Stonewall students create hand-crafted projects

Students donate woodworking projects to local daycares

By Jennifer McFee

A group of Stonewall students is getting hands-on lessons in practical skills as well as in the art of giving.

At Stonewall Collegiate Institute, metalworking instructor Mike Schoofs is piloting a manufacturing course for students of varying cognitive abilities in the individual education program.

"They have taken real ownership. They're quite excited to come in here on their days and get right to work on our projects. We've created a model where they are able to work hands-on on a number of projects throughout the year with an emphasis on them actually doing the work," he said.

"I've primarily been doing woodworking with them. We have everything including measurement and layout. They're using hand tools to cut and shape the material. We're using tools to drill holes. Also, I have it set up so they can assemble the product."

Their first product proved to be very popular in the community. The students created suet feeders, as well as the suet, which are currently being sold at the Global Garage at the Arris Centre.

"We've done two runs, and they sold out the first run quite quickly," Schoofs said.

"In addition to the actual feeder, we also created the suet to go with it. They made the forms first to pack the suet into and then they packaged it and did the whole thing. They've had a hand in every step of the way that's where my emphasis has been."

Now the students are working on wooden toy trucks that can hold crayons. They will be donating about 10 trucks to Starting Blocks Daycare, and they plan to do another run for the daycare in Stony Mountain.

"It gets their name out and their signature out into the community," Schoofs said. "Many of these fellows will probably be lifetime members in our community as well."

In his other classes, Schoofs is impressed by the talents of Grade 12 student Jennica

Rubber duckies go head-to-head in Balmoral

TRIBUNE PHOTOS BY NATASHA TERSIGNI It was an exciting Sunday afternoon in Balmoral when the community gathered for the annual Jackfish Creek Duck Derby. The main events of the day were the two rubber duck races, which had 215 ducks floating down the creek to the finish line outside of the hall. Spectators lined up along the creek's edge to cheer the ducks on. Community members purchased rubber ducks, and the first three ducks to cross the finish line won the race. The $2,000 raised at the fundraiser will be used for much-needed basement repairs at the community hall that are projected to cost over $100,000. This year's Race No. 1 winners were Hayden Young in first place, Joan Main in second and Ray Haydeman in third. The Race No. 2 winners were Brenda Dykstra in first place, James Beyette in second and Gale Ruchkall in third. Jimmy Georgison won the Duck Dump and $157.50.

Interlake residents are earning accolades for their outstanding volunteer efforts in the community and beyond.

The 33rd Annual Volunteer Awards, provided by Volunteer Manitoba and Manitoba Liquor and Lotteries, aim to honour deserving Manitobans who represent excellence in volunteerism and community engagement.

It's easy to see why Sarah Holtmann of Rosser is receiving a volunteer service award in the youth category. The 17-year-old is the youth representative for the Woodlands Community Development Corporation. She also helps out with fall suppers at her church and at Meadows Community Club

A Grade 12 student at Warren Collegiate Institute, Holtmann is president of the student council and is also involved in the Student Voice and yearbook groups.

Her involvement continues to gain attention, since Holtmann has also been named this year's recipient of a student leadership award from the Canadian Association of Principals.

"I spend a lot of my lunch hours devoted to my volunteer work at the school and my evenings for CDC. I think it's important to give back to the community that raised me because they've helped me so much. I just want to give back and help them as well," said Holtmann, who plans to study business at university after she graduates from high school.

"There's alwavs help needed around the community, so I definitely encourage other people to get involved."

Stony Mountain School Earth Club Volunteers also earned a volunteer service award in the community category. This extra-curricular group aims to foster earth-friendly and sustainable practices.

They focus on landscaping and caring for the school's green spaces.

As well, they are responsible for the school being the first in the Prairie provinces to receive the Earth School

6 status, and they hope to achieve Earth School 7 status by the end of the year.

Other initiatives include a recycle sale, a book exchange café, a farm-toschool fundraiser and Clean Air Day events.

With an eye on the larger community, the club donates to Siloam Mission, World Wildlife Federation and SEEDS Foundation.

The local recognition continues with Warren Collegiate Institute graduate Tara Green. Along with Duncan Cox, Green won the Manitoba Real Estate Association Quality of Life award for her work with Hateless.

From a young age, Green suffered from depression, anxiety and OCD. After four unsuccessful suicide attempts, she began seeking help. She realized the importance of peer support and positive mental health.

She created a support system and began to share her story. She has volunteered as a teen peer supporter at Warren Collegiate Institute, as a member of Teen Talk with Klinic Community Health and as a speaker with Hateless Canada. She also spearheaded Teen Talk and a gay-straight alliance/LGBTQ group at her high school.

Green's main focus is on suicide prevention. Each year, there are more than 3,500 suicides across the country due to mental illness, and Green aims to bring that number down to zero.

The volunteer awards will be given out during a dinner event on Thursday, April 28 at the RBC Convention Centre in Winnipeg.

SCI students gearing up for Coffee House evening

By Natasha Tersigni

It promises to be a great night at this year's Stonewall Collegiate Coffee House organized by the school's human rights group.

The event will feature local talent as musical entertainment, a fair trade fashion show and of course coffee and dessert.

The coffee house will be held on April 28 at the Stonewall Odd Fellows Hall with doors opening at 6:30 p.m. and the show starting at 7 p.m. Tickets are $10, and if you bring a non-perishable food item for the Stonewall and District Food Bank, you will receive a complimentary drink and dessert.

"The show will feature 10 acts and will be made up of local students who want to share their creativity and musical talents with the town. It is mostly current students, and there are a few SCI alumni that are coming back to perform for the show as well," said Grade 12 student Keri Everitt, a member of the human rights group.

Money raised from the event will be donated to SCI's sister school in Zimbabwe. Each year, the group raises close to $1,500 for the school through various initiatives. In the past, money that SCI has donated to the school has gone to purchase new computers and been used for scholarships so students can attend high school.

The human rights group has partnered with the SCI fair trade committee and will be serving fair trade, ethically grown coffee. At intermission, a fashion show featuring fair trade clothing will be held.

Tickets for the show can be purchased at Home Hardware or Beyond Bread in Stonewall, the Pick 'n Pay store in Stony Mountain or at the door.

REACT hopes to recruit more Teulon area members

By Natasha Tersigni

Rockwood Environmental Action Community Taskforce (REACT) is looking for new members from the north Rockwood area, including Teulon to be a part of the organization with hopes to expand their programs and services.

REACT is a volunteer-based nonprofit environmental group dedicated to protecting the environment through a variety of initiatives, projects and awareness events. Its community initiatives include hosting educational events and seminars, community cleanups and e-waste collection days all promoting the environment.

In order to continue their work in the community, volunteers are needed.

