health Foundation for their assistance with facilitating the purchase.

"It is the Stonewall and District Health Foundation's pleasure to provide the funds for the purchase of state of the art ultrasound equipment for the Stonewall and District Health Centre emergency department. This equipment will be used to assist physicians to more accurately diagnose and treat patients, enabling optimal patient care close to home. Our thanks to the Interlake Eastern Health Foundation for their assistance in facilitating this purchase."

Stonewall physician Dr. Pinniger is happy to obtain such a valuable tool for the health team in Stonewall.

"On behalf of the physicians of the Stonewall Hospital, I would like to thank the Stonewall and District Health Foundation and the Interlake-Eastern Health Foundation for their generous support in the purchase of the ultrasound. Point of Care Ultrasound is becoming a standard in the provision of quality medical care in many settings, including the emergency department. The new ultrasound will be put to good use as it assists us in medical problem solving and aids us in performing safer medical procedures. Its use will only increase over time."

Interlake Eastern Health Foundation executive director Pamela McCallum hopes that the Stonewall and District Health Foundation's kindness will plant further seeds of giving within the community.

"We thank the community of Stonewall and it is our hope that this donation will serve to open doors to other thoughtful donors who are interested in sustainable health care in their community."

Our mission is to raise funds that

Dawn of the Space Age

By Ted Bronson

Space age history was celebrated this year with the 50th anniversary of the Apollo 11 landing on the moon. Neil Armstrong was the first human to set foot on the moon on July 20, 1969. Buzz Aldrin followed shortly afterwards.

Another date in space history is coming up shortly in October. This was when the first artificial satellite was launched into Earth orbit. The date was Oct. 4, 1957.

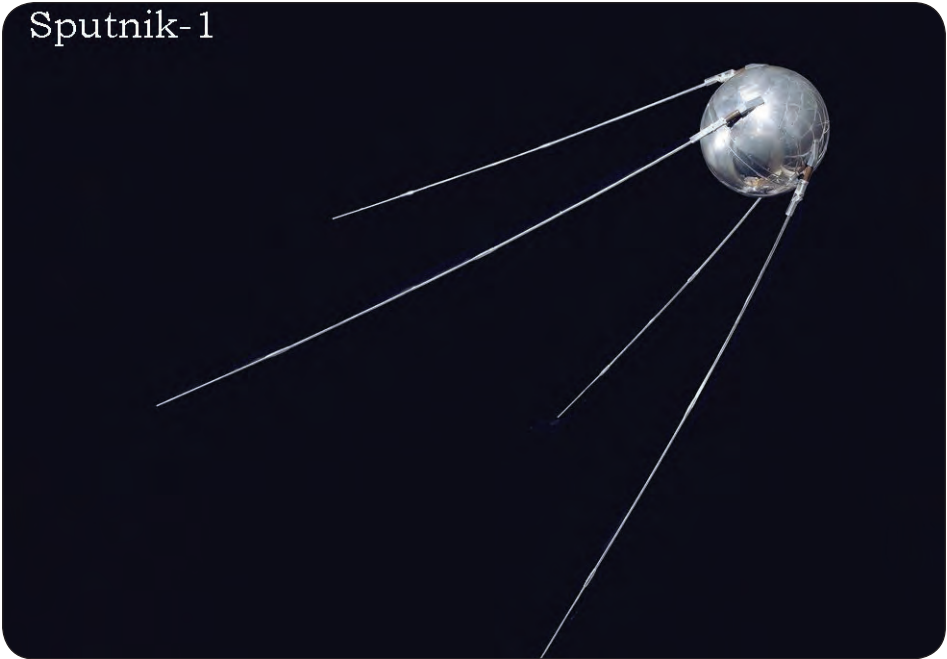

The launch of that craft, the Soviet Union's Sputnik 1, kicked off the space age and the Cold War space race, the latter of which peaked when Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin stepped onto the surface of the moon in July 1969.

Sputnik 1 weighed 83 kilograms (184 pounds) and was 58 centimetres (23 inches) in diameter. This measure refers to the satellite's body, Sputnik 1 also carried four whip-like antennas that were 2.4 to 2.9 metres long. The antennas looked like long "whiskers" pointing to one side. It was the size of a beach ball with antennae. The word "Sputnik" originally meant "fellow traveller" but has become synonymous with "satellite" in modern Russian.

I was quite young at this time but remember hearing on the radio about something being launched into orbit and going around the Earth in a little over an hour and a half! Wow! It took us over two and a half hours to get from where I lived in Southern Ontario to Toronto. I happen to mention this fact to an acquaintance of mine who explained to me that the satellite moved much faster in orbit than our car does on the highway.

