Heroes save a life at local gym

By Jennifer McFee

In a heart-stopping moment at a local gym last week, strangers rushed to the rescue in a medical emergency and used their skills to save a life.

In the early evening on Monday, April 24, Paul Lajoie walked out of the change room and stepped onto the treadmill at Adrenaline Fitness in Stonewall.

When he glanced in the mirror, he noticed another gym patron had rolled off one of the machines and was crouched over on the ground. He rushed to the side of the collapsed man, Howard Thiesen. At the same time, Stuart Lyner and Amar Manning also ran over.

"No one had seen what happened," Lajoie said. "They thought that maybe he had a cramp or something."

At that moment, their lifesaving skills kicked into action. As Manitoba Hydro employees, Lajoie and Manning have both undertaken training in first aid, CPR and AED (automated external defibrillator). Lyner, a university student, also received training as a lifeguard to deal with emergency situations.

"We couldn't get a response from him, so knowing he was unresponsive, we laid him out on his back and checked his pulse, listened for breathing," Lajoie said.

"He wasn't breathing, he had no pulse, so right away I went over and grabbed the AED that the gym had actually just put up."

They opened up the AED and put the pads on Thiesen. Lajoie and Lyner worked together to administer CPR while Manning called 911.

"After the first 30 compressions and the first 30-count with the AED, it advised for a shock, so we hit the shock," Lajoie said. "That's when Howard took a breath again and gained his pulse back."

Robert Paige, who had installed the AED with his son less than 24 hours earlier, had left his business card at the gym. As the owner Xtreme Sports Medics, Paige received a phone call at about 7:30 p.m. about the emergency situation.

"All I could think was I'll be right there. I live about a block and a half from the gym," said Paige, a volunteer ski patrol. "I had my oxygen tank sitting right near the door because we were doing training on Saturday with some of our medics. I grabbed it and raced over there."

Maria and Howard Thiesen

The rescuers put the oxygen on Thiesen and continued monitoring his pulse. The AED indicated to start chest compressions. At that point, the ambulance arrived, having taken 19 minutes to show up at the scene.

"We were doing chest compressions for what felt like forever," Paige said. "We stopped so that the paramedics could get their defibrillator and their patient monitoring on him."

Paige used a bag valve mask to assist with ventilation all the way to the Stonewall hospital.

"The doctor wasn't there, so I continued doing it and he started going into seizures. He was unconscious the whole time. So I had to help them restrain him to put IVs in. They sedated him and he stabilized really quick and I went home," Paige said.

"Everything fell into place. That man has a guardian angel up there."

Thiesen was eventually brought to St. Boniface Hospital, and a triple bypass surgery was scheduled for Monday, May 1. His wife Maria and their two daughters express their heartfelt gratitude for all the people who jumped into action.

Gym owner Brody Nolin is also thankful that the Adrenaline Fitness owner Brody Nolin and Xtreme Sports Medics president Robert Paige with the AED that was installed the day before it was used to save Howard Thiesen's life.

heroes were on hand to save a life. Nolin wasn't at the gym during the incident, but he reviewed the video footage that shows how the rescue efforts began about 30 seconds after Thiesen collapsed.

He is also grateful that Paige worked out a deal with him to trade the AED for a membership to the gym, which is open 24 hours a day.

"The stars were aligned and everyone was quick thinking on their feet," Nolin said. "We definitely have a few heroes in town, that's for sure."

"HE WASN'T BREATHING, HE HAD NO PULSE, SO RIGHT AWAY I WENT OVER AND GRABBED THE AED."

Woodlands council proposes a 2.25 per cent tax increase

By Natasha Tersigni

The RM of Woodlands council presented a draft budget that includes $5.7 million in expenditures for the year at the 2017 financial plan public hearing on April 21. To cover increasing costs and new projects, council is proposing a 2.25 per cent mill rate increase for all municipal ratepayers.

“With the services we have to offer and the projects we are undertaking, I think this mill rate is manageable and it is pretty good fiscal management. Comparing Woodlands to the other nearby RMs, I don’t think we are out of line,” explained Reeve Trevor King.

“Our spending isn’t crazy. We are just budgeting for what needs to happen.”

On a rural residential home with an assessment of $250,000, the increased mill rate would result in an additional $41 on the municipal tax bill. For farmland with an assessment of $250,000 the increase would be approximately $24.

Capital purchases in the budget include a grader ($210,000), mowing tractor ($50,000), a gator ($10,000) and forklift ($5,000) for the Woodlands landfill.