"We would love to get more members from Teulon. That is one thing we have tried to target for years," said REACT vice-chair Karl Daher

This spring, a household hazardous material collection container was added at the Teulon-Rockwood Waste Disposal Site, which ensures that Teulon residents now have access to the exact same recycling services that are in Stonewall at the Winfield Road Transfer Station.

"For the depot in Teulon, they just added the household material bin. That container can collect any household chemicals or pesticides including fertilizer, expired cleaners, light bulbs, paints, solvents and other household wastes," explained Daher.

"Both depots are now one-stop shops for all recyclable items. We have your normal blue box recycling there, or your plastic, papers, containers, aluminum cans. We also have collections for tires, used oil, antifreeze containers, electronic and household chemicals and pesticides."

Both recycling depots are free to use. For more information on the Rockwood Environmental Action Community Taskforce (REACT), visit their website at www.reactinc.org.

Motion defeated to censure Coun. Emms

Rosser council news in brief

By Jennifer McFee

At the April 19 council meeting, Rosser council voted on whether to censure Coun. Angela Emms in regards to respectful conduct and respect for role of administration.

Council had adopted a policy that outlines codes of conduct for council members, which indicates that council members who fail to meet their obligations are subject to censure by council.

Reeve Frances Smee, Coun. Lee Garfinkel and Coun. Kelvin Stewart voted in favour of the censure, while Emms and Coun. Scott Corbett voted against it. However, the motion was defeated because in order to approve the censure, a majority plus one vote was required.

Council also approved a motion to pay $44,706.62 to D'Arcy and Deacon

LLP and $6,300 to The Point Guard Group. Emms voted against making the payments.

In other council news:

• Council approved a $20,000 levy for the Rosser Woodlands Recreation Commission.

• Dairy Lane Road is the new name for the West Provincial Service Road that runs along Highway 7 and continues along the south side of Highway 101 to Summit Road.

• The RM of Rosser will take over responsibility for the well at the reservoir site on Klimpke Road.

• Homeowner Brett Oleschak requested to vary the minimum site area requirement to 9.23 acres from the usual 80 acres to build a detached accessory building on his property at 42 Mayberry St. There were no objections from the public. • Council approved a subdivision of property owned by Frank and Wendy Seidel. They must comply with conditions, including that the subdivision not include any agricultural land.

• Council agreed to contribute $3,000 to the Partnership of the Manitoba Capital Region to undertake the second phase of the Emergency Response Service Project.

• A public hearing is scheduled for Thursday, April 28 at 6:30 p.m. regarding Rosser's 2016 financial plan. This plan consists of the operating and capital budgets, as well as an estimate of the operating revenue and expenditure for the 2016 fiscal year and the five-year capital expenditure plan (2017 to 2021).

At the hearing, members of the public can ask questions and make comments on the proposed plan. Copies of the financial plan are available at the municipal office during regular office hours.

Plans in the works for engraved memory stones in the Community Memory Garden

By Jennifer McFee

Loved ones may soon be honoured in Stonewall's Community Memory Garden through a new initiative to commemorate their lives with engraved memory stones.

The cost would be about $100 to purchase each stone and pay for engraving and putting it in the memory garden.

In 2007, the town implemented a policy for the Community Memory Garden. Coun. Sandra Smith is hoping that the policy will be changed to reflect the fact that Communities in Bloom and the South Interlake Garden Club are maintaining the garden. In other news:

- Stonewall council passed first reading of the zoning bylaw. A public hearing on the zoning bylaw will be scheduled for June 15.

- Spring cleanup of streets and boulevards began on Monday, April 25 and is expected to last about two weeks, depending on the weather. Temporary "no parking" signs will be posted one day before the designated streets are scheduled for cleaning. Work will take place between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., starting on primary and collector routes and then moving to residential areas.

- From May 2 to 27, residents can place more than the usual three bags of allowable yard waste at the curb for collection. Permitted yard waste bags are orange, yellow, clear or paper. Grass clippings, leaves, and garden and flowerbed vegetation are allowable yard waste. In order for yard waste to be eligible for composting, it can't contain domestic waste such as wrappers, bags, cans, pet excrement or household waste (including food waste). Tree limbs and branches also can't be included with the yard waste; however, they can placed at the curb if they are bundled and tied and are less than one metre long. Stonewall bylaws prohibit burning yard waste within town limits.

- The Town of Stonewall will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, May 4 at 7 p.m. on the 2016 financial plan. This plan consists of the both the operating and capital budgets for 2016, as well as an estimate of the operating revenue and expenditures for 2017. It also looks at the five-year capital expenditure plan from 2017 to 2021.

At the public hearing, members of the public can ask questions or voice objections to the 2016 financial plan. Copies of the financial plan are available for review at the town office Monday to Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Rosser students learn importance of local watershed

By Natasha Tersigni

A recent field trip where Rosser School students visited different parts of the local watershed helped to drive home the importance of clean water for humans, plants and animals.

On April 11, Rosser School teaching principal Belinda McNaughton loaded her Grade 1 and 2 students on the school bus to travel around the area to visit different sections of the local watershed so students can further understand the water cycle and water in the environment to correspond with their current science unit.

The trip started out on the Prime Meridian Trail, where students got off the bus and explored the drainage channel that runs through there. They were told how the channel collects water from local farmers' fields and drains it into a bigger water system.

From there, the bus followed the channel to where it emptied into the Sturgeon Creek. When students toured the area at this point, they noticed how much stronger the water was and how the local wildlife interacted with the creek.

Three more stops were made along the way, including one in Winnipeg where students walked a path from Grant's Mill near Grace Hospital to Woodhaven Park. At the park, they were told how the Sturgeon Creek empties into the Assiniboine River.

McNaughton was unsure how the trip would resonate with the younger students. She had done a similar tour in Balmoral before but never in Rosser, and she was excited with the interest the students took in the local watershed.

"It was really a great day. I didn't know how successful it would be with Grade 1 and 2 students, but it turned out to be fantastic. They are young but so keen to learn and were open. I really think they had a good time," said McNaughton, who added that the trip also helps to drive home the message of why it is important to protect the

Woodlands CDC planning volunteer appreciation picnic

By Natasha Tersigni

As a way to say thank you to the many volunteers who spend countless hours contributing to community organizations and events, the Woodlands Community Development Corporation (CDC) is planning a volunteer appreciation picnic to be held on May 14 at the Lions Park in Warren.

The event is set to replace the annual CDC dinner that has been hosted at Warren Collegiate for the past several years.

"We wanted to try something new this year. We heard from the volunteers that the dinner is getting a bit stale, and we wanted to freshen up the event but still find a way to say thank you to all of our volunteers from across the RM. Our organizations, clubs and sport teams would not be possible without the hard work of our community volunteers," said RM of Woodlands Deputy Reeve and CDC board member Ila Buchanan.

"We thought that the picnic would be a great community event and a way to incorporate not just our volunteers but their families as well. This way, family members and friends can all come together for a day of fun."