I was a little disappointed to find out afterwards that what I actually saw was the R-7 rocket body that boosted the satellite into orbit rather than the satellite itself. The rocket body followed the satellite into orbit and was much larger and brighter than Sputnik 1.

Sputnik 1 was the first artificial satellite that was launched into Earth orbit.

It doesn't matter if I saw the payload or the rocket body, I still saw this historic event — the first man-made objects placed into an Earth orbit. Sputnik circled the Earth for three months. It carried a radio transmitter. It did 1,440 orbits of the Earth during this time. It re-entered Earth's atmosphere on Jan. 4, 1958, and burned up. This is one of my favourite times of year to be outside to be stargazing. The autumn season has begun and darkness descends early enough in the evening. This allows me sufficient time to be outside under the stars after dinner and well before bedtime. The temperatures are moderate as compared to late fall and winter nighttime observing and no bugs either.

About an hour after sunset, Jupiter will be visible very low to the southwest. Its bright yellowish colour makes it stand out amongst the faint stars of the constellation Ophiuchus. Saturn becomes visible in the constellation of Sagittarius low in the south at the beginning of October after the sun has gone down. Despite its low altitude, the Ringed Planet is still spectacular in a small telescope. It sets around 11:30 p.m. at the beginning of October and 9:30 p.m. by month's end.

The moon can be a good guide to finding the planets. The crescent moon can be found to the upper left of Jupiter on Oct. 3 after sunset. By Oct. 5, the first quarter moon has moved to a position to the lower left of the planet Saturn once darkness has fallen. The full moon is on Oct. 13. This particular full moon is known as the Hunter's Moon.

As a community service, I am available to do talks on astronomy or related subjects to teachers, students, scouts, guides or any community groups who would be interested. I can be contacted by email at bronsont@mymts.net to schedule a presentation.

Teulon Rodeo Club earns bragging rights at banquet

By Jo-Anne Procter

Blood, a lot of sweat and the odd tear paid off for the Teulon Rodeo Club on Sept. 14 when it was announced that the local club was voted best of the year.

The Teulon Rodeo Club received recognition they have worked very hard for at the annual Heartland Rodeo Association finals and awards banquet held in Grunthal.

Don Bean, special projects co-ordinator for the Teulon Rodeo Club, told the Tribune that the acknowledgment is kind of like winning Best Picture at the Oscars.

"We are so proud of the members we have. They are all such great, hard workers," Bean said.

After six years of trying really hard, and missing out by two votes last year, the Teulon Rodeo Club was successful this year.

The Heartland Rodeo Association (HRA) that was created in 1995 to promote and continue the sport of rodeo in Manitoba, with the entire family in mind, giving contestants of all ages the opportunity to compete in rodeo events throughout the province. They have approximately 150 contestants signed up that compete and can vote for Best Rodeo of the Year.

For the past 24 years the HRA has awarded the prestigious Rodeo of the Year award at their annual banquet in conjunction with the HRA Finals.

"Teulon has come very close in the past years to winning this award," HRA committee director and HRA finals chairman told the Tribune in an email.

"The Teulon rodeo arena and grounds are always in great shape due to the year round commitment to ensuring the HRA members and horses safety," Claude Potvin stated.

"The Teulon Rodeo Club has a great volunteer base that helps out at all corners of the arena during the rodeo to ensure an extremely smooth rodeo is produced."

Bean explained that there is a lot taken into consideration when voting — the facility itself, the organizing of the event, how smoothly it runs overall and, of course, the prize pot.

The HRA membership vote for the rodeo that they enjoyed the most over the course of the season.

"We are very proud of the facility we have in Teulon. A lot of work goes into the facility through the members of the club and volunteers that we round up," Bean explained.

It costs over $25,000 to host a two-day rodeo.

"We really have to thank our sponsors, past and present. Without our fantastic sponsors, we certainly would be struggling a lot harder to make this happen."

There were approximately 130 contestants that participated in the Teulon Rodeo this year.

- Terrance Caumartin (Narcisse) won the 2019 HRA Finals Team Roping Champion (heeler) and the 2019 HRA Finals Tie Down Roping Champion.

- Jillian Overby (Teulon) won 2019 HRA Finals Ladies Barrels Champion, while Bobbie Fairlie (Woodlands) is the 2019 year end Goat Tying Champion.

Many other local cowboys and cowgirls competed at the HRA Finals collecting checks for day monies and aggregate placings.