Major initiatives and projects planned for the year include construction and realignment of Road 82N between Roads 15W and 16W ($225,000); a Warren drainage plan for Tait drain ($10,000); the closure of Argyle landfill ($30,000); continued construction on the new public works shop ($900,000); installation of low pressure sewer main in Woodlands ($389,900); and the creation of a strategic plan ($20,000).

Council is planning to hold second and third readings of the 2017 financial plan at their meeting on May 10.

The event will take place at Stonewall Collegiate Institute on Friday, Sept. 22 from 6 p.m. to midnight.

The event is held across the country to raise funds for the Canadian Cancer Society. Participants walk or run around a track, passing a baton to their teammates in a shared goal to fight against cancer.

Any teams and individuals interested in participating can contact the Stonewall Teulon Tribune office at 204-467-5836 or Town of Stonewall Coun. Sandra Smith at ssmith@stonewall.ca.

Welcome Wagon greets new residents, new babies

By Jennifer McFee

Whether you're new to the community or expecting a new baby, a Welcome Wagon representative is on hand to extend greetings and gifts on behalf of local businesses.

For the past year, Norma Kostrowski has been serving Stonewall and surrounding communities as a Welcome Wagon representative.

The Canadian owned and operated organization launched in 1930 to offer a free greeting service to the people they visit while also offering marketing opportunities for businesses in the area.

"It's basically a welcome gift from the community businesses," Kostrowski explained. "There's some information that the town provides. Different businesses in town will also give a small gift, which might be a gift card. It's a nice little package."

The same thing applies for families who are expecting a new baby or who have recently welcomed a new baby.

The package is similar to the one given to new residents, with a few differences in sponsors and contents.

Kostrowski welcomes anyone interested in receiving a package to call or text her at 204-951-1925 or to email her at mocha3@mymts.net.

"I would be happy to make arrangements to drop one of these packages off," she said.

If any businesses are interested in getting involved, they are welcome to contact Kostrowski as well.

NDP heavyweights visited Stonewall last week

By Natasha Tersigni

To get a head start on the 2020 provincial election, prominent NDP politicians made a stop in Stonewall last week to speak at a public event hosted by the Lakeside NDP Constituency Association.

Having launched his candidacy for the leader of Manitoba's NDP in early April, Fort Rouge MLA Wab Kinew used the event to talk about his plans to reshape the province. NDP members will head to the polls in September to elect a new leader, and Kinew spoke to local supporters on why they should cast a ballot for him.

"I think we owe it to the people of Manitoba to put forward a strong and positive vision for this province, which is all about having good jobs in the future, strong health care and community we can be proud of. Come 2020, we absolutely have to put a strong foot forward and I am ready to help build and rejuvenate the party and rebuild trust in Manitobans," said Kinew, who committed to protecting public service jobs and to continue to advocate for a higher minimum wage.

Former NDP MLA and MP Judy Wasylycia-Leis joined Kinew on stage to talk about cuts that are being made by the current provincial government. Also in attendance at the event was NDP advocate and City of Winnipeg Coun. Jason Schreyer.

While Lakeside is a Conservative party stronghold, the local NDP constituency association is motivated by the results from the 2016 election that support for the party is continuing to grow locally. NDP candidate Matt

Woodlands municipal road improvements questioned

By Natasha Tersigni

The RM of Woodlands plan to spend $225,000 on improvements to one municipal road is being called into question by a resident of the RM.

At the Woodlands Financial Plan public hearing on April 27, Bill Fleury voiced his concerns on the proposed $225,000 budgeted to realign and repair Road 82N between Roads 15W and 16W.

Currently, the RM is in the planning process with Topigs Norsvin to build a $9-million research facility that would utilize that road for transporting animals in and out of the facility. The RM is closely tied to the project as they have sold Topigs Norsvin 80 acres of community pasture land so they could build the facility in Woodlands.

Fleury accused the RM of being biased when choosing Road 82N to conduct repairs and only wanting to do it because of the proposed facility going there. For the planned repairs on Road 82N, the RM would contribute $150,000 to the improvements, and $100,000 would be used from provincial funding. The provincial $100,000 funding can be used for any road in the RM and it is not designated for that specific road improvement project.

"You are spending $225,000 on improving the road to the pig barn on land which you sold," said Fleury.

"The land is tentatively sold to the pig barn, pending on whether this council approves the conditional use agreement. You already have $225,000 in your budget to build a road to the new pig barn. How can you be impartial when it comes time to a public hearing?"