The picnic will start at noon and will end in the evening with an outdoor movie at the high school. The event is free for everyone ,and there will be a variety of activities including face painting, bouncy castles, oldfashioned games such as horseshoes, bicycle-decorating contest and candy scramble.

There will also be a bubble soccer game featuring local celebrities against the high school students and a skateboard demo at the park.

The CDC will be providing refreshments throughout the day, including lemonade, cotton candy and popcorn, and they will be hosting a complimentary pork-on-a-bun dinner in the evening.

While events and times are still in the planning stage, the CDC is looking for locals to provide some entertainment for the event.

"We thought this would be a great opportunity for anybody wishing to showcase their talents to come out and perform at the picnic. We are looking for musicians, magicians, jugglers and basically anyone with a unique talent to come out be a part of the day," added Buchanan.

To volunteer to perform at the picnic or for more information, contact Ila Buchanan at 204-461-1491.

First cases of Zika virus confirmed in Manitoba

Staff

Manitoba Health, Healthy Living and Seniors (MHHLS) has identified the first two confirmed cases of Zika virus infection in the province. Both individuals recently travelled to an area affected by the current outbreak.

The current overall risk to Manitobans is very low as the species of mosquitoes that can carry the virus are unable to survive the cool weather in Manitoba or Canada.

The effects and symptoms of Zika virus can vary widely from person to person. In most people, the virus causes a mild disease lasting between two and seven days, with key symptoms including fever, rash, aches, conjunctivitis and eye pain.

However, in a minority of people, Zika has been found to cause Guillain-Barré syndrome, an auto-immune disease which makes the immune system attack the body's nerve cells, resulting in weakness of the muscles and even paralysis. The effects typically last between a few weeks and a few months but are sometimes permanent.

Other neurological and autoimmune diseases, including acute disseminated encephalomyelitis, have also been linked to Zika.

The most notorious effect of the virus is its now-confirmed ability to cause fetal abnormalities if a pregnant woman contracts it.

Travellers to areas affected by the current outbreak and those areas at risk of an outbreak can protect themselves against Zika virus by taking individual protective measures to prevent mosquito bites including using insect repellent, wearing protective clothing, using mosquito nets, and ensuring that doors and windows are screened.

It is recommended that pregnant women avoid travel to areas with a current Zika virus outbreak or areas at risk of an outbreak. If travel cannot be postponed, then strict mosquito bite prevention measures should be followed to protect themselves against bites.

As research continues regarding the potential role of sexual transmission of Zika virus, caution is strongly recommended. Women should avoid becoming pregnant during travel to an affected area by the current Zika virus outbreak or an area at risk, and for two months after return from these areas. It is recommended that men returning from an affected area or an area at risk who show symptoms or are diagnosed with Zika virus consider using condoms or not having sex for at least six months after symptoms begin. It is also recommended that even men returning from an affected area or an area at risk who show no symptoms consider using condoms or not having sex for at least eight weeks after returning from an affected area.

A full list of countries and territories with active local Zika virus can be found at www.cdc.gov/zika/geo/ active-countries.html.

Some affected countries and territories include the popular tourist destination of Mexico, Fiji, Honduras, Guatemala, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Panama, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Guyana, Colombia, Ecuador, Brazil, Bolivia, Paraguay, Cuba, Jamaica, Haiti, Dominican Rep., Trinidad, Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Martin, USVirgin Islands. For more information about Zika virus, contact Health Links-Info Santé at 204-788-8200 or 1-888-315-9257 (toll-free), or visit the Manitoba Health website at www.gov.mb.ca/ health/publichealth/diseases/zika. html.

Sunova continues support of Manitoba Underdogs Rescue

Staff

Sunova Credit Union announced last week that it has committed to a gold sponsorship of the Manitoba Underdogs Rescue"Project Solo" spay and neuter clinic.

The clinic will be held April 30 and May 1 in Long Plain First Nation.

These donated funds will help Manitoba Underdogs Rescue (MUR) continue their work to control dog overpopulation in Manitoba's northern communities. This clinic, named Project Solo after a puppy that sadly passed away in MUR's care, aims to spay and neuter 40 dogs currently living in Long Plain First Nation. This intervention will prevent the birth of up to 400 unwanted dogs this year alone.

"Sunova is a company that really puts their money where their mouth is," says Jessica Hansen, executive director of Manitoba Underdogs Rescue.

"Their commitment to this rescue and the animals that we help is truly extraordinary. We can't thank them enough for their continuing support of MUR and Manitoba's vulnerable dog population."

"When people think Sunova, they instantly think about our D.O.G. [Director of Greetings] program," says Ed Bergen, president and CEO of Sunova Credit Union.

"Our dogs aren't a marketing gimmick; they're at the core of who we are as an organization, and they're members of the Sunova family. The work that Manitoba Underdogs does is incredible and we're thrilled to be able to give back to our furry friends."

Manitoba Underdogs Rescue is a registered charity that is 100 per cent volunteer-run and foster-home based. Their mission is to rescue, rehabilitate, care for, and ultimately seek out permanent and loving homes for Manitoba's unwanted animals.

Sunova Credit Union operates 13 branch locations in Stonewall, Teulon, Beausejour, Pine Falls, Lac du Bonnet, Whitemouth, Selkirk, Pinawa, Inwood, Oakbank and Winnipeg.

Teulon volunteers recognized for continued service

By Natasha Tersigni

Loyal and dedicated volunteers with the Teulon and District Senior Resource Council were treated to a volunteer appreciation lunch on April 19 to thank them for their countless hours spent helping the non-profit organization.

Volunteers play a vital role with helping the senior council provide programs and services to clients. From being escorts for appointments and shopping trips to working the council's income tax program and driving clients to medical appointments in Winnipeg, volunteers are utilized for many tasks within the organization.

One of the volunteers who was recognized for his contributions to the resource council was Teulon resident Don Rennicks. For the last six years, Rennicks has been involved with the Canadian Cancer Society Driver Program, which is co-ordinated in Teulon by the senior resource council.

Rennicks drives local clients from Teulon, Inwood, Komarno and Gunton who are receiving cancer treatments into Winnipeg for their appointments. Some patients who are receiving treatments such as chemotherapy and radiation require several trips a week in to the city, and that can often put a strain on family members.

The driver program helps to relieve the stress of getting to appointments and can provide help during difficult

Traumatic or painful experiences that happened in the past can have a powerful impact on how we live our "present." Old emotional wounds can leave us frightened, untrusting, insecure, distant, angry, anxious or depressed.

We may read things in to the comments or behaviors of others that were never intended. We may be less resilient, and have a hard time letting go of real or imagined slights. We may challenge or judge others because we feel wounded. Consequently, there may always be turmoil in some aspect of our lives. This can result in new wounds that keep our memory of the old wounds alive and active in our psyches.

