When you are a business owner, there comes a time when you need to let go.

Darlene Appleyard, the owner of Stonewall's Hallmark, will be closing that chapter in her life in mid-February.

"Anyone who owns their own business can understand that there comes a time when it is the time that you do it, and for me, this is the time," said Appleyard.

After her husband, Vern Appleyard, the original owner, passed away from cancer almost two years ago, she managed the store in Stonewall and the three in Winnipeg.

Vern was one of the original owners of the Dollar stores (A Buck or Two, the Hallmarks in Winnipeg and Brandon). He took over his family's pharmacy business after becoming a pharmacist.

Initially, the pharmacy had cards, and Vern wanted a bigger selection and space for gifts, so he opened the first Hallmark store.

From there, he opened one in St. James in Winnipeg and then went on to open several others, which is how the couple met at a store in Winnipeg, and it snowballed from there.

After spending a large chunk of her life managing the Hallmark stores, she said it wasn't easy to decide to close that chapter.

Over the years working at Hallmark, Appleyard said she has had many great memories helping other people find the perfect gifts.

"There are so many stories that all of us, who call ourselves Hallmarkers, have experienced. It's very emotional, and there are very special stories that we have with customers," said Appleyard.

Stonewall's Hallmark will close mid-February after 31 years in business.

One memory in particular that has stuck out to Appleyard was when a lady came back to the store a year later to thank her for helping pick out the perfect card to give her husband while he was undergoing cancer treatments. Her husband was in remission that year, and she said to Appleyard that she would be the only one allowed to pick out his card.

"It's touching. It makes you a part of something, and you remember those people, and you remember those stories because they are emotional, and it's someone who is entrusting you to help them," said Appleyard.

Darlene Appleyard, owner of the Hallmark store, will continue to operate the Stonewall Pharmacy.

"It's a very relationship-based industry because you are always dealing with celebrations, occasions and memories; some are happy and some are sad. It's a different type of retail because you are engaged with the customer and finding them that perfect card or gift for the occasion that it is. It's very satisfying to work."

Even though Stonewall's Hallmark will be closing, residents can still shop for the perfect gifts at one of the Hallmarks in Winnipeg, although not owned by Appleyard. Appleyard believes the future of her stores are in good hands.

Last year, she sold her store on Kenaston and in Polo Park mall to a gentleman who is a fellow Hallmarker. When his mother bought her first Hallmark, she was pregnant with him. In April, he will also take over the store in Kildonan Place mall.

"That legacy that Vern started is going to continue, and that's important," said Appleyard.

The family of 83-year-old Beverley Ransom is taking legal action against Oak Park Estates, a rental apartment in Woodlands, for allegedly failing to accommodate their mom's special needs for an emotional support animal. The pomeranian, shown here, has had a positive impact on their mom.

By Patricia Barrett

An apartment complex in Woodlands issued an eviction notice to a senior who got an emotional support animal (ESA), and that has prompted the woman's family to take legal action.

Oak Park Estates plans to evict 83-year-old Beverley Ransom from her rental suite by the end of January, according to Ransom's family, as well as her pomeranian, which is classed as a toy dog because of its small size.

Ransom's doctor had prescribed an ESA to assist with her mental health disabilities, which include depression and anxiety, said her daughter Kara-Lynn Savoie. Before the dog arrived, Savoie sent emails to a member of the Oak Park Estates board, asking what steps needed to be taken regarding the dog. She got no response. After the dog's arrival, Oak Park responded, saying the building is a non-pet facility and the dog "doesn't qualify as a service dog."

Savoie said she and her siblings believe her mom's case represents a violation under The Human Rights Code as people cannot be penalized for having a disability.

"My mom is upset. My brother and sister and I are trying to shield this from mom as much as we can, and that's why we're taking this on. We don't want to send her or her anxiety over the edge so we're acting as her voice. She's our mom; for everything she has done for us over the years, we need to do for her," said Savoie. "She does know she's to be evicted at the end of January, but she said, 'I'm not giving up my dog. The dog is helping me.""

The lawyers for Savoie and her siblings filed a statement of claim with the court Jan. 10 against Oak Park Estates Inc., alleging the non-profit corporation hasn't considered accommodation of Ransom's special needs based on her disabilities, which include depression and anxiety, and asking for interim and interlocutory relief from evicting Ransom from her apartment, court costs and other relief as permitted by the court.

Ransom "relies on and/or requires a dog ... to ameliorate the detrimental impacts that her Disabilities have on her," the claim states, and that Oak Park Estates has "refused and continues to refuse to consider any reasonable accommodation of ... Ransom's disabilities and/or ... Ransom's special needs based on her Disabilities ..., or otherwise engage in the procedural or substantive aspects of its statutory duty to reasonably accommodate ... Ransom's Disabilities and her special needs based upon her Disabilities."

has deprived or restricted Ransom's rights under The Human Rights Code to not be subjected to discrimination on the basis of her disabilities and her special needs.

The allegations have not been proven in court.

Savoie said the need for an emotional support animal stemmed from the death of her stepfather, who died suddenly at home and was found by her mom. The family moved their mom into a few different housing complexes after that, but the new living arrangements made her feel isolated and lonely. Nothing made her happy. After her mom's doctor wrote a letter saying Ransom would benefit from an ESA, Savoie and her siblings started looking for a suitable animal.

"She was diagnosed with depression and anxiety and the doctor also believes she has a touch of PTSD

4 The Stonewall Teulon Tribune Thursday, January 19, 2023 Family Doctor Finder waitlist shrinks in some Interlake communities

By Jennifer McFee

The waitlist to find a family doctor is shrinking in some Interlake communities, which shows a healthy improvement for patients seeking care.

As of Dec. 14, a total of 87 Interlake residents were on the waitlist for Family Doctor Finder, a resource that aims to link Manitoba residents with a home clinic. Individuals seeking assistance to find a home clinic or primary care provider can register with Manitoba Health.

Wendy Meek, primary care connector for the Family Doctor Finder program, said several local communities with new doctors have seen significant improvements in the length of their waitlists.

"Gimli and Beausejour have obtained new doctors, so waitlists for these communities have decreased." Meek said, noting that the length of the waitlist changes daily.

"The waitlist has also definitely decreased since Easton Place in Selkirk has brought in new providers.'