Under the Provincial Planning Act, the RM is fully within their rights to have Norsvin Topigs Canada cover the costs of upkeep and repairs to the road that are needed for the business. It is recommended by the province that the RM put these conditions in their conditional use agreement.

Reeve Trevor King denies any favoritism and told the Tribune that no agreement on road repairs was made with Norsvin Topigs officials.

"There is an alignment issue with some of the landowners. If the (Topigs) project doesn't go through, the funding could go to other roads repairs in the RM. There are repairs that are needed all the way down that road as it seems to be a major transportation route," said King.

"We had the budget for it and we figured if (the Topigs facility) didn't happen, then it would be used elsewhere."

During the public hearing, RM of Woodlands CAO Adam Turner further defended the decision for road repairs, stating that it is council's and the RM's responsibility to plan ahead.

"We would be putting ourselves in a difficult position if we didn't recognize the potential for the facility," said Turner.

RED RIVER > CHALET BEACH > LAKE WINNIPEG

> ARNIE WEIDL Spring sucker fishing brings out the kid in all of us

Hi again, good friends.

This year's winter fishing on the Red River upstream of Selkirk was fast coming to a close in late March when I came upon Claude Gagne of Winnipeg tailgate angling.

He was a stocky, broad-shouldered, fun-loving chap who I had seen on the ice before, but this particular time, he had a story for us. In his restless manner, he said he was fishing here with a friend using the many open holes left by other anglers.

Claude spotted his truck by a cluster of them, got his lines in the water and went to say hi to close by neighbours. What he didn't see was his buddy Brian move the truck ahead just a bit so he could use holes by the door.

An enjoyable day ensued, fishing and visiting with friends in the ice shack "village" until Claude went to pack up his gear for home. The minute he approached the truck's tailgate, an ice hole just under it, out of sight, invited one of his legs in for an ice cold wash right up to the waist. He wanted to yell at Brian for moving the truck but he really couldn't because he should have been watching. Besides, his truck had lots of heat for the ride home.

About that same time, I was on Lake Winnipeg ice off Belair and met three guys from Winnipeg, John Galbraith, Graeme Barr and Jordan Ethans. They said because they only had a car and had to walk out onto the ice with all their fishing gear they liked Belair. They had learned the waters are deep close to shore here and full of smaller eating-sized pickarel. When I met them, they had almost caught their limit in the morning.

Getting back to anglers getting wet in pursuit of their sport (like Claude), remember a couple of weeks ago when I mentioned it was time for dip netting?

Well I was sitting in Old Red on the side of the gravel road by the "church ditch" at Shoal Lake last week watching groups of young lads netting, bow fishing and just plain grabbing suckers out of the golden-coloured ditch waters. I got such a kick out of seeing them at first trying not to get dirty as they cast their pole nets into the water.

The minute they raised their nets with wriggling suckers in them, all caution was thrown aside as their primal instincts took over and they became hunters. Quickly, they shed shoes, socks, pants and shirts returning to the icy water after their prey. They chased the suckers out of the water weeds with their feet, their unbridled shrieks of excitement piercing the still country air with each fish landed. Then in the bright sun, I witnessed something heartwarming when the young men, only for a brief moment, became carefree boys again running, laughing and splashing through the fresh spring water after fish.

Later, they tiredly pulled on their clothes. I corralled some of them with their fish for a picture.

Some of our MIFA folks were at the Teulon Game and Fish Association's fundraiser at Frydays. The money goes for facility maintenance at the Norris Lake Park. Businesses and organizations like MIFA chipped in

Roaring Twenties casino fundraiser a success

Staff

This year's casino charity fundraiser was a roaring good time for all who attended.

Hosted by the Stony Mountain/Stonewall Masonic Lodge #12, this year's event featured a festive Roaring Twenties theme to raise funds for community causes.

Due to a scheduling mix-up, the event's date was changed, which resulted in lower attendance than in other years. Nonetheless, about 115 people turned up to try their luck for a good cause. In total, the event brought in about $3,800 to be reinvested in the community.

Caring for watershed pays off

Warren Collegiate's Rebecca Myskiw, left, soared to the top of the 'Caring for Our Watersheds' competition last Saturday at Oak Hammock Marsh. Myskiw finished in the top 10 and was officially awarded first place following the presentation of her project to the judges panel. Myskiw was awarded a cheque in the amount of $1,000 for herself, $1,000 for her school and in the fall, the foundation will finance Myskiw's paint night project. The project will hopefully raise $900 for the WCI art program. Myskiw plans to use her money for an upcoming trip she has planned to Italy. Pictured with Myskiw is WCI biology teacher Amanda Dion.