In order to be happy, and to have healthy relationships and interactions with others, the old wounds need to be healed. That, of course, is easier said than done. Therapy can be very helpful, as can spiritual healing. Some find that reading self-help books can provide useful insights.

What is critical, of course, is wanting to be healed and wanting to let go of the past. For some, the pain has been there for so long, it is like an old friend. Others may become stuck in the victim mentality. Some may erroneously think that letting go of the past would mean that what happened was okay. It is easy to let the past define us, but it is not helpful to do so.

Sometimes, despite our best efforts, the pain and the memories just will not go away. This is because the impact of the past has been recorded at a deep subconscious level, and the subconscious can sabotage the intentions and affirmations of the conscious mind. If other avenues have been tried without success, the use of guided imagery or hypnosis can be a useful tool. I say if other avenues have been tried, because it is important to have insight and understanding, and that comes with therapy or reading. As and adjunct to these, tools that work at a subconscious level can be very effective (providing they are done by a trained and reputable therapist.)

Healing the wounds of the past can free us up to live life in a joyful, positive and loving way. It is never too late.

Mystery!

King Solomon, the third king of Israel and son of David, is known as the wise King who built the first temple in Jerusalem. After construction of the temple he prayed to God "Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain you; how much less this house which I have built" (1 Kings 8:27).

Throughout history, many have built up ideas about God that imagine they contain God, much as a house might. On the plains of Babel, a tower was constructed that was to reach the dwelling place of God. On their wilderness journeys, Israel believed God to reside in a tabernacle that was carried before the people. Even we may refer to God's dwelling place as up in heaven or come up with some graphic images for God or heaven.

Such images and thoughts are symbolic and may help us feel closer to God. We get into trouble when we believe our worldly symbols and temporal thoughts adequately represent God. Our theology (God talk) is too limited to adequately express the awesomeness of the true God we worship.

Our scriptures express many different visions of heaven from the old testament through to the Book of Revelation. God's dwelling place and relationship with us is described as a kingdom, a banquet table, a house with many rooms and a city. It is described positively in terms of what will be there, like singing, cherubim and seraphim and people. It is described in the negative as to what will be missing, like tears and suffering.

Yet even if we try to imagine a place separate from our own, in a time when we have yet to come, our conception is too narrow. Jesus says "The Kingdom of God is among you" Lk 17:21. God's reign is wherever people submit to it. It begins in the heart. It widens as faithful people gather together — Jesus is there where two or three are gathered together in His name.

uorship with us

Peter is given the keys to the kingdom of heaven. In the early church when it was assumed that the kingdom was intended for the people of Israel, Peter receives a vision and takes the good news of the gospel to the gentiles. They were baptized into the body of believers and received the gift of the Holy Spirit just as the Jewish believers had. Peter first rebelled against the thought of expanding the reach of God beyond his cultural borders. The house he had constructed for God was too small to contain our creator.

We too have been commissioned to take the good news of the gospel to the ends of the earth. May we be open to the mystery of God and be open to the many ways in which God's kingdom is revealed in our midst. Submitted by

Proposed St. Laurent fish plant could bring more money for fishers

By Jeff Ward

A Winnipeg-based company is looking to build a fish processing plant in St. Laurent that will put more cash into fishers pockets while bringing new jobs to the community.

Community Development First (CDF) is hoping to move quickly on the project if a deal with Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC) can be worked out to get them their licence to sell fish.

The idea for the processing plant has been in the works for nearly two decades but has recently picked up steam. CDF's chief marketing officer Terry Szydlik said that the team is just waiting to be granted their exemption by FFMC - a Crown corporation that handles the buying and selling of commercially caught fish in Manitoba to the world market — and then they can start moving the plan forward.

Szydlik said if the newly elected provincial government keeps its campaign promise of turning FFMC into a dual market corporation, the CDF could begin putting their ambitious plan into place.

Szydlik said that St. Laurent would be the perfect geographical spot for a new plant, and he's very excited about the prospect of making an investment in this community. According to Szydlik, the plant would take both mullet and carp in the round weight — which means the fish is whole — and will sell to markets all over the world. He added that the plant would process 100 million pounds of fish each year.

"The plan works quite nicely because the mullet and carp are being pulled up in nets already but are being thrown back because they have no value," said Szydlik. "If fishers are able to keep those fish for a better return, they would be inclined to fish more often and their income would increase. With higher incomes, more young people would join the profession and the community would grow as a result."

The plan is exciting and ambitious, and Szydlik said that the plant would hire 100 people to start with in their projection. He said that there would need to be a housing plan as well for all those employees and that a sustainability centre would also be built for training purposes.

Reeve Cheryl Smith is intrigued by the plan and said she welcomes any and all businesses that wish to invest in St. Laurent.

"If they want to invest and create a fish processing plant, by all means. Council wouldn't oppose anyone who wants to create jobs in our community," said Smith.

"We had a short discussion with [Szydlik] at our last council meeting and I think it was a really good productive discussion. This type of project has been attempted in the past and it's never been completed. So we wish them all the luck."

Smith said that FFMC representative for Southern Manitoba Field Operations John Binding was also in attendance during the meeting and added to the discussion.

Chairman of the south basin Lake Manitoba Commercial Fisherman Association (LMCFA) Allan Gaudry said that he is completely in favour of this new plant and welcomes the idea with open arms. Gaudry estimates a big spike in fishers' income if this plant is given the green light.

"To us fishers, it's great to have someone who will take carp and mullet in round weight," said Gaudry.

"When we have to dress the fish, we lose quite a few hours cleaning them and we could be using that time to set up more nets and catch more fish. So far, all the fishers we contacted supported the idea and now we just need government to step in and provide the CDF with their exemption." Szydlik estimated that if the exemption was granted today, the project would, at best, be 18 months from completion and, at worst, three years away from a ribbon cutting. Either way, he intends to keep working on the project because it has the potential to be a huge industry.

"We need people to call their MLA and talk about opening the dual desk at FFMC. For us, that's the last thing we need and then we can start making phone calls to the banks, our investors, architects and engineers and say we're ready," said Szydlik.

Students celebrate Earth Day with REACT

By Natasha Tersigni

To celebrate Earth Day on April 22, the Rockwood Environmental Action Community Taskforce (RE-ACT) held several activities during the day and into the evening at the Quarry Park Interpretive Centre to teach the public about the environment and how to protect it.

During the day, the REACT committee hosted the East Interlake Conservation District, Oak Hammock Marsh and Recycle Everywhere. They invited École RW Bobby Bend School students and a group of homeschooled students to come and learn about the environment. Students visited a variety of stations and learned what materials can and cannot be recycled, how pollutants can affect wildlife and nature around them, and the importance of composting, and then they planted their own trees.

REACT vice-chair Karl Daher was pleased with the event and excited to be able to see that the students were so interested in learning about the environment.