Between February and September 2022, the waitlist for Selkirk decreased by 77 per cent, with no patients waiting by the end of October and November.

Selkirk's Easton Place Clinic welcomed Dr. Temitope Ajayi from the U.K. in February, Dr. Jennifer Wilson from South Africa in mid-August and Dr. Idowu Dare from the U.K. at the end of September. They join Dr. Anthony Anozie, a general surgeon who started the clinic in December 2019.

Easton Place Clinic, a Manitoba College of Physicians and Surgeons accredited facility, has space for 12 fulltime primary care physicians, Anozie said. Currently, the clinic has seven physicians (four full-time and three part-time) and four clinical assistants. For Anozie, he enjoys practising as a surgeon in Selkirk thanks to the appreciative patients, friendly community, proximity to Winnipeg and the new hospital.

"We hope to continue to develop our extended clinic opening hours, Anozie added.

Marianne Tom, clinic manager for Easton Place Clinic, said Dr. Anozie is always working to recruit more physicians. Recruitment efforts include networking and advertising in Canada and overseas.

"He has done an amazing job in bringing Easton Place Clinic so many wonderful physicians to work here. So far, every physician has been caring and a joy to work with. Our Easton Place family is amazing and we all love working here," she said, noting that Dr. Dare is currently accepting new patients but might reach capacity soon.

"Easton Place Medical is unique in its own way. We have a variety of different clinics under one roof and we all work in a partnership to help each other out. We have Red River Dental, Horizon Hearing, Interlake Lymph Clinic, Dr. Anthony Anozie, Dr. Angela Schellenberg (general surgeon) and Dr. Shahnaz Ziaei Saba (gynecologist) all here for specialist consultations, as well as Easton Place Pharmacy. The closeness of all the clinics helps keep a majority of people's medical needs under one roof."

Physicians run the walk-in clinic with the help of clinical assistants, she added.

"Our walk-in clinic's goal is to relieve the pressure on Selkirk's already > overwhelmed ER. We try to limit things to acute care issues when possible as we want people to reach out to their family doctors first for chronic care issues," Tom said.

"We really hope

The Easton Place team is pleased to serve the community.

that we have helped reduce numbers in the ER, even if it's just a small amount of patients per day that we have kept out of the emergency room."

In an effort to increase access to the clinic, Easton Place Clinic is undertaking a trial run of extended clinic hours on Wednesdays.

"We have been trying in the last few weeks to gauge community interest in extended clinic, so we have a rotating schedule and have been filling up these spots quickly each week," Tom said.

"Each week, the physician works an extra couple of hours till 7 p.m. to see a few extra walk-in patients. So far, this has been going well and we keep our pharmacy open later to provide any needed medications."

Check out eastonplace.ca for more info.

For Interlake residents seeking a primary care provider, Meek encourages them to register with Family Doctor Finder.

"By registering, it gives a small snapshot of the needs in the communities and how best these needs can be addressed. Interlake-Eastern Family Doctor Finder can assist clinics that are on board to maintain a waitlist when no providers are available," she said.

"This list allows us to maintain regular contact with people who are waiting to connect. It provides individuals with a support while they are waiting. We can offer other resources that are available in their community depending on their needs."

To register with Family Doctor Finder, call 204-786-7111 or toll-free 1-866-690-8260 or visit https://www.gov. mb.ca/health/familydoctorfinder/ register.html.

Appleyard, owner of Hallmark in Stonewall, thanks the community for their understanding and support, and she heads into a new chapter in her life.

"I have been very overwhelmed by the community's support because even though it's sad for them, they are still very supportive of me. The reaction I'm getting is, 'this is so sad, but we understand," said Appleyard.

"I am so appreciative of this community and their support. It's been a difficult decision to make, but I know it's one that has to be made. I want all of our customers to know how much we appreciate them and how much we will miss them."

Lieutenant-Governor requests nominations for annual historical award

Submitted by the Office of Lt. Governor

Lt.-Gov. Anita R. Neville is encouraging the public to nominate worthy Manitobans who have provided prolonged and meritorious service in the preservation and promotion of Manitoba history for an award, presented in consultation with the Manitoba Historical Society.

"Since 2011, this award has formally recognized Manitobans who have spent countless hours preserving and promoting the history of this great province for the benefit of us all," said Neville. "I encourage you to recognize an outstanding volunteer in your community by nominating them for this award."

The Lieutenant Governor's Awards for Historical Preservation and Promotion are presented to those with experience in such endeavours as:

- writing of historical publications and documents;

- stewardship of museums and archives;

- raising of public education, advocacy and awareness;

committee or community service;
preservation of historic sites/ buildings; and

- art and media.

As the oldest historical organization in Western Canada, founded in 1879, the Manitoba Historical Society (MHS) presents awards to businesses, farms and organizations that have operated for over 100 years, and recognizes important historical books with its annual Margaret McWilliams Awards. It publishes the journal Prairie History and operates a comprehensive website of historical information.

The MHS will receive nominations from the public and will recommend up to five individuals to receive awards this year. Two awards will be reserved for emerging historians (mid-30s and younger). Paid professionals in the field of history and heritage will not be considered.

Nominations for 2023 must be received by Friday, April 1. The awards will be presented at Government House later in the spring.

Nomination forms and further details of the award program are available on the websites of the Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba (www.manitobalg.ca) and the Manitoba Historical Society (www.mhs.mb.ca).

[post-traumatic stress disorder]," said Savoie. "For two years, it became very obvious to us, after my stepfather passed, that our mother had some cognitive decline."

Savoie said her mom had already been living at Oak Park Estates months before she got the pomeranian. The dog has had a beneficial impact on her mother and helps her keep to a routine.

"This dog got my mom going again. Mom was able to get up in the morning. There was a purpose now in her day and life," said Savoie. "Mom said, 'Something else is alive' in her apartment and it's giving her a purpose."

Savoie said she spoke with the Residential Tenancies Branch to ask whether Oak Park Estates could evict her mother for a disability and in the wintertime, and she's expecting the RTB to take up the matter. "I have never heard of any senior being evicted because of a service dog or emotional support animal to help with their disability," said Savoie. "I have not seen an organization take such a hard line on something."

Oak Park Estates has 20 days to file a statement of defence otherwise judgment could be taken against it in its absence.