Province approves Topigs boar station in Woodlands

By Natasha Tersigni

A technical review released April 21 by the Province of Manitoba has concluded that the proposed plan and site assessment for Topigs Norsvin's Delta II Research Facility in the RM of Woodlands meets provincial requirements and recommends the project move forward.

The proposed project is a boar research testing facility planned to be located in the RM of Woodlands on 80 acres of land on the east side the RM's community pasture. The facility would house 2,830 pigs (1,872 finishers and 958 boars) and is estimated to cost $9 million to build, including the construction of a new barn and a two-cell earthen manure storage structures.

The RM of Woodlands council has been supportive of the project and sold Topigs Norsvin the 80 acres of land for the site. The sale of the land and any future conditional use agreements by council was contingent on the technical review committee's report.

The committee was formed by representatives from provincial departments, including Indigenous and Municipal Relations, Agriculture, Sustainable Development and Infrastructure, to ensure a thorough review of the proposed project occurred.

"Based on the available information, it has been determined that the proposed operation will not create a risk to health, safety or the environment, or that any risk can be minimized through the use of appropriate practices, measures and safeguards," the committee stated in their report.

The review process included extensively evaluating all aspects of the project and the impact it will have on the community including the facilities use of well and groundwater, storage and application of manure, and potential trucking and hauling routes.

The committee received seven dispositions from RM of Woodlands residents, all opposing the project. Concerns that arose included the sale of the pasture land; operator exceeding unit allotment; contamination of watersheds during overland flooding; odour from facility and manure application sites; increased traffic and destruction of local roads; and de-

A provincial technical review committee has reported that all provincial requirements of Topigs Norsvin's proposed Delta II research facility in the RM of Woodlands has been met through the planning process. The RM of Woodlands council now has 30 days, from April 21, to hold a public hearing in regards to granting Topigs Norsvin a conditional use permit for the facility.

creased residential property values.

With the technical review committees report complete and submitted to the RM of Woodlands, council now has 30 days under the Planning Act to call a public hearing.

Reeve Trevor King said council will be moving forward with the project and will use the public hearing to collect input from all residents on how the council should proceed.

"Whether we move forward or not depends on the planning process and what the public has to say about it. Council will be reviewing the report and have consultations with the public," said King.

Following the public hearing, if council does decide to approve a conditional use permit, Topigs Norsvin will be required to obtain various permits and licences from the province to address in greater detail environmental aspects they must adhere to.

Recycle Everywhere program expands its reach

By Scott Billeck

Cottage owners and campers across Manitoba will have 30,000 more reasons to recycle this summer after Recycle Everywhere announced three new initiatives last week.

The province's recycling watchdog plans to supply about 30,000 bin bags free of charge to all Manitoba cottages and seasonal sites. Roughly 200,000 clear recycling bags will also be given to all provincial, municipal and private campgrounds for overnight campers.

Recycle Everywhere says it will do whatever it takes to help keep the province's campgrounds, seasonal sites, lakes and parks cleaner during the summer months as they work to reach their goal of 75 per cent recovered recyclables in the province.

"We hope to exceed that (goal)," said Minister of Sustainable Development Cathy Cox. "I think by the relationships we have with managers, the property, the campsites, things like that, we have the ability to expand and do even better and exceed those targets."

Manitoba provincial parks with public access are already equipped with new recycling bins, which are fully-funded by the Canadian Beverage Container Recycling Association (CBCRA), the not-for-profit organization that runs the Recycle Everywhere program.

By making recycling easier and more accessible for everyone, Cox feels more people will jump on board with a "build it and they will come" mentality.

"If you make it easy for people, they will do it," she said. "By giving them the opportunity to actually recycle in their own campsite, their own cottage, you're giving them that ability to recycle and it done quickly and easily."

Since 2011, the province has gone from 42 per cent recyclables recovered to 65 per cent at the end of 2015.

"Obviously, the last 10 per cent are going to be harder than the first 10 per cent, but we got a very dedicated team and great partners across the prov-

Manitobans encouraged to take precautions to minimize tick exposure

Submitted

May is Lyme Disease Awareness Month and Manitoba Health, Seniors and Active Living is reminding Manitobans that tick-borne diseases are preventable.

Manitobans can protect themselves by performing regular tick checks after spending time outdoors, knowing where blacklegged ticks are located, minimizing the risk of exposure and recognizing the signs and symptoms of tick-borne diseases. These precautions help protect against anaplasmosis, babesiosis and Lyme disease.