"Events like this are fantastic. One of our primary goals is education and it has been from the start. It all came together working with the Quarry Park and the community organizations to host the day," said Daher.

In the evening, Aimee McDonald from Prairie Flora Greenhouse in Teulon hosted a native plant sale and then held a presentation about the importance of planting native plants in gardens and yards.

"Native plants are essential to helping the environment. They attract and help to sustain wildlife and they will also survive longer because they can adapt to the climate easier," said McDonald, who added that native plants benefit the environment because less fertilizer, pesticide and herbicides are needed to keep them alive.

While Earth Day comes around once a year, the

Argyle School to host annual community Spring Tea

By Natasha Tersigni

In keeping with a community tradition that has spanned generations, Brant-Argyle School staff and students along with community members are hard at work planning their upcoming Spring Tea.

The annual tea dates back decades and is a joint project between the community and the school. The tea is open to everyone in the community and is a chance for the students to showcase their musical talents and some of what they learned throughout the year. It's also an opportunity for family and friends to gather as a community.

This year, the tea will take place on May 6 at the Argyle Community Hall starting at 1 p.m. Brant-Argyle School teacher Rolly Gillies is organizing the students' entrainment for the tea, promising that it will be a fun afternoon showcasing the students' talent.

"It is a long-standing tradition in the community, and the school's contribution to tea is always the musical entertainment. We are going to highlight any of the students that have performed in this year's Rockwood Festival of the Art, and also each class does a presentation whether it is a song or story," said Gillies.

"The theme this year is Farms, Feathers and Flowers — farms because we are in an agriculture area, feathers because we wanted to highlight our new initiatives of raising chickens at the school, and flowers because it is spring."

Along with refreshments, sandwiches and desserts served by the Grade 7 and 8 students and prepared by the community, the school will also be selling flowers as a fundraiser for a variety of projects.

Sportsærecreation INSIDE > OUTSIDE > UPSIDE DOWN Jets soar to MMJHL championship

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall Jets are the Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League champions.

Stonewall captured its first-ever MMJHL title with a 4-2 win in Game 4 over the Pembina Valley Twisters on April 20 at VMSC.

^{i}It's pretty special," said Jets' cocoach Matt Figur. "There are teams that have been in this league 35 years that haven't won a championship. When you think about it, we've been in the league 15 years and we finally got a championship — it's special."

In front of a frenzied home crowd of about 1,200, Stonewall came out flying and took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Derek Walker and Eric Swanson, on the power play.

Chad Millar cut that lead in half late in the opening period but Stonewall's Mackenzie Johnson replied with his seventh goal of the playoffs midway in the second period.

The Twisters⁷ Colin Grenier made it a one-goal game at 7:06 of the third but the Jets sealed the win when Scott Miskiewicz scored into an empty net with 1:08 remaining.

Hunter Ploszay made 35 saves for the win. He later was deservedly named the MMJHL playoff MVP.

"He was the backbone of our team," Figur stressed. "Not only did her perform physically on the ice, but mentally, he was so strong. He was a leader on the ice and in the dressing room. Not enough (good) things can be said about that kid."

The Game 4 win capped off an incredible playoff run for the Jets. Trailing 3-1 in their opening-round playoff series with St. Vital, Stonewall reeled off three consecutive wins to stun the Vics.

The Jets then swept the Raiders Jr. Hockey Club and Pembina Valley to post 11 consecutive post-season victories.

"To go 11 straight with two sweeps back-to-back, it still hasn't kicked in yet," Figur admitted. "I still haven't figured it out yet how we pretty much rolled over those two teams."

But if the Jets are going to repeat as MMJHL champions next season, they will have to do it with a different cast of characters. Seven Jets' players — Stuart Fleury, Tanner Faulkner, Johnson, Brett Meilleur, Ryan Miskiewicz, Rowan Versavel and Walker — have used up their junior eligibility.

"I'm so happy for those guys to be able to go out as champions," Figur said. "In 15 years, a lot of guys have come and gone and never won a championship. For this group of guys to walk away from this league with their heads held high (is great).

"To leave any sport or job at the top of your game is the way that you want to go out and they deserve it."

Despite losing those seven key players, the Jets will still welcome back a ton of talented returning players. Among those are forwards Eric Swanson, the MMJHL scoring leader in the playoffs with 23 points (six goals, 17 assists), Robert Smith and Chase Faulkner.

Smith finished second among playoff point producers (9-12-21) while Chase Faulkner was fifth (10-5-15).

"We have a good nucleus of guys to make another solid run at this," Figur said.

Locals play key role in Jets' success

By Brian Bowman

Chase Faulkner appears to have a problem that many hockey players would love to have.

Last season, he was a member of the Manitoba Junior Hockey League's Portage Terriers that won an RBC championship. And then last week, Faulkner played a pivotal role in leading the Stonewall Jets to their firstever Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League title.

"Now, I have to decide what finger to put the other ring on," quipped Faulkner, who was extremely good for the Jets the entire season.

Faulkner left Portage to come home and play hockey with his brother, Tanner, a defenceman and assistant captain with the Jets, and many of his buddies.

"I wanted to play one more year with (Tanner) and finish it off," Chase said. "I had a lot of fun and it helped that I was living at home. It was a lot more comfortable."

The Jets became the talk of the MMJHL with 11 straight wins to close out the playoffs. Only special teams can lay claim to a winning streak like that in the post-season.

"Once we realized our full potential, we had a good shot to win," said Chase, who scored 10 goals and had 15 points in the playoffs."We came together as a group of guys and a couple of key guys stepped up to the plate."

One of those key guys was Eric Swanson. After spending the last three winters concentrating on school and baseball, Swanson returned to hockey to lead the entire MMJHL in playoff scoring with six goals and 23 points in 15 games.

"Our line got together at the end of the year and we clicked, especially in the playoffs," Swanson said, noting the town support was tremendous during the playoffs. "We played well together in the playoffs."

Swanson played on the right side of a talented line which included Robert Smith and Bryce Stovin. Smith finished the playoffs second in points with 21 (nine goals, 12 assists) while Stovin had six goals and nine points in just 12 games.

During the regular season, Swanson scored 10 times and had 26 points in 40 games. He missed playing hockey and also had a great time hitting the ice with his friends on the Jets.

Swanson and Chase Faulkner will be back with the Jets next season and will, without question, be dominant players in the MMJHL. Both players are confident that Stonewall will be a very good team again next season.

In fact, the Jets may have enough returning talent to make a series run at a back-to-back championship next season.

Triathlon Manitoba hosted a School Run series in April

Submitted

Triathlon Manitoba hosted a School Run series over three Sundays this past month.

The school with the most participation in either the two-kilometre or five-kilometre runs won $500 for their school.

Last year, Stony Mountain won the Junior High participation award. The participants could run one, two or all three races, collecting a point for each run.