The Express reached out to Oak Park Estates' lawyer, who said they're not commenting at this time.

A spokesperson for the provincial department of Labour, Consumer Protection and Government Services, which oversees landlords and tenants, said emotional support animals aren't addressed under legislation, but a tenant has the right to dispute an eviction by staying in their unit and requesting a hearing from the Residential Tenancies Branch. "Manitoba Human Rights legislation does not allow a landlord to refuse to rent to tenants who rely on service animals. The Residential Tenancies Act (RTA) and the Manitoba Human Rights Code do not address legislation related to emotional support animals," said the spokesperson by email. "Tenants have the right to dispute a notice of termination by remaining in the rental unit and participating in the hearing process for an order of possession with the Residential Tenancies Branch (RTB)."

The RTB is an impartial office that defines the rights, responsibilities and obligations of landlords and tenants, among other duties. The spokesperson said the tenant can also file a complaint with the Manitoba Human Rights Commission.

"I HAVE NEVER HEARD OF ANY SENIOR BEING EVICTED BECAUSE OF A SERVICE DOG OR EMOTIONAL SUPPORT ANIMAL TO HELP WITH THEIR DISABILITY," SAID SAVOIE. "I HAVE NOT SEEN AN ORGANIZATION TAKE SUCH A HARD LINE ON SOMETHING."

Canada welcomes historic number of newcomers in 2022

Submitted by Government of Canada

Canada has experienced one of the fastest recoveries from the pandemic, thanks in large part to our approach to immigration. Newcomers enrich our communities and contribute to our economy by working, creating jobs and supporting local businesses. Recognizing their value, the Government of Canada planned to welcome 431,645 new permanent residents in 2022.

On Tuesday, Sean Fraser, minister of Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship, announced Canada has reached that target, surpassing our previous record from 2021. This represents the largest number of people ever welcomed in a year, in Canadian history. Prior to setting a new record for admissions in 2021, the last time Canada welcomed such a large number of newcomers was in 1913.

This incredible achievement would not have been possible without the employees of Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC), who continue to set the bar higher for processing. In 2022, IRCC processed approximately 5.2 million applications for permanent residence, temporary residence and citizenship. That's double the number of applications processed in 2021.

As we plan to continue to welcome historic numbers of newcomers, IRCC has added resources, embraced new technology, streamlined processing, and brought more processes online. These changes are all important improvements to Canada's immigration system, which will position us well for the future. As the Government of Canada focuses on addressing the acute labour market shortages we are facing today and building a strong economy into the future, one thing remains certain: immigration is a key part of the solution.

Quick facts:

• The number of permanent residents Canada welcomes each year is based on the annual Immigration Levels Plan that is tabled in Parliament.

• The 2022-2024 Immigration Levels Plan was tabled on Feb. 14, 2022, and the 2023-2025 Immigration Levels Plan was tabled on Nov. 1, 2022.

• Immigration accounts for almost 100 per cent of Canada's labour force growth. Roughly 75 per cent of Canada's population growth comes from immigration, mostly in the economic category. By 2036, immigrants will represent up to 30 per cent of Canada's population, compared with 20.7 per cent in 2011.

• Canada's aging population means that the worker-to-retiree ratio is expected to shift from seven to one 50 years ago to two to one by 2035.

• During the 2021 Census, nearly one in four people counted were or had been a landed immigrant or permanent resident in Canada, the highest proportion since Confederation and the largest proportion among G7 countries.

• Just over 1.3 million new immigrants settled permanently in Canada from 2016 to 2021, the highest number of recent immigrants recorded in a Canadian census.

• Immigrants account for 36 per cent of physicians, 33 per cent business owners with paid staff and 41 per cent of engineers.

• In the fall economic statement, the government committed an additional $50 million in 2022-23 for IRCC, to address ongoing application backlogs, speed up processing, and allow skilled newcomers to fill critical labour gaps faster.

Worship with us > FAITH You matter to God

I've always enjoyed reading bumper stickers on cars. Recently, I saw one that said, "If you can read this, I've lost my trailer." My dad used to have one on his car: "I may be slow but I'm ahead of you!" A friend of mine had a bumper sticker on his truck that warned, "We're spending our children's inheritance." One in Saskatchewan read, "Saskatchewan – A place where no man can leap to his death." There are a lot of funny bumper stickers out there.

Then some time ago, one particular bumper sticker caught my attention. It simply said, "You matter to God."

All of us have had the painful experience of feeling worthless or, at least, of very little value. I recall one time as a teenager thinking nobody cared if I lived or died. I now know that for sure my parents did (but I wasn't convinced of it then ...). But feelings of insignificance were a constant battle for me.

I wish I'd seen that bumper sticker back then. It would have helped my self-esteem immeasurably. But perhaps you today need to be reassured of this fact: you matter to God.

Here are some verses from the Bible that show us this: For example, back before you were born, God had you in mind. "You (God) saw me before I was born. Every day of my life was recorded in Your book. Every moment was laid out before a single day had passed" (Psalms 139:16).

Not only that — God is there for you. The Bible says, "If God is for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:32). And, He cares for you: "Give all your worries and cares to God, for He cares about you" (1 Peter 5:7).

So, don't allow negativity, pessimism and feelings of insignificance rule your life any longer. Come to God by faith, put your trust in His Son Jesus as your Saviour and discover the incredible importance and value of your life. Because you matter to God. By Henry Ozirney

Campers express concern about break-ins

While reading the story in the Tribune a few weeks back about the break-ins at Quarry Park I couldn't help but feel extremely frustrated with the town's response, my main issue being the lack of a gate at the entrance to Quarry Park. The town's response was to explain that the gate that used to exist was moved "when the lower lot was created as the lot is utilized daily by staff and clients." I'm confused by this statement as it implies a gate would cause the parking lots to be completely inaccessible, at all times.

As someone who has spent around 35 years living next to the park, I can verify that when the gate did exist at the entrance, the staff and patrons of the park were still able to access the lot because the gate was unlocked and opened every day to allow access. At that time, a staff member had to lock the gate each night and unlock it each morning, which the town has noted as a reason not to replace the gate; but in 2023 we have access to technology that can lock/unlock a gate at certain times without a staff member having to attend. Instead, we allow 24/7 access to both parking lots and back to the beach area (and baseball area in the warmer months). The overnight traffic has been an issue for years, getting worse and worse over time. Instead of taking logical steps to prevent further nuisance to town residents, and mitigate further theft and damage for seasonal campers, the town simply pushes the responsibility back over to the RCMP without creating any deterrents.

Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre hosts online healing group

By Katelyn Boulanger

People who've experienced sexualized violence will have a new opportunity to seek support in their own homes. Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre is hosting an online eightweek support group from Jan. 31 to March 21 for women and gender non-conforming folks who have survived sexual violence.

"Our work is really focused on recovery, healing, support and prevention for individuals who have experienced sexualized violence, or for people who support someone who has experienced sexualized violence, or people who are at risk of sexualized violence. So, we work in a number of different ways to achieve those goals, including our crisis program, our counselling program, our education program in schools, and through community outreach and networking," said Coral Kendel, executive director of Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre.

This support group is part of their Sexual Assault Recovery and Healing (SARAH) program, which provides counselling and support groups for sexual violence survivors and support for people reporting a historic or recent sexual assault.

"It's really meant to be something that folks attend on the first day, and then for all of the consecutive eight weeks so that it's really a safe and comfortable group that can be formed amongst the individuals who attend. It is being done online, partially because of the fact that we serve the entire Interlake-Eastern region and it's such a vast region, it's a little bit more accessible, and also because sometimes people find it a little bit safer and more comfortable because of the small town dynamics that can happen if you're all meeting in person," said Kendel.

During the group sessions, which take place via Google Meets, attendees will be able to share with other survivors but also have the opportunity to learn potentially helpful strategies to deal with trauma, about self-care, mindfulness and grounding techniques, and, in general, learn a little bit more about why they might be feeling the way they are and how to hopefully improve that.

Though the current support group is for people who identify as women and gender non-conforming people who are over the age of 13 residing in the Interlake-Eastern area, they also have other individual counselling supports available for men who contact them.

Kendel says that accessible resources for people in our communities not only help the individual but help our entire community.

"Sexual violence is really an experience and a topic that everyone likes to pretend doesn't happen. And so, to be able to have these supports, in a manner that people can access them safely, confidentially and to really recover from their experiences that they may have, is so valuable, not only to that individual but to the wellness of the entire community," said Kendel.

She hopes that attendees come away from the eight-week group with more knowledge.

"They're not alone in their experience. There are other folks who can understand how they might be feeling and their experience. I also hope they get a little bit of a better awareness and understanding of themselves, and how that experience can affect you really entirely. It wasn't just a one-time event; it can be something that you really carry with you in your body and your mind, in really significant ways. If it was

many years ago, to still be coping with it today is completely understandable," Kendel said.

"And, it's something that they can really have the power to work on, and to improve so that they don't have to always feel this way. There is hope and there are opportunities for recovery from that trauma they might have experienced."

She encourages people who are interested in this support group or their other support opportunities to get in touch with them.

"We want to meet your needs, whatever they may be, and really are open to listening to that and hearing your experience and figuring out what it is that we can offer and being adaptable and flexible to each unique individual. If you reach out to us, you're calling someone who is going to listen and is going to be hopefully someone who can become a safe person to speak with. There's really no downside to making that first call and taking that first step. Even though it can feel huge and scary, it can lead to really wonderful things."

If you would like to take part in this opportunity, you can call Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre at 204-753-5353 or contact SARAH program counsellor LP Penner at LP@survivors-hope.ca. You can also learn more about Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre at https://survivors-hope.ca/.

tious disease epidemiologist Maria Van Kerkhove said a rapid risk assessment published on XBB.1.5, an omicron subvariant that has been reported in 38 countries to date, indicates there is no potential change in disease severity as yet.

The report dated Jan. 11 says severity assessments of XBB.1.5 are ongoing and that the subvariant "does not carry any mutation known to be associated with potential change in severity …." However, XBB.1.5 may contribute to increases in infections.

Because infection estimates are based so far on XBB.1.5's rapid escalation in only one country — the United States — it's too early to say whether the subvariant will take off in other countries.

There is moderate confidence that the XBB variants, as well as BQ.1, are the "most antibody-resistant" variants to date, states the report.

- The WHO's weekly epidemiological update says there were almost 2.9 million new COVID cases and over 11,000 deaths worldwide from the virus reported over the period Jan. 2-8.

The WHO says infection data is likely an underestimate as countries have changed testing strategies. That has resulted in lower numbers of tests being performed and, consequently, "lower numbers of cases detected."

Globally, there have been over 6.6 million COVID deaths reported as of Jan. 8.

Six Manitoba individuals/businesses honoured with Manitoba Watershed Awards

Submitted

The Manitoba Association of Watersheds is pleased to announce the recipients of our 2022 Watershed Awards, which include Manitoba farmers who are adapting the way they farm and enhancing their land for the future, as well as leaders in the community who have worked to establish conservation programs, build partnerships and enhance local knowledge.

The Manitoba Watershed Awards are presented through a partnership between the Manitoba Association of Watersheds and Manitoba's 14 watershed districts and are presented in two categories — Watershed District Awards and Watershed District Builder Awards.

This year's Watershed District Builder Award recipients are:

Art Bergmann (Ŵatershed District Builder Award), who built lasting municipal partnerships which are the foundation of the Seine Rat Roseau Watershed District and helped establish a water retention project, which remains among the most impactful projects in the district's history.

Linda Miller (Watershed District Staff Builder Award), who, in her 14year career with the West Interlake Watershed District, established some of their most successful programs (Community Tree Nursery Program and the Winter Watering System Program).

More information on these recipients as well as the recipients of the Watershed District Awards can be found at https://manitobawatersheds.org/ awards.

'The work done in watershed districts has a direct impact on water quality for all Manitobans. That's why it's so important to recognize the work being done throughout the province and to celebrate those who have demonstrated excellence within the watershed district program. The individuals and businesses presented with 2022 Watershed Awards are wonderful examples of how positive change is possible through dedication and community," said Lynda Nicol, executive director of the Manitoba Association of Watersheds.

2022 West Interlake Watershed District Award Recipient: Tyson Cook

The West Interlake Watershed District is pleased to present a 2022 Manitoba Watershed Award to Tyson Cook. Tyson is a cattle producer from Moosehorn, who also works at the local cattle auction mart, and is well-deserving of this award.