Blacklegged ticks, which can carry anaplasmosis, babesiosis and Lyme disease, are most commonly found within and along the edge of forests and in areas with thick, woody shrubs and other vegetation. These ticks are more often found from early spring through late fall. The smaller nymphs are difficult to see and are most abundant during late spring and summer.

The province is monitoring and assessing the continuing range expansion of blacklegged ticks and has identified blacklegged tick risk areas, where the risk of tick-borne disease transmission is greatest. Blacklegged ticks found within these risk areas are more likely to carry the agents that cause anaplasmosis, babesiosis and Lyme disease. While blacklegged ticks can be found outside of these blacklegged tick risk areas, the risk of tick-borne disease transmission is lower.

The burden of Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases in Manitoba continues to increase. Since 2015, nearly 85 per cent of the anaplasmosis and Lyme disease cases reported in Manitoba likely had local exposure. Less than one in three Manitobans infected with Lyme disease recalled a tick bite. Limiting exposure to potentially infected blacklegged ticks is the key to tick-borne disease prevention.

Manitobans are encouraged to take precautions to minimize their risk of tick exposure by:

- applying an appropriate tick repellent, following label directions, on exposed skin and clothing;
- inspecting themselves, children and pets after spending time outdoors;
- removing ticks as soon as possible from people and pets;
- staying to the centre of walking trails;
- wearing long pants and long-sleeved shirts; and
- keeping grass and shrubs around homes cut short to create drier environments that are less suitable for blacklegged tick survival.

Symptoms of anaplasmosis can start five to 21 days after a tick bite and may include fever, chills, headache, joint aches, nausea and vomiting, often in association with blood abnormalities and/or liver abnormalities. Anaplasmosis can be successfully treated with antibiotics.

Symptoms of babesiosis can start one to six weeks after a tick bite and may include non-specific flu-like symptoms such as fever, chills, sweats, headache, body aches, loss of appetite, nausea or fatigue. Babesiosis can be successfully treated with antibiotics.

Symptoms of Lyme disease can start about three days to one month after a tick bite, often with an expanding rash which then fades. Early symptoms can also include headache, stiff neck, muscle aches or fatigue, fever, chills and swollen lymph nodes. Lyme disease can be effectively treated with antibiotics and treatment is most successful in the early stages of infection.

People who think they may have anaplasmosis, babesiosis or Lyme disease should see their doctor. For more information, they may also contact Health Links-Info Santé at 204-788-8200 or (toll-free) at 1-888-315-9257.

For more information about tick-borne diseases, including a map showing the blacklegged tick risk areas and additional information about prevention, go to www.gov.mb.ca/health/publichealth/cdc/tickborne/index.html.

ince," said CBCRA executive director Ken Friesen.

Friesen added a lot of recyclable beverages are consumed by cottage owners and those who frequent cottages. Often, those individuals have to load it into their cars and drop it off somewhere else.

"We're trying to make that convenient for people to do that," he said.

Friesen said the CBCRA will work with individual cottage associations to get the bins into the hands of those who want them.

Meanwhile, Winnipeg Beach Mayor Tony Pimentel said he's already seen his community taking recycling seriously, and the additional support from the province will only help keep that trending in the right direction.

"Any amount of recycling we can remove from the dump site is a good thing," Pimentel said.

Pimentel said residents are just generally more on board with recycling in his experience.

"People are being very cautious," he said. "Being by the lake, people understand these pollutants get back into the lake. If you have the recycling bins, people have the options to recycle rather than just putting it in garbage bins.

"We've been pushing this recycling message for many, many years now and, through the different media sources, I think the message is getting out."

Pimentel said the new bins are available in Winnipeg Beach's town offices for any cottage owner who wants them.

St. Laurent Métis documentary now airing on television

Jules Desjarlais is the narrator of the show that documents an entire year of hunting, fishing and trapping in St. Laurent, now airing on Canal D.

By Jeff Ward

The inaugural episode of the documentary series Au Pays De Mitchifs showcasing the lives of Métis people in St. Laurent aired recently on Canal D.

Canal D is a French language specialty channel that focuses on documentary-style productions and is available through both Shaw and Bell service providers.

The series is a look at a way of life that is grounded in Métis culture and history and documents an entire year of hunting, fishing and trapping in St. Laurent.

The first of eight 30-minute episodes aired on April 22 and series producer Patrick Clement said that he is thrilled to have the project out in the world for people to see. The production took the last two years to put together and has been in the editing and post-production phase for the last six months. Clement said that he wants this series to be a window into a way of life that we don't often get to see and that this project wouldn't have succeeded if it wasn't for the people of St. Laurent.