This year, Stony Mountain elementary placed second while Stony Mountain Junior High tied with Vincent Massy Collegiate for first place. The two schools split the win, taking home $250 each for their respective schools.

Here were the Stony Mountain Participants: Junior High - Megan VanHeyst (ran all three 5km races), Tess Derksen (ran a 5km race), Kainden Kendal (ran a 5km and a pair of 2km races), Tristan Yasinski (ran a 5km and two 2km races) and Cole Emberley (ran a 2km race).

Elementary - Max VanHeyst (ran all three 2km races), Carter VanDenBussche (ran one 2km race), Hudson Skrumeda (ran two 2km races), Madison Skrumeda (ran one 2km race), Mason Penner (ran one 2km race), Matthew Penner (ran one 2km race), Hayley Emberley (ran a 2km race), Ashley VanDenBussche (ran a 2km race) and Aiden Jonasson (ran one 2km race).

Stonewall also participated with three runners — Rylan Slatcher, Serena Derksen and Paige Yasinsky — collecting points.

MacDonald wins Turnbull Cup with Terriers

By Brian Bowman

It may have taken longer than he wanted, but Braydon MacDonald can now say he celebrated winning a junior league championship.

The Stonewall product was part of the Portage Terriers' Turnbull Cup championship after a 5-1 win over the Steinbach Pistons in Game 5 of their best-of-seven series April 19.

"It was a pretty surreal moment," said MacDonald, who is in his final season of junior, last week. "I got a chance (to skate around the rink with the trophy) for half a lap. It was amazing. Everyone was still cheering in their seats – it was a pretty special moment."

MacDonald scored the first goal in Game 5 on a nice tip-in 14:26 into the game.

"It was awesome (to score)," he recalled."The whole arena erupted."

MacDonald finished the MJHL post-season with four goals and nine points in 13 post-season. He played a large part in the Terriers' championship season.

The Terriers have now won two consecutive MJHL championships - and six in the last 10 years.

Portage will now advance to the Crescent Point Energy Western Canada Cup, which begins this week in Estevan. The top two teams there will then advance to the RBC Cup.

The Terriers will have a good shot at westerns. Portage reeled off 31 consecutive wins before losing 6-2 to the Pistons in Game 4 of the final series in Steinbach. That's a phenomenal streak, especially considering Portage had only four returning players from last year's RBC Cup-winning squad.

So, what's it like to lose a hockey game after such a successful — and lengthy -winning streak.

"It was horrible," MacDonald stressed. "I hadn't felt that in a long time but it just put a fire under everybody for Game 5."

Locals lead Manitoba to bronze in broomball at juvenile nationals

By Brian Bowman

Manitoba came home with some shiny new medals recently from the 2016 Juvenile Broomball Nationals in Arnprior, Ont.

Manitoba defeated Saskatchewan 2-0 to win the bronze on the B-side at the eight-team nationals.

"The girls were competitive," said Manitoba head coach Ron Marohn on Monday afternoon. "We had as good of a team that we have had in the last few years. It was Quebec and Ontario that we were really competing with."

Manitoba opened play with a 2-1 loss to Big River, Sask. (Saskatchewan had two teams at nationals) and then they lost 2-0 to Quebec.

Manitoba was beaten 3-1 by the host, Eastern Thunder, and then was blanked 1-0 by another team from Ouebec.

In a three versus four game, Manitoba then was blanked 2-0 by the Seaway Valley Devils. That loss relegated Manitoba to the bronze-medal match on the B-side.

Marohn said Manitoba is often at a disadvantage at the nationals due to their lack of games played during the season. He noted Manitoba girls will play around 10 games per season while other provinces will play as many as 50.

Team Manitoba's players included Dana Beck from Stonewall, Emily

Caumartin Raelyn Caumartin.

"They're all good players," Marohn said. "Emily scored one of the goals in the last game and she really only started this year - she played well in the final game. Raelyn is small in stature but has one of the better shots on the team. They're all hockey players and that makes a difference."

Team Manitoba's trainer was Tina Caumartin.

The other players on the 18-girl squad come from across Manitoba. Manitoba has just one player graduating from this year's 20-and-under team.

"That makes it hard for the girls to get together for practice," Marohn said."We have girls in university and others that are just 13."

Marohn said the sport of broomball is a cheap one to play, especially compared to hockey. It is also a very good sport for conditioning as players are always moving their feet and can't glide like in hockey.

"We're always looking for more players," Marohn said. "When hockey players get to 14, they are either going to make it big in hockey or they are basically done. That's when we get players, when they still want to do something besides hockey."

Players get their game action in through tournaments, said Marohn, instead of leagues.

Boys of summer hitting the diamond

By Brian Bowman

The boys of summer have been hitting the diamond recently in preparation for another high school baseball season.

The Stonewall Collegiate Rams have been real busy getting ready for, what they hope, will be another exciting season. Pitchers and catchers were preparing for the season with indoor workouts before spring break and now the rest of the Rams have now been outside taking advantage of the nicer weather.

Stonewall had 21 players try out for this year's team and 15 made the Rams' final roster. The team has enough talent to be competitive against many teams that they will face this season.

"We'll be OK," said Rams' head coach Kyle Nixon last Friday afternoon. "I think we can put a solid starting nine out there with guys looking to prove themselves with playing time."

Nixon said the Rams have plenty of talented athletes that have played on the Rams' hockey team.

"I think that the one thing that we're missing is that one stud that we can lean on as a pitcher/shortstop type of deal," said the Rams' head coach."Not taking anything from the guys that we have, but for high school baseball, we don't have that superstar."

The Rams do have several good arms, though, on their pitching staff. Having a lot of players that can pitch is a huge bonus when the Rams play at tournaments and, hopefully, late in the season at the MHSAA provincials.

"We have three guys that are going to be pretty decent, I think, and we have three other guys that I hope can throw strikes," Nixon noted. "And those guys are important, too, when you get into a tournament. We have six guys that I think can be effective."

Emerson Klimpke will be the horse on the Rams' pitching staff. The Grade 12 right-hander is expected to be SCI's ace in his fourth season of high school baseball while Brendan Laboissiere is a left-hander that also can play the outfield.

Seth McMahon, meanwhile, is a promising young Grade 10 player that is expected to play shortstop and pitch for the Rams.

Offensively, it's hard to say how Stonewall will be due to a limited number of outdoor practices. Still, Nixon hopes his club can consistently make good contact to generate offence.

As for its schedule, Stonewall has a fairly busy one this season with several tournaments. The Rams will be in Selkirk this Friday and Saturday, followed by tournaments in Lundar (May 5), Altona (May 12-14), Grosse Isle (May 16) and Portage la Prairie (May 20).

The date for the zone playdowns have yet to be announced while the MHSAA provincials will take place June 2-4 in Winkler.