New playground coming to Norris Lake campground

By Jennifer McFee

Youngsters will be jumping for joy thanks to a new playground that will soon be donated to Norris Lake Provincial Park.

Teulon Game and Fish has been fundraising for the past few years for the fun new equipment, which will be installed in the campground near the beach.

"Their playground equipment was condemned years ago and it was taken out so they have nothing there now. A few years ago, a couple of the members put forward a proposal that we do some fundraising to put in the playground," said Terry Hartle treasurer for the Teulon Game and Fish.

"So we've been doing fundraising for the last number of years by putting on a ball tournament at Inwood."

In total, the project is worth about $24,000. Half of the cost will be covered by a grant, while Teulon Game and Fish is contributing the other $12,000.

The playground equipment features four swings, including one for a baby or toddler. There will also be a couple of spinners and a ride-on duck that rocks back and forth.

"The playground equipment has been ordered and it will be delivered on Oct. 3. Then we're hoping that it will be installed a week or two after since it has to be installed before winter," Hartle said.

"Once it's installed, we're going to donate it back to the province for the park and they'll assume all liability."

Over the years, the Teulon Game and Fish has further invested in Norris Lake through an aeration project as well as by donating two docks to the area.

The organization welcomes new

Team Klimpke looks to have strong curling season

By Ty Dilello

Stonewall's Emerson Klimpke is starting his last season of junior curling and is hoping to go out on a high note. Skipping a brand-new team, Klimpke would like to be one of the teams on top when the dust settles at this year's U21 provincials.

Last year, Klimpke played third for Team Payette out of Brandon. They went 5-2 in the round robin at provincials before falling in a tiebreaker to eventual finalists Team McDonald.

"Team Klimpke came together when Jayden Rutter asked me about curling for this upcoming season with Reece Hamm, Tim Johnson and himself as they were looking for a skip," said Klimpke. "After the skip from my previous team moved on, I wasn't sure if I would be curling at all this season as I wasn't sure if I had a team or not. It was a late decision so I was behind the eight-ball since everyone else had already committed to the same or new squads for the 2019-20 season. I was pretty excited that they wanted me to skip their team as I played third for many years and so far it's been an easy adjustment to make throwing the last stones."

After joining forces late last winter, the new Team Klimpke got a few bonspiels under their belt and have finally started to come together as a team.

"Our first spiel as a team was last spring in Teulon. We went 1-2 and failed to qualify for playoffs. Then we played in another MJCT event in Morris and again we failed to qualify. The following weekend we went into the spring berth bonspiel where we finally came together as a team and went on a roll. Unfortunately we lost the game prior to a berth game and it was at that event when I believed that we had a chance at any event we play. Fast-forward to the Don Baldwin MJCT in Elmwood in April where the boys and I went on a tear and ran the table winning the Don Baldwin Memorial Championship."

A few weekends ago, Team Klimpke had their first MJCT event of the new season in Grand Forks, where they once again qualified for the playoffs.

"In Grand Forks we went 2-1 through the round robin and qualified for Sunday. We lost in the semifinals to the eventual winners Team Johnson. Overall the weekend was a success as we grew more as a team and, again, we qualified for playoffs. Any time you are playing on Sunday, you know you've done something right."

Klimpke plans on playing a lot this season with their next event coming up this weekend at the St. Vital Curling Club in Winnipeg.

"As for the rest of the season, our schedule is pretty busy. We play in the Larry Jones Classic (Sept. 26-28)

Emerson Klimpke will be skipping his own team this season hoping to compete at the U21 provincials later this season.

in St. Vital, Stonewall MJCT (Oct. 3-6), Heather MJCT (Oct. 18-20), Quality Inn MJCT in Winkler (Oct. 25-27), Kyle Flett MJCT in Petersfield (Nov. 7-10), Sun-Life Invitational Junior Challenge (Nov. 14-17) in Brandon, and if we qualify, the MJCT Tour Championships at the Assiniboine-Memorial (Nov. 29-Dec. 1). If no U21 provincials' berth is secured in the fall, we will enter the regional play-downs in December. With it being my last year of junior eligibility, I wanted to enter in as many events as possible," says Klimpke.

"Our goals for the season are pretty straight forward. We always want to be one of the teams playing on Sunday. The old saying 'Just get in' means a lot to me as anything can happen if we play the way that I know we can play as a team."

High school hockey returns to Stonewall Collegiate

By Brian Bowman

High school hockey is back at Stonewall Collegiate.

After taking a one-year hiatus from the Winnipeg High School Hockey League, Stonewall returns to the ever-popular league.

To prepare for the regular season, Stonewall will play a pair of exhibition games this week with the Miles Macdonell Buckeyes.