St. Laurent Reeve Cheryl Smith said that she felt a great pride for her community after seeing the first episode.

"I thought they represented the Métis people so well and there was a great respect for the language, culture and traditions," said Smith.

"Because they actually speak Mitchif in the show, I didn't have to read the French subtitles to understand. This is my language. When I travelled to Montreal and spoke French, people asked me if I was from Louisiana because the dialect is so different. To hear it on TV was really great."

Clement said that because he himself is Métis, there was a lot of responsibility on his team's shoulders to tell the story as authentically as possible. In other "reality" shows, production teams will dramatize events to make them more exciting to the viewer. For this production, the drama, when there is some, comes from the fact that that's how life happens out in nature. When fishing nets get washed away or a storm starts to roll in, that's real drama. They're not life or death situations but they're accurate depictions of everyday life for Métis people.

"For us, the wow factor was just being able to film them using tools that are decades old — Bombardiers that are 60-70 years old, and other tools that have been passed down from generations," Clement said.

"It's stuff like that that you can't recreate. It's genuine. We always wanted the story to be true and authentic. If we followed someone around for days with a camera and nothing exciting happened, that's OK."

Clement said that if the series does well, he would like to come back to the area and explore more episodes and stories from St. Laurent. At this time, however, he couldn't say if that would happen or not.

with gifts and donations for the silent auction. During the evening, we had great talks about our Manitoba waterways and fish stock as well as TGFA's Junior Hunter Safety and Firearms courses. As we were walking out the door at the end of the evening, Ron Muir, the event chairperson had a story for us. Yes, another "wet one."

A few years ago, he and his family were enjoying a weekend at Norris Lake, and when it came time to leave on Sunday, Ron went about loading their boat. He beached it and asked his wife to hold the bow rope while he backed the trailer into the water. Well, a wind came along, pulling the rope out of her hand and taking the boat out to the centre of the lake. By now, most everyone had left the park, so Ron, being an inventive fellow, stripped down to his shorts and swam out to rescue the wayward boat. He caught it, and using the rope, he swam and towed it back to shore.

Ron wouldn't tell me if he rode home in his wet shorts, but if he's anything like the rest of us, he probably did.

Come by next week, won't you? So long for now.

Red Barn Concert coming soon

By Jennifer McFee

The countdown is on for this year's Red Barn Concert, expected to be an evening of music, film and outdoor excitement all for a good cause.

The sixth annual event is slated for June 24 when a down-home concert in a Balmoral barn will double as a fundraiser for Nova House, a shelter for women and children in Selkirk.

Kelly Doucette and her partner Kassandra own the 40-acre farm, which includes an open barn space complete with a stage.

Along with a collective group of like-minded people, they have been organizing yearly concerts to support local charities such as Camp Aurora, St. Francis Place and Camp Stepping Stones.

"The first year, it was just a fun concert. Then we thought if we're putting all this work into something, perhaps we should be having somebody benefit from it," Doucette said.

"So we basically volunteered a bunch of time and hired some musicians every year. And whatever money is left over, we donate it to an organization that's local and that benefits local folks."

This year, they chose Nova House as the recipient because it's clear to see the need for its services.

"They're the only women's shelter in the Interlake. I work for the Department of Families, so I'm pretty acutely aware of how important Nova House is. Several other people that organize are also in social work roles, so we're pretty acutely aware of the need," Doucette said.

"Also, a very good friend of ours works for Nova House and has been talking about seeing so much change there."

This year's concert lineup includes Casati, Okay Mann, Sleepy the Clown, The New Customs, and Wild Honey featuring Amy Storry McNally, Carey

Richards and Manon Timsel.

In addition to taking the stage, Storry McNally is integral to the organization of the concerts. In fact, she grew up on the Balmoral property, so she knows firsthand what a great venue it is for gatherings.

"We used to hold something called Harvestfest for our friends and friends of friends," she said.

"We had a lot of music friends in the community that would come and perform ever year, so it totally works."

She also used to run Timothy Beans Café in Stonewall, where she gained experience putting on musical events and even a local film festival.

"My thinking with Red Barn is to extend those ideas to have this great little community of locals who all support each other in the arts and music. At Timothy Beans, I had such great response from the community," she said.

"Especially in a small community, it was like they were almost searching for somewhere to showcase their talents and express themselves through music or poetry or art."

Now the Red Barn concerts are heading in the same direction, with the addition of some yet-to-be-announced films to bolster the experience. Storry McNally hinted that next year's event might include more contributions from visual artists as well.