Tyson has been a leader in the community for his environmental stewardship practices. Tyson is not afraid to try something new. His enthusiasm for soil health is reflected by his experiments with cover crops, no tilling and various grazing practices. He has been a great resource for understanding the landscape and how environmental practices thrive in the Interlake.

Tyson has been on our local Growing Outcomes in Watersheds (GROW) Committee for the last two years. His hands-on knowledge and experience was critical for building our cover crop program. Tyson has played an important role in educating about and promoting the programs offered through the West Interlake Watershed District (WIWD). Whether Tyson is presenting at an event, giving a field tour or just talking to you on the street, he is relatable, passionate and full of knowledge. He is always willing to answer questions and talk to other producers interested in soil health and environmental practices.

Having producers from your watershed who are passionate about working with the land is crucial for engaging producers in our programs. Without producers like Tyson who are willing to document and share their story, the WIWD would not be able to assist as many producers as we do.

We would like to thank Tyson for all the time and effort he has put into helping us develop and promote programs, and for being so open about his journey through implementing environmentally beneficial practices on his farm.

2022 Watershed District Staff Builder Award Recipient: Linda Miller

When you think of the West Interlake Watershed District (WIWD), you should think of Linda Miller. Linda has been a devoted employee who has been part of the WIWD since the beginning. Linda was essential in building the WIWD into what it is today.

In 2008, just a few months after the WIWD was beginning to form, Linda began working at the WIWD as a financial administrator. In 2009 the WIWD was looking for a manager. At this point, Linda was already running the watershed by herself in the past manager's absence, so it only made sense for her to be promoted to manager in 2010. Luckily (or not so luckily for Linda), she was an excellent financial administrator, and the board did not want to lose her in that role. So, she became the manager/financial administrator. She remained the only employee for the next two years until the WIWD hired another part-time employee. Linda was the only fulltime position at the WIWD until 2019.

During these years, Linda was not only responsible for the manager and financial administrative duties, but she was also the technician, going out into the fields with producers and checking projects. In the early years of the WIWD, Linda was out building relationships with the public. Many producers in the area were reluctant to sign up for programs, and as a cattle producer herself, she understood the concerns others may have. Today, the WIWD has a great relationship with producers in the watershed, much of that thanks to Linda.

Throughout her 14 years in the watershed, Linda also implemented new programs unique to the West Interlake Watershed District. These programs are the Community Tree Nursery Program and the Winter Watering System Program. Today, these programs are still some of the most popular programs at the WIWD. After the 2011 flood, many residents lost trees, so Linda came up with the idea of the Community Tree Nursery Program. The goal was to restore the trees that had been destroyed, especially those along Lake Manitoba, which served as shoreline erosion protection. This is the WIWD's most well-known program, which helps advertise the WIWD and brings in new residents to the office.

In the winter, producers keep their livestock close to home so the livestock can drink from a drilled well. This leads to a concentrated amount of manure in one area, causing nutrient runoff. To encourage producers to put their livestock on alternative quarters, distributing the manure to a larger area, the Winter Watering System Program was developed. The WIWD would offset the cost by funding a percentage of the materials and labour. This program that has now transitioned into the alternative watering system program through Growing Outcomes in Watersheds (GROW).

The WIWD is so thankful for Linda's hard work and dedication over the last 14 years. With Linda as manager/financial administrator, the WIWD has flourished from a small one-person watershed to four full-time staff plus summer students. The WIWD also went from a budget of $250,000-$300,000 to a million-dollar budget. Linda deserves the watershed builder award because she has been one of the largest factors in contributing to the WIWD's growth today. Without her devotion, who knows where we would be.

Manitoba Government invests in French-Language education programming

Grants will ensure quality Frenchlanguage initiatives are carried out in educational communities

Submitted by Manitoba government

The governments of Canada and Manitoba are investing $2.8 million in 143 grants to support French-language programming in Manitoba schools, Education and Early Childhood Learning Minister Wayne Ewasko and Families Minister Rochelle Squires, minister responsible for francophone affairs, announced on Dec. 22.

"French-language instruction is an integral part of Manitoba's education system and key to the vitality of our francophone community," said Ewasko. "Through our government's investment and the collaborative efforts of the federal government, these grants will ensure that many quality French-language initiatives will continue to be carried out in our educational communities.'

"Our government knows that access to Français and French immersion education enriches the lives of students and helps prepare them for success in the future," said Squires. "Manitoba's commitment to French language education is stronger than ever, and the work being done in the education sector is key to ensuring a vibrant francophone community in our province in the years ahead."

For the 2022-23 school year, the government will award 93 grants through the French Second Language Revitalization Program, which provides financial support for projects that:

- ensure the full implementation of the French Immersion program and the successful delivery of French courses; and

- enhance the linguistic and cultural identity of students.

An additional 50 grants will be awarded through the Program for the Enrichment of French in Education (PEFE), which provides financial support for school-based, extra-curricular and post-secondary projects that: - enhance and promote learning of the French language;

- provide opportunities to discover francophone culture; and recruit and retain students in the French and French immersion programs and in French language courses.

"The outdoor classroom at the DSFM Centre scolaire Léo-Rémillard, like our other outdoor initiatives, will allow us to offer our community a special learning space that brings nature and school together," said Karine Pilotte, directrice adjointe, Division scolaire franco-manitobaine. "It will also be an important gathering place for the francophone community since it will serve as a space for cultural transmission while providing opportunities for students to act positively on their environment and their well-being."

These grants are funded under the terms of the Canada-Manitoba Agreement on Minority-Language Education and Second-Language Instruction, Ewasko noted.

Applications for funding under the two programs are evaluated by a team of curriculum consultants in the Bureau de l'éducation française to ensure the projects meet education requirements and advance the objectives of the programs. A call for applications for next year will be shared with school divisions and other stakeholders later this fall.

The ministers noted the investments announced today build on other priorities to strengthen French-language education in Manitoba including:

- a federal funding increase of more than $6.2 million over two years as part of the Canada-Manitoba Agreement on Minority-Language Education and Second Official-Language Instruction to allow the province to work with school boards to increase resources for educators so students can thrive and have access to more opportunities to learn in French;

renewal of the French immersion policy (last updated in 2008) to support the full implementation of the French immersion program in kindergarten to Grade 12 schools; and

- creation of a comprehensive and co-ordinated strategy to address the shortage of French language teachers, including an emphasis on career development to encourage Français and French immersion students to become teachers with an overall focus on recruitment and retention.