"Around our building I think people are excited," said Rams' head coach Kyle Nixon. "We had a lot of bodies out and kids from all grades, which was good. And now to actually play some games, even though it's still obviously exhibition, it will be nice to see that instead of just practices and inter squads and things like that."

The Rams hosted Miles Macdonell this past Tuesday but no score was available at press time. Stonewall will play the Buckeyes on Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. at the River East Arena.

The Rams had 35 players come out for tryouts, which was a pretty good number of players. That total included eight goaltenders.

"I told the guys to keep their options open because we can't keep everybody," Nixon said. "We'll make our team Friday after a couple of exhibition games and our league scheduling meeting is next week and we'll get started after that."

It's very unusual for that many goalies to come out for a team's tryouts.

"One year, we actually had one goalie and we had to bring a kid out from Oak Park to play as our second backup goalie," Nixon recalled. "I have never seen eight guys come out before and they were all decent goaltenders, too, so we'll have some tough decisions."

The Winnipeg High School Hockey League regular season will begin in early October. As of this week, Nixon said they still didn't know which of the three WHSHL divisions they will be competing in this season.

Thunder gash Golden Bears in home rout

By Brian Bowman

Another week, another lopsided victory for the Interlake Thunder.

Interlake improved its record to 3-0 after a wild 63-30 home win over the Virden Golden Bears in Rural Manitoba Football League action last Thursday in Stonewall.

Interlake led 28-22 at the half before playing some outstanding football in the third quarter.

"It was a shootout in the first half, for sure," said Thunder head coach Mitch Obach. "There were 50 points and it was a one-score game but they turned it on in the third quarter and kind of cruised through the fourth."

Interlake had a huge kickoff return for a touchdown to start the second half.

With the 63 points scored, Interlake now has a league-high 181 points in just three games. That's an average of 60 points per contest.

"They've really been sharp," Obach said. "I don't think I've ever seen this in a game before, but we had eight offensive touchdowns and eight different guys scored touchdowns. It was really well distributed and we were scoring in a lot of different ways so that's good to see."

Thunder quarterback Josh Charison was 9-for-13 and passed for 127 yards and three touchdowns. He also had a rushing TD.

Interlake running back Brady deLaroque had a monster day on the ground with 217 yards on just 10 carries and a touchdown. He also had the kickoff return for a TD.

Gabriel Perrie, Kelby Arndt and Aaron Zdrill also had rushing majors while Graeme Perrie, Athan Nadon and Carter Fuerst hauled in TD passes.

On the defensive end, though, the Thunder defence allowed more points than Obach would have liked. Interlake's defence was tremendous in its first two games but showed some weaknesses against Virden.

"We had a solid game the week before but there were a couple of things that we definitely noticed while seeing the film afterwards and I don't think we got them corrected in time and that came back to burn us a bit," Obach said. "We definitely have some things to work on there but, obviously, we're very excited with the second half that we had. ... They really buck-

West Sabres (3-0) in what should be a great matchup at Stonewall Collegiate. Kickoff is 4:30 p.m.

Stonewall holds successful pickleball tournament

By Kelly Goodman

South Interlake 55 Plus (si55Plus) Pickleball Tournament committee members are proud of the success of their first-ever event held at the Stonewall Curling Rink Sept. 6-8.

At least 107 teams (214 players) registered to compete. This was the second largest tournament in Manitoba, next to Beausejour's. But it was the first in Manitoba to have International players — coming from Grand Forks, Fargo and Bemidji.

They were so impressed that they plan to return next year bringing many more friends. In Manitoba, players of all ages (18 and over) came from Winnipeg, Stonewall, Warren, Argyle, Stony Mountain, Teulon, Winnipeg Beach, Matlock, East St. Paul, Beausejour, Lac du Bonnet, Pinawa, Victoria Beach, Arborg, St. Adolphe, Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Souris, Elm Creek, Winkler, Morden and more.

Lightning winless at Central Plains exhibition tournament

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Female Lightning finished with an 0-4 record at the Central Plains Capitals' exhibition tournament last weekend.

But that was kind of expected.

"It was basically an evaluation weekend for us," said Lightning head coach Dean Rebeck. "Evaluating individual players, rookies that have not played at the provincial 'AAA' level yet, and we worked on systems...so we can transfer those systems from practice to game situations."

"That's what we were looking for and that's what we got."

Rebeck noted the Lightning had four players approached by university scouts after the exhibition.

"That gives us an indication as to how much those girls have improved from last year to this year," he said. "Last year, we had nobody that was interested and this year we had four right off the hop."