The family-friendly event will feature a kids' tent and some vendors. However, since there is no ATM on site, concertgoers should ensure that they have cash on hand to pay for any purchases.

Spots are limited, since there are only 150 paper tickets available plus another 100 online. Tickets cost $25 in advance or $30 at the gate, and kids 12 and under are free. The cost includes entry to the festival as well as a camping spot on the property for anyone who'd like to spend the night.

Owners Kelly Doucette and Kassandra are looking forward to the event.

the concert starts at 5 p.m.

Father and son help to rebuild fire damaged building

By Jennifer McFee

A recent trip to Africa provided a volunteer experience unlike anything Brian Kroeker could have imagined.

For three weeks, the Stonewall resident put his hands-on skills to the test by fixing up a building damaged by fire in Kisumu, Kenya.

His dad, Don, is the chair of the Canadian board for Bethel Rays of Hope, a charity that serves orphaned and vulnerable children in the Kisumu area. Through the charitable organization, 45 orphans live at its orphanage, and another 15 or 20 community-sponsored children are fed and educated each day before returning to their guardians for the night. The organization also operates a school, which is open to the community as a whole.

A team of volunteers recently travelled to Kisumu to construct a new building to act as the boys' dorm and guest quarters. However, shortly after they got back to Canada, a fire damaged an older building that acts as the girls' dorm and kitchen.

The same group of volunteers wasn't able to return to Africa to repair the damage, so the charity scrambled to find anyone who was able to help.

Brian stepped forward to take on the challenge. He brought with him ample experience since he is a contractor with his own business, Kroeker Contracting.

He met with the board on Monday, March 27 and left for the adventure on Tuesday, April 4.

"I had one week to get my affairs in order. My passport was expired, so I ended up getting that the day before I left," he said.

"I had just finished up a big job in Winnipeg and my next job is in Gimli. I called the customer and told him what I was thinking of doing and asked him if it would be OK to push it back a month, and he said no problem."

After a long international journey, Brian arrived in Kenya as the only volunteer to tackle the repair work.

"When I finally got to Kisumu, I was really looking forward to having a day to relax and maybe take a nap, but because of the fire, there was no room for me to stay," Brian said.

"They were also running what they call a crusade, which is a lot of visitors from all over Africa who were ministering to all the slum areas. So there were a ton of people there."

For the first couple nights, he slept in a bed under the stairs in the kitchen, blocked off by a bed sheet. But amid the bustling environment, he wasn't able to get much rest, so he decided to get straight to work. When he later moved to his own room, he said that's when he really started to appreciate the small things in life.

"I walked in there blindly and the only power tool I had was a circular saw, so all the cutting was done by hand. Basically, the walls are concrete and plaster but the ceiling is a wood fibre board and the rafters are made of wood also. That's what took all the damage — the rafters, the ceiling board and the metal were all burnt," he said.

"My main goal was to fix the rafters, replace the metal, do the ceiling board and oversee the rest of the work being done."

He co-ordinated with a local plumber and electrician, and he selected a small team of local workers to help with the project.

"There was tons of work to do. There was all the demolition, and all the paint had to be scraped off and the walls washed so it could be repainted," he said.

"Because that building was still occupied, I was taking off four sheets of metal, replacing the rafter and then putting the metal back on because it rained every night at around 6. It's rainy season down there, so I was under a time crunch."

Brian had to get creative due to lengthy delays to receive building materials. While he waited, he tackled other tasks such as putting the fascia on the new building, working on the gutters, screening in the porch, and fixing desks and doors.

On April 14, his dad arrived to complete to lend a hand.

"It was super helpful to have him work with me," Brian said. "It was nice to have him there."

His father, Don, agrees that it was a remarkable experience to share with his son.

"That was an eye-opening experience to see the level of poverty that people have. They live day to day, meal to meal. They wake up in the morning to figure out how they're going to feed their family that day," said Don, who lives in Argyle.

"Brian worked very hard to help them. I'm quite proud of him as my son."

Because they were waiting on materials until the very end of their stay, the father-son duo continued to work until the morning of Tuesday, April 26 before flying out at 1 p.m. the same day.

They arrived back home the following day, and already Brian is thinking ahead about volunteering again.

"The people there are absolutely wonderful," he said. "I'll be going back, that's for sure."

Keating requests permission to house 20 dogs

By Jennifer McFee

Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman MP James Bezan dropped by Rockwood council chambers on April 26 for his annual visit.