The 2016 Coaching Manitoba IM-PACT Awards honoured the contributions and achievements of some of the very best in the Manitoba coaching community last Saturday morning, including several coaches in the Interlake.

Stonewall's Ryan Fines won the Vince Leah Memorial Award (Fundamentals Category) for his great work with youth baseball, while Jason Darragh and Heather Tataryn combined to win the Peter Dyck Award (School System Category) for their achievements with the Teulon Collegiate Saints' basketball program.

Brent Lohmer, formerly of Stonewall, won the Dr. Jack Hunt Memorial Award (Learn to Train/Train to Train Category) for his work with Multi-Sport/Special Olympics Powerlifting.

"Coaches are critical to our amateur sport system," said Laurel Read, interim CEO of Sport Manitoba, in a media release. "They build our communities and our youth making it extremely important for us to honour and recognize their significant contributions and achievements."

The annual event celebrated Manitoba's best coaches and acknowledged the outstanding contributions they have made to their athletes and sport — over a number of years.

"We are honoured to congratulate the winners of the Coaching Manitoba IMPACT Awards," added John Stinson, CEO of Manitoba Liquor &

Lotteries. "Each of you has made a meaningful contribution to the positive development of your athletes, their sport and communities. Thank you for the passion and commitment you have shown delivering coaching excellence in Manitoba."

This year's other award winners included:

Peter Williamson Memorial Award (Train to Compete/Train to Win Category)

Tom Clasper, Curling - Winnipeg

Investors Group Coach Developer Award

Dennis Hrycaiko - Winnipeg

The Manitoba Aboriginal Sport and Recreation Council also recognized the winners — Kevin Monkman (hockey) and Nicola Little (softball) — of the 2015 Manitoba Aboriginal Coaching Awards.

Sport Manitoba also honoured coaches from across Manitoba who have coached at International events in the previous year as well as individuals who have been coaching a minimum of 25 years in the province.

Rams skate rings around the competition in Transcona

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall Collegiate Rams have never iced a ringette team before.

But they sure looked like a seasoned squad at a Transcona ringette tournament as they finished with a solid 2-1 record. The Rams closed out the tournament with an impressive 5-1 win over Green Valley last Saturday morning.

SCI opened action with a 7-3 loss to Lorette but rebounded nicely to shut out River East 5-0. Shae Mulvihill posted the shutout in goal. Goal scorers for the Rams in the three games were Haley Oughton, Randi Frost-Hunt, Ricki Frost-Hunt, Rebecca Fox, Miya Saj, Fallon Furkalo, Reese Chop and Bailey Stewart.

With that 2-1 record, the Rams placed third in the round robin.

"It was a great bonding experience for the girls," said Rams' coach Amber Appleyard. "A lot of the (Grade 9/10) girls don't always get to meet the Grade 12s but they got along really well."

The Rams, which held just one practice before the tournament, had 18 players on their roster. That's a great number for a team getting together for just one tournament.

Appleyard estimated about 12 of the girls on the Rams' team played ringette this past season. Others previously played ringette or now play hockey, she noted.

The sport of ringette is slumping compared to girls' hockey, according to Appleyard, but she really wanted to put a ringette team together at SCI.

"I wish there was somebody like me when I was in high school," she said. "I would have loved to represent my school and do something that I love. I wanted to make sure that the girls here had that opportunity."

Appleyard, who is on a term teaching position at SCI, said she would love to see the Rams' put together another ringette team next year, or in future years.

"I think I put enough of a bug in these girls' ears that they'll make sure that someone (puts a team) in for them," she said.

Nixon steps down as Rams' head hockey coach

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall Collegiate Rams are used to new players joining their hockey program every season.

But next season, they will be also welcoming a new coach.

SCI teacher Kyle Nixon confirmed Sunday afternoon that he is stepping down as the Rams' head coach. Nixon, who did a tremendous job with the Rams during his tenure, recently accepted the head coaching position with the Charleswood Hawks of the Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League.

"Kyle has been with the Hawks for the better part of two seasons, knows the organization, has worked with our systems, and already has knowledge on our returning players," said a note on the MMJHL and Hawks' websites. "Kyle understands the game of hockey very well, is knowledgeable, dedicated and a tireless worker.

"Being a teacher has also helped him hone his communication skills, which is critical if one is to have success coaching in today's world."

A replacement for Nixon with the Rams had not yet been announced at press time.

Meanwhile, the Rams were on the ice last weekend participating in the WHSHL rookie tournament.

Stonewall was very good at the rookie tournament, finishing first in its pool with a 3-0 record before losing 6-1 to College Beliveau in the quarterfinals of the "B" division. There were 26 teams competing in the "B" division.

"Last year we went 0-3 and really struggled," said Rams' rookie head coach Blair Mooney. "We got blown out pretty much every game. But this year, we had a really good showing. With the exhibition game, we won four out of five games."

The Rams started tournament action last Friday afternoon with an impressive 8-2 win over Louis Remillard. Stonewall led 3-1 in the third before exploding for five goals in the final frame.

"It was nice to put the puck in the net," Mooney said. "And the boys got some confidence."

The next day, Stonewall defeated the Beaver Brae Broncos from Kenora 5-1. On Sunday morning, the Rams then defeated previously undefeated College Beliveau 3-2 in overtime to advance to the playoffs.

To get ready for the rookie tournament, Stonewall had an exhibition game against the Warren Collegiate Wildcats. The Rams won that game 5-1.

Mooney said the rookie Rams had a handful of players from Stonewall's high school team this past season. He said it was nice for them to get a taste of that winning feeling.

"For them to win four out of five was a pretty good feeling for them going into the summer," he stressed.

Mooney particularly liked the defensive play of his team throughout the weekend.

"We didn't give up too many goals," he noted. "And we were able to put the puck in the net. We played pretty well defensively aside from the last game. There were tons of penalties in the last game, so there were a lot of special teams (play)."

Mooney agreed that the WHSHL rookie tournament is an important time to introduce players to the benefits of playing high school hockey.

"The common misconception is that kids who want to play junior, or somewhere else after high school, is that they have to play 'AAA' to do that," said Mooney, also the head coach of the MMJHL's St. James Canucks.

"I think this tournament is pretty good to show them that if they stick together (and not play on several teams throughout the Interlake) that they can be pretty good."

Saints spectacular at Gimli badminton tourney

By Brian Bowman

The Teulon Collegiate Saints continued their varsity badminton dominance this spring with several outstanding performances at a Gimli tournament last Friday and Saturday.

Teulon's Jake Ledochowski and Kyra Wiebe teamed up to defeat Yvan Bourgeois and Caitlyn Kruk (Louis-Riel) 2-0 by scores of 21-11 and 21-18 in the mixed doubles final.

The Saints' pair earlier beat Blaine Henrotte and Venessa Gueret (Ecole St-Joachim) 21-12 and then Judy Rico and Nathan Lazaro (Garden City) 21-13,21-16 in a semifinal matchup.