Rockwood council considers proposed wedding and event venue

By Jennifer McFee

Applicants for conditional use approval are wondering if Rockwood council will say "I do" to their proposed wedding and event venue.

On Jan. 11, a public hearing outlined the details of the proposed venue, which would be located on a 4.68-acre lot at the northwest corner of Road 83N and Highway 7.

The property has a single-family home with a detached garage, as well as a barn and two sheds. The majority of the property contains mature trees and bush.

Lincoln and Nicole Bergen currently own the property, who have authorized the conditional use application made by Amanda and Jared Enns. The applicants would acquire the property subject to the conditional use approval.

The proposal is to host weddings as well as other events such as celebrations, showers, ceremonies, corporate functions and farmers' markets. With a maximum attendance of 125 people, these events would run between May long weekend and October on weekends (including long weekend Mondays). No events would take place at the site during the winter.

As part of the process, the applicants plan to develop 20-foot by 30-foot multi-purpose building with washrooms, a small kitchen for warming and cooling food items, and a small storage room.

Another feature would be a 40-foot by 60-foot temporary tent structure, which would be installed on a concrete pad. There would also be a 30foot by 55-foot open timber frame pavilion with bench row seating and optional roll-down sidewalls.

The applicants also plan to create an off-street gravelled parking area to accommodate 71 vehicles. In addition, four additional off-street parking spaces would be available for loading and for staff. No parking would be allowed on Road 83N or Highway 7. The existing single-family home would be available to the public so that wedding parties could prepare for their event and store personal belongings.

The business would be operated by appointment only. All guests would need to leave the property no later than 12:30 a.m. on Fridays, Saturdays and long weekend Sundays, and 11:30 p.m. on regular Sundays and long weekend Mondays.

The applicants also plan to consult a professional noise consultant to create a noise management plan.

"Weddings and event venues have many positive direct and indirect impacts upon communities and support small businesses and local organizations. They provide job opportunities, attract tourism and visitors, and promote local attractions. Wedding and event venues can provide local vendors a space to sell their items, such as artisans or craftspeople, contributing to their annual income," Amanda and Jared Enns wrote in their letter of intent.

"Wedding and event venues generate financial gains to the community throughout tourism and increased spending by visitors. To give back to the community, we plan to hire locally first and foremost in the RM of Rockwood."

Some Rockwood residents expressed concerns related to traffic, dust control, noise, lights, smoking, impacts on animals and the environment.

South Interlake Planning District does not oppose the proposed development as long as it's subject to several conditions. These conditions include obtaining a permit from Manitoba Transportation and Infrastructure for the proposed structures and parking area within the highway control area of Provincial Trunk Highway 7, as well as for the removal of the current access in this highway control area. Another suggested condition is that the applicant would need to provide a revised site plan with a revised approach location, as well as a variance to reduce the side yard setback or a revised site plan that complies with the zoning bylaw.

SIPD also recommends a condition that the applicant would provide a drainage plan prepared by a professional engineer, a noise assessment and mitigation plan, and any other permits, approvals or licences.

As well, SIPD suggests that the applicants should be required to contain exterior lighting to within their property boundaries.

A development agreement could address other issues including size, type and frequency of events; business hours; off-street parking requirements; site maintenance and monitoring; dust control on Road 83N; and liability insurance.

The topic will return to council at an upcoming meeting for a decision.

Amber's All Breed Grooming: refreshed and rejuvenated furry friends

By Autumn Fehr

A local animal self-care business is committed to offering comfort and convenience for furry friends/pet owners.

Amber's All Breed Grooming, owned by Amber Barnett, is located in Gunton and offers grooming services for dogs, cats and small animals such as guinea pigs and rabbits, boarding services for dogs and pet sitting for birds and small animals.

Barnett is pet first aid certified and a Professional Pet Groomers Association member.

At a young age, Barnett had a passion for animals and grew up with her mom showing dogs.

In 2010, she made her passion into a career and started her own business out of her home.

"Animals are my entire life. I love working with animals.

Freya the doodle.

This is probably my most relaxing job," said Barnett.

When grooming animals, Barnett follows a specific process to get the animals pampered and perfect.

She starts by bathing the animals, then blow-dries their fur and does their trimmings to the owner's specifications.

Her favourite breed to groom is any breed with a poodle-type coat, as she said there is so much you can do with a fluffy coat.

"I work one-on-one so that I can work in a very relaxed, calm environment. I get to work with dogs with anxiety, and I can see them gradually improve with the grooming process. A lot of it is very satisfying," said Barnett.

When you come to Amber's All Breed Grooming, your pets can have their photo taken and put up on the "Wall of Fame."

Barnett's Facebook Wall of Fame is where she shows off all her furry friends after they have been completely groomed, with before and after photos to showcase the transformation and rejuvenation.

The difference between Amber's All Breed Grooming and any other pet spa or grooming salon is that her in-house services help make the process relaxing and stress-free for animals, who often feel they are going to the vet when they have to get the grooming done.

Over the past 10 years, as Barnett has expanded her business. She has added additional services, such as pet sitting in December, where she offers short- or long-term stays, daytime and overnight, for dogs and cats.

During their stay, a 15,000-square-foot play area that is fully fenced is available for pets,

Stonewall library celebrates most successful Festival of Wreaths

By Jennifer McFee

The Stonewall community provided a warm welcome back to a muchmissed holiday tradition.

The 13th Festival of Wreaths returned over the holiday season after a two-year pandemic pause. Through this fundraiser, local groups had the chance to decorate wreaths that were displayed at the Stonewall library from Dec. 1 to 20.

For a $1 donation to the Stonewall and District Cheer Board, community members could cast a vote for their favourite wreath.

Stonewall branch librarian Joan Ransom extends gratitude to all who donated and voted, as well as to the 36 wreath-makers who participated in this year's event.

"We were so happy to bring back this library tradition this year," she said.

"This was our most successful festival ever in both money raised and most items collected."

The most votes went to the wreath created by RCMP Search and Rescue, followed by Kinette Club of Stonewall in second place and Stonewall and District Lion's Club in third place.