Interlake will open its regular season this Sunday at 6:30 p.m. against the Eastman Selects in Steinbach.

The Lightning are looking forward to playing some meaningful games as they hope to peak come playoff time (every team in the league advances to the postseason).

"We split (the season) up into two halves," Rebeck noted. "The first half is getting to know the players, whether they can play on the pp or pk, and what the bottom line is in terms of their development from now until Christmas. And then after Christmas, it's a game on type of thing."

"Last year, the rookies got better with each game and they started picking stuff up. Some are going to learn quicker than others...for some, it's going to be a month and a half to learn what they need to learn."

Interlake's first home game is Oct. 5 when it hosts Central Plains in Stonewall. Puck drop is 8 p.m.

Jets open MMJHL regular season at home Friday

Staff

The real season is set to begin for the Stonewall Jets.

Stonewall will open its 2019-20 Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League regular season this Friday at home against the Raiders Jr. Hockey Club.

The Jets will then visit the River East Royal Knights on Sunday.

Puck drop for both games is 7:30 p.m.

The Raiders, with a new coaching staff, will be looking to avenge last season's playoff loss to the Jets.

Stonewall finished its exhibition schedule with a 2-2 record.

The Jets wrapped up their preseason last Friday with a 6-3 road win over the Transcona Railer Express.

Stonewall erased a 3-2 third-deficit with four unanswered goals in a 13:39 span.

Marcus Dewey, with his fourth goal during the preseason, and Ryan McMahon scored power-play goals just 17 seconds apart early in the third. Ryan Kochen and Matthew Smith then tallied late in the game.

Jordan Rodgers scored a first-period goal for Stonewall and then Carson Ouellette added a second-period marker.

Kyle Lamont, with a pair, and Evan Sumaling replied for Transcona.

Stonewall outshot the home side 47-29. Adam Swan earned the win in goal for the Jets.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANNOUNCEMENT

IN MEMORIAM

Doug Mailman
June 9, 1936 – September 28, 2018
Lovingly remembered as a very special partner and friend, father and grandfather
It has already been a year
But all of us still shed our tears.
Those we love don't go away
They walk beside us every day.
Unseen, unheard, but always near
So loved, so missed and held so dear.
There needs to be no special day
To bring you to our minds
For days without a thought of you
Are very hard to find.
The words of warm encouragement
That make each dream worthwhile
We miss your charm, your laugh, your witty jokes,
But being around you is what we miss the most.
We feel you walking with us
Every single day,
And know you're watching over us
At home, at work, at play.
Forever in our hearts.

-Love,
Marilyn and family

Your memory will live forever
Engraved within our hearts

OBITUARY

Harold (Harry) Harman

April 22, 1922 – September 17, 2019

It is with deep sorrow the family announces the passing of Harry. He was predeceased by his wife Laura of 56 years and daughter Donna as well as three brothers Norman, Eric, Ernie and grand dog Koko.

Harold is survived by son Lorne (Valorie); daughter Dodi (Marc); grandchildren Chris (Carrie), Stacy, Justin (Shohreh), Erik (Nicole), Brandon, Lance, Peter, Amanda and special niece Lynn (Ed) as well as several great grandchildren.

Harry served with the Navy in active duty in the Second World War. Dad worked with Good Year where he was transferred to B.C. and retired in 1981.

Mom and Dad enjoyed travelling and later moved back to Winnipeg. After the death of his wife, Harry resided in Stonewall at Lions Manor and then Rosewood Lodge.

Dad enjoyed playing cribbage and watching sports. He enjoyed riding his scooter (aka the Harley) on his visits to Lorne and Valorie's house to spend time with his grand dogs – Koko, Oliver and Kinsey and having the odd shot of rum.

Special thanks to Dr. Graham and the homecare workers at Lions Manor and all the great staff at Rosewood Lodge for making his stay as comfortable as possible.

As per Harry's wishes there will be no service. Cremation has taken place.

A NOTE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

Due to the nature of this sale, we felt a brief explanation is essential.

At closing, 6 p.m. Sat. Sept 28th we will tally the 20 days of paid sales and divide by 20 to get the average daily sale. The day which is closest to this average, without going over it, will be the day which ALL purchasers will receive their purchase amount back, taxes excluded.

In the case of credit card (Smitty's, Visa, Mastercard) purchases, we will issue a credit immediately.

As we are tremendously overstocked right now, every item in stock will be included in this sale. No exceptions - clearance, damaged, discontinued, even new arrivals; furniture and appliances.

We must reduce our inventory and to ensure we do, we will even give it away for one day!