In ladies' singles play, Teulon's Katrina Carter defeated Duyen Nguyen (Garden City) 21-14 in the final. Carter earlier beat Jayda Campbell (Gimli) 21-13 and Duyen Nguyen (Garden City) 21-13 in the semis.

Men's singles action saw Teulon's Mark Shinnie defeat Cole Lacap (Maples) 21-14, 21-15 in the final. Shinnie also notched playoff wins over the Maples' Deo Ofiaza 21-4 and Louis Reil's Owen Rivard 26-28, 21-19, 22-20.

In ladies' doubles play, Gwen Balagtas and Beth Ivison (Maples) defeated Brittny Hill and Ale Mejicanos (Teulon) 21-17.

In the men's doubles division, Teulon's Everett Morin and Austin Spulnick defeated Wayde Johanesson and Nikko Vandorp (Gimli) 21-9. No other results from the Saints' duo were available.

Participating schools featured Gimli, Collège Louis-Riel, Maples, Garden City, Swan Valley Regional Secondary School, Ecole St-Joachim, Teulon and Riverton.

Meanwhile, the Stonewall Collegiate Rams' varsity badminton team had a very successful tournament in Portage la Prairie this past weekend. Finishing in first place in their respective events were Brielle Cara, Chris Wiebe, Loren Proven/Sarah Fines, Curtis Beck/Carson Ouellette, and Veronica Carroll/Brett Lawrence.

The MHSAA badminton provincials will take place next Friday and Saturday in Winkler.

Inwood Charity Ride for Wishes aims for $1 million

After 17 years, the Dziedzics will host their final ride on May 14 at the VL Ranch

By Jennifer McFee

Let's work together to make a million-dollar wish come true.

The 17th annual Charity Ride for Wishes of the Central Interlake Sub-Chapter is coming quickly on May 14. This is the final year that the Dziedzic family will host the much-anticipated event at VL Ranch in Inwood, and they hope to make it a memorable experience.

Over the years, they have raised approximately $840,000 for the Children's Wish Foundation. With the help and support of the community, they hope to raise at least $160,000 to reach the $1 million mark.

The funds raised will also make a very important wish come true for nine-year-old Bryce Helstrom of the Winnipeg Beach area.

Over the winter, Bryce's family thought that he had caught the flu that was going around the community. He continued to eat less and sleep more, so his family made a doctor's appointment, called Health Links and took him to the local emergency room. The family was told not to be too concerned about some swelling in his face and neck, since this symptom can be common in kids with a virus. Bryce was given a prescription to fight the virus, with the assumption that it would take about 10 days.

But by the next day, things took a turn for the worse since Bryce was having difficulty breathing. He had no appetite and hardly wanted to drink. The swelling in his face and neck was worse, and it was spreading to his chest. His family decided to take him to the emergency room at the Children's Hospital in Winnipeg. By the time they got there, Bryce was not breathing well and his colour was becoming bluish.

Bryce was admitted immediately and the doctor ordered an ultrasound right away, suspecting some type of blood clot. An ultrasound technician noticed that fluid had built up around his heart. There was also fluid in his lungs and a tumour pressed against his heart that was making it difficult to pump his blood.

The cardiologists determined that they needed to operate immediately to take the fluid off his heart. A few hours later, they were in the pediatric intensive care unit to prepare for the procedure. Without anesthetic due to Bryce's weakened state, the doctors injected a needle into his heart to withdraw fluid. Over the next few days, a catheter drain continued to take out the fluid.

The oncology department began giving Bryce steroid treatment to start attacking and shrinking the tumour. The fluid taken off his heart was tested and found to be cancerous and filled with lymphoma cells. The experts diagnosed him with Stage 4 T-cell lymphoblastic lymphoma, an aggressive and fastgrowing type of cancer.

The next morning, he started chemotherapy and his heart began to improve slightly. Within a week, the tumour had shrunk so much that it was hardly detectable by X-ray, and there was only minor fluid left in his lungs.

Bryce is now back at home, going to the city several times per week for treatments that will continue for nearly three years. He hopes to return to school soon.

The May 14 charity event will raise funds to make a wish come true for Bryce. And for Charlene and Victor Dziedzic, it's children like Bryce who have inspired them to host the event year after year.

"Children are our future. For these children that are sick and have life-threatening diseases, if we can just put a smile on their face for a few hours or a couple of days by sending them on a wish, what more could you ask for?" Charlene said. "We have 12 grandchildren. They are all healthy. We thank God every day, but that can change tomorrow."

Currently, there is no one slated to take over the annual event after the Dziedzics wrap up their final ride.

"We're all getting older, and it's getting tougher to get volunteers out. Some of our committee members have passed away, so it's just not the same," Charlene said.

"We have been very, very proud to be a part of the Children's Wish Foundation. There are lots of highlights this year, so people are very excited. We're going out with a bang. It will be one to remember." In addition to the trail ride on Saturday, May 14, the fun-filled day features an ATV ride for the third year in a row. A pancake breakfast will run from 8 to 11 a.m. at a cost of $5 for adults and $2 for children age six and under. Then from 3 to 5:30 p.m., kids will be entertained by a big bouncer, as well as face painting and a visit from a superhero from A Living Fairytale.

The barbecued pork and turkey supper starts at 6 p.m., and attendance will be capped at 1,500 diners. The cost is $10 for adults and free for chilren age six and under. Other highlights include the always-impressive Wish Auction, a 50-50 draw and a fireworks show. At 9 p.m., toes will be tapping during the barn dance, featuring Kendra Kay, MCMA's 2015 female vocalist of the year.

The Dziedzics extend their gratitude to the donors who make the event possible. Breakfast donors include Shellmouth Sausage in Roblin, Parish Heimbecher in Swan River, SPR Hair Salon in Teulon, Bert and Kathy Campbell in Teulon, and MMF Madeline Armstrong Métis Local.

Dinner donors include Charison's Turkey Hatchery in Gunton, Bruce and Shirley Watts in Gunton, Danny's Whole Hog Barbecue, Concord Colony, Clearwater Colony, New Haven Colony, Real Canadian Wholesale in Winnipeg, Kroeker Farms in Winkler, Bostrom Catering, Alan Stutsky, Tim Hortons (Lee-Anne Brewer), Glenn and Judi Carroll and family, and Donny and Sabrina Reed and family.

The Dziedzics' son Darcy Brewer and Charlene's brother Carey Rae will cook the dinner, while Kathy Campbell and her helpful elves will cook the breakfast.

"Everything is donated for this ride, and we are so thankful for that," Charlene said.

For more information, contact Charlene at 204-278-3346 or charvicdziedzic@gmail.com. For more information about the ATV charity ride, contact Jim or Carol at 204-278-3363.