"We were happy to display such a large group of wreaths — the most in our history," Ransom said.

"We were thrilled to present Chris-

In addition to the wreath initiative, the Stonewall library accepted donations of hats, mitts, gloves and scarves for its Mitten Tree, as well as new socks and slippers for its Sock Stocking project. Both projects were a great success.

Building a microgreen business, one tray at a time

By Raegan Hedley

Five years ago, Kurtis Bouskill walked into his 4,000-square-foot barn and thought, "what a waste." His family farm near Stonewall stopped shipping milk 17 years ago, and they hadn't done much with the dairy barn since.

"It's a very good building, and I wanted to use it for something other than just storage," he says. "I felt it was a shame."

Bouskill went to YouTube for an answer. He noticed people were using spaces like his for indoor growing. Inspired, he turned to books, Microgreens are a great garnish and lettuce alternative for tacos, soups, sandwiches and salads.

YouTube and experience to get started.

"There's plenty of information out there, obviously, and I just kind of follow what people have already done and succeeded at," says Bouskill. "I had a wealth of knowledge in my back pocket even before I started, and I farm too, so there's that business as well. I lean on that a lot."

Bouskill owned an automotive business for a long time until he recently sold it, so building something from the ground up wasn't new to him.

"With my other business, I'd been at it for 25 years, so I couldn't learn any more there. I wanted to try something new, and it just made sense for how things are now," says Bouskill. "To keep this farm rolling ... I had to come up with a different plan."

And that's how Jackfish Creek Gardens, a local microgreens business, came to be. Named after the river that runs through the family farm, Bouskill says Jackfish Creek Gardens is his passion project. Over a five-year period, Bouskill slowly retrofitted the barn to make it more efficient for indoor growth. His wife, Camille, works on the business, but he didn't hire any other help, opting instead to do all the work himself on a "shoestring budget." He was experimenting and trying to figure out what to grow during this time.

"I just started chipping away at it ... until I got good at it," says Bouskill. "I know how to fail and I try not to let it discourage me."

Indoor growing is all about the environment, which Bouskill says he learned quickly after experimenting with buttercrunch lettuce and basil and "failing miserably."

"The lights are one thing, but the temperature and humidity is everything. You have to have that dialed in. So that was a big part of my learning curve. It was always cool in the barn, and I thought it would be alright. Nah. Stuff just wouldn't grow."

He saw online that microgreens, the edible seedlings of vegetables and herbs, were easier to grow, so he gave them a shot. To reach the temperature the plants need to grow properly (about 75 degrees) without heating the entire 4,000-square-foot barn. Bouskill grows in tents, so he only has to heat a fraction of the barn.

"As I grow, I'm going to lose the tents and have the heat up in the whole barn. The scalability is there. I just need more clients."

Bouskill keeps Jackfish Creek Gardens' environmental footprint low. Compared to traditional farming methods, he describes microgreens as "wildly efficient."

"You're able to get so much more out of a small piece of land and a small amount of water," says Bouskill. "My microgreens don't even require fertilization. ... I water them about three times a cycle, and I'm done."

In 2022, it was the first year Bouskill did Jackfish Creek Gardens full-time.

"This being my first year, I realized we do still farm here. ... We do 250 acres of hay and alfalfa - so from July to September, I was very busy."

Despite having a full-on farm schedule, it didn't stop him from doing the farmers market circuit throughout the summer, then continuing through the fall and winter. He says he recently purchased some new software to sell fresh microgreens directly to local consumers through his website.

"I'm not going to grow until I get the order through my website. So you'd go on my website, order what you like ... and in 7-10 days, you'll pick up your very fresh food."

Jackfish Creek Gardens has four options: pea shoots, radish, broccoli and a blend of all three. Because his products are so fresh, Bouskill says his will last in the fridge for up to two weeks.

Dr. Victoria Baldwin, naturopathic doctor, says microgreens are great for people with busy lifestyles because they're very nutrient-dense, even in small quantities.

"Aside from vitamins and minerals, they contain plant substances that benefit health. They provide antioxidants and polyphenols that can lower heart disease risk, help control blood sugar, support a healthy microbiome and are great for your digestive system health.'

Bouskill explained that his 143-yearold family farm is "small by today's standards," but he says niche is the way to go when you can't compete against the big 4,000-acre farms.

"You have to be specialty. I'm looking for things people aren't doing and take the non-traditional route," he says. "I saw microgreens five years ago, and they weren't a big thing, but all of a sudden, in today's day in age, with supply chains and all the shipping issues ... I just thought, why can't we grow this right here in our backyard?

Even though growing basil and buttercrunch lettuce didn't work initially, he's "happy to report I do grow them both now."

"I now have a machine called an Omega Garden — it's a rotary garden that circles around a bright light. So on top of the microgreens, they're now part of my offering."

Customers in Stonewall, Teulon and Selkirk will soon be able to pick up their orders from a partner restaurant in each respective town. Bouskill calls this "the next chapter for this small farm."

"My goal is to fill the other nine months with growing indoors throughout the rest of the season," says Bouskill. "If I become successful, it will be a year-round venture."

Einarson loses Grand Slam final to Japan

By Ty Dilello

Gimli's Kerri Einarson and her team had another impressive week reaching the final at the Co-Op Canadian Open Grand Slam event in Camrose, Alta. However, in Sunday evening's final, Einarson came up a little short losing 5-3 to Japan's Satsuki Fujisawa.

Unfortunately, Einarson was on the other side of history as with the win, Fujisawa became the first Asian team to capture a Grand Slam title.

But the team still had lots to celebrate as it was a record sixth-consecutive Grand Slam women's final for Einarson, third Val Sweeting, second Shannon Birchard and lead Briane Harris, who won $20,000 on the week.

Einarson's quest to complete a career Grand Slam will have to wait another year. She has won the other three majors in the series, with just the Co-op Canadian Open to check off from the list.

Abby Ackland of Winnipeg flew the Manitoba flag proudly at the Grand Slam event reaching the quarterfinals. It was the maiden Grand Slam for the Ackland rink, which includes Meghan Walter, Mackenzie Elias and Marquette's Sara Oliver.

Ackland qualified for the playoffs through the B-Side after winning three games, including a 7-6 victory over the 2018 Olympic gold medalist Anna Hasselborg of Sweden. However, Ackland's run ended in the quarterfinals after a tough 6-5 loss to Eun Ji Gim of South Korea.

On the men's side at the Canadian Open, Alberta's Brendan Bottcher was victorious after defeating Niklas Edin by a 5-3 scoreline in Sunday's final.

Winnipeg's Matt Dunstone (featuring Gimli's B.J. Neufeld and Colton Lott) reached the quarterfinals after winning three games to qualify through the B-Side. Sadly, the Dunstone rink fell in the quarterfinals to Italy's Joel Retornaz by an 8-2 scoreline.

The Grand Slam of Curling season resumes with the Princess Auto Players' Championship, April 11-16, at Toronto's Mattamy Athletic Centre.

Mom was born in Winnipeg July 30, 1928 and grew up in the Marquette area, where she attended school at Meadow Lea and Mom was a mother and homemaker all her life while full time managing Sandridge General store and post office. Mom added mechanic's helper to her resume as we children left home and helped Dad in his repair shop. Later in life, she did homecare for the elderly in her community.

Mom enjoyed playing cards (we called her the crib master) and loved teaching her grandchildren and great-grandchildren how to play. She also loved music, dancing and doing crafts in her spare time and although her sandwiches were a little on the thin side at times, she was an excellent baker making the best homemade bread and pastries. We will miss her dearly.

As per her wishes cremation has taken place and celebration of life will be Thursday, January 19 at 11 a.m. at St Peter Lutheran Church in Teulon, MB., lunch to follow and private interment at Sandridge Cemetery.

Stan(Ruth), Paul, Murray, nieces and nephews.

Jim was predeceased by his mother Mary, infant sister-June, brother Donald and nephew Rob Doucette as well as parents-in-law Lyle and Leita, brothers-in-law Calvin and Eugene.

Jim was born in Brandon, Manitoba on July 28, 1936. His schooling was in Minnedosa, Brandon College and University of Manitoba where he attained a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy, 1960. Jim and Lois were married in Baltimore, Ontario on September 14, 1963, lived and worked in Winnipeg and Brandon for six years before buying Gateway Drugs in The Pas, Manitoba. He was a knowledgeable and respected pharmacist who also found time for hunting and fishing, Chamber of Commerce, Masons and Shriners. Summers at Clearwater Lake cabin with family were special. He forged lasting friendships in those years. Jim's Boxing Day "Bouillabaisse" was a highlight with family and friends. Always a lover of history and a voracious reader, Jim attained a B.A. in History through Queen's University. He belonged to Model Soldier Society and painted miniatures. After selling the business, Jim and Lois moved to Grosse Isle, closer to children. They enjoyed gardening and neighbours, community club and working on Centennial for St. Michael's. When grandchildren came along, he made wooden toys and games as well as picnic tables and deck chairs for the kids.

Declining health prompted a move to Lions Manor, Stonewall, where they lucked out again with good friends and neighbours.

We are very grateful for the kind and caring help of so many; paramedics, Michelle Loehmer's squad of homecare nurses and homecare aides, the nurses and staff of Stonewall Hospital and Dr. D. Ventor. They enabled Jim to be at home til the last two days.

A graveside service will be held in June at St. Michael's Anglican Cemetery.

To honour Jim, hug your loved ones.

Joyce (Winnifred) Barker

Joyce Barker passed away at Seven Oaks Hospital on January 6, 2023 at the age of 97. Joyce is predeceased by her parents Albert Edward Rhodes and Lydia Lillian Rhodes and her husband Robert Barker. She is survived by her sister Maureen Hilditch, sons Paul (Ana Marie) and Blake, grandchildren Jordan (Christine) and Nicholas (Karlo), and great-grandchildren Chloe, Florence and Jonah.

Joyce was born in Winnipeg, Manitoba on November 13, 1925, and graduated from Daniel McIntyre High School. After high school Joyce worked at Blue Cross/Manitoba Health until meeting Robert and they were married on June 9, 1954. She moved to the Barker family farm in Lilyfield with Robert where she learned how to tend to a farm, operating the large machinery such as the combines and grain trucks.

Ever the socialite, she made many friends with the other families of Lilyfield through the Lilyfield United Church, and curling at Grosse Isle, Stonewall and Deer Lodge curling clubs.

She raised her two boys Paul and Blake, making sure to instill a strong work ethic in both of them. She would constantly make sure that they were always busy and never idle.

An avid baker, she always had a container of freshly baked cookies and dainties for her visitors and grandchildren. Joyce also enjoyed knitting and would knit scarves, sweaters, touques, gloves and blankets.

Her memory was sharp and would entertain family and friends with her stories of the past.

After moving to the Kiwanis Villa and later the Terrace, Joyce found a community of friends to socialize and play cards with. The family will always be grateful for the companionship that they provided.

Service will be held at St. Paul the Apostle Church, 2400 Portage Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba on Saturday, January 21, 2023 at 10:00 a.m.

The family wishes to thank all the staff and homecare providers of the Kiwanis Villa/Terrace for their care of Joyce and the respect shown to her family. Condolences may be sent to www.wojciksfuneralchapel.com

OBITUARY

Sandra Diane Evelvn

It is with heartfelt sadness, that I am informing the community of Stonewall of the passing of my sister Sandra Diane Evelyn. She was born July 27th, 1941 in Winnipeg, Manitoba, and in her early years was adopted by Dr. William Fredrick Dawson Evelyn, and his wife Elsie Agnes Evelyn. She enjoyed her Church "New Life" with Pastor Henry Ozirney, and the fellowship she received there. She audited several University courses in English Literature and Theology.

She had a sharp wit, plus a great sense of humor, with those she felt comfortable with, and we, all of her friends and family will miss her capacity to enjoy her appreciation of life. She loved to drive her little red car around town and often helped her dad with the driving on holiday trips.

She passed away peacefully at Tudor House in Selkirk, Manitoba on January 13, 2023. She moved to Tudor House in 2006, and enjoyed her time there with people around her, activities on a daily basis, as well as visits by her family and special friends Pat and Connie.

There will be a small service, officiated by Pastor Henry Ozirney at the Church New Life in Stonewall on Saturday, January 21, 2023 at 2:00 p.m. Sandra's ashes will be interred in the Stonewall Cemetery, with her adopted mother Agnes Evelyn.