He spoke to council about how the safe injection site program has been rolled into Bill C-37, which is a health bill mainly targeted at the illicit trade of fentanyl and other opioids coming into Canada.

The Conservatives are requesting for the bill to be separated, and Bezan is asking local councils to contact the health minister to make the same request to split the bill.

"Having the issue of safe injection sites wrapped into a bill that's going to stop the illicit trade of fentanyl and other opioids is wrong," he said.

Council also had the chance to broach other topics with Bezan, including free trade with the United States.

In other council news, Carly Keating spoke at the committee of the whole meeting about her request to increase the number of dogs allowed on her property. Currently, she has permission to keep 15 dogs on her property, and she would like to increase that number to 20 to better enable her to start training future dog sledding teams.

She said she would never request more than 20, since that would be her maximum number.

Council will consider her request at an upcoming meeting.

As well, Scott Beaton spoke to council about his request to put up a second dwelling on farmland that he is renting. He is in the process of having his name added to the title.

worship with us > FAITH

The vast majority of Christians have trusted in the love of God to see them through the difficult parts of life. Loving response is what we hope for when we need: encouragement, forgiveness, protection, grace and a variety of other gifts from God. The love of God has become the one and often the only characteristic that we want to experience from God. What kind of love does God really have and how will we be able to receive His love for ourselves.

The 13th chapter of Corinthians is the most commonly referenced chapter to explain the love of God. The first three verses of the chapter explain that whatever I do must be done in love, if it is to be worthwhile. The middle four verses really specify the heart of how godly love is expressed. Kindness, goodness, patience are all key characteristics; however, it is verse six that really gives life direction for today. Love "does not rejoice in iniquity but rejoices in the truth." The weak morality of today insists that "truth" is relative and should never be expected to have universal application. You may have heard someone say, "that is your truth, but your truth doesn't apply to me." While love may be more obvious or less relevant in one situation or another; truth is always more valuable than iniquity. Iniquity (lies and unclean ideas) should never be valued over truth. Love is not on display when truth has such a low value. The Hollywood culture usually pits one flawed character against a character with greater flaws and then celebrates the victory of less flawed ideals in the new hero on the screen. Too often we are "taken in" by these relativist storylines.

It is the love of God that instructs me to faithfully follow His word and it is the love of God that corrects me when I make unhealthy or faithless choices.

What Kind of Love is This?

One of the most blunt statements we have on this subject is found in Hebrews 12:6. "For whom the Lord loves He chastens (corrects and punishes) and scourges (whips) every son whom He receives." We may not want to be whipped by God, but this is an inconvenient truth about God's love. He loves me enough to allow or even cause consequences to come against me and save me by changing heart, mind and direction. God did not ask my permission to love me this way; He has only asked me to give Him this control in my life and then to reap the incredible benefits of His perfect and protective love.

Dependency on Prescription Medications

WHEN WE ARE NO LONGER ABLE TO CHANGE A SITUATION, WE ARE CHALLENGED TO CHANGE OURSELVES.

~ VIKTOR FRANKL - FROM MAN'S SEARCH FOR MEANING

Often people who would never think of "doing drugs" become addicted to or dependent upon their prescription medications. Some painkillers, anxiety medications and sleeping pills carry the risk of dependency.

Anxiety drugs and sleeping pills should generally only be used on a short term basis. While they may provide relief, they do not address the underlying problem. By the time an individual is talking to his or her physician about anxiety or sleeping problem, it is likely they have tried some things to help themselves, without success.

Anxiety or sleeping problems indicate there are underlying issues affecting the person. Often the basis for these issues may lie somewhere at an unconscious level, so it can be difficult to get to the bottom of things on one's own.

Psychological counseling has proven effective in assisting individuals to change the patterns that are contributing to their difficulties. Without doing this, the symptoms remain along with the use of the medication. Sometimes people find their bodies get used to the initial dosage, and they need to increase the amount taken in order to get the same results as before. This is a slippery slope. Because the body has come to rely on the drug, attempts to go off the drug may result in symptoms that are even more intense than they were in the beginning.

If you feel you are dependent on your medications, talk to your psychologist or make an appointment with one. It is not a wise idea to stop taking these medications "cold turkey." Set up a program to assess the possible causes of the problem and to learn to alleviate symptoms in non-medicinal ways. As the therapy begins to show results, you can gradually reduce the amount of medication you are taking and ultimately aim to come off of it completely.

Naturally it is important to talk with your doctor about your concerns, and advise him or her that you have, or will be seeking therapy. Then, when you are ready to reduce your medications, this should always be done under your doctor's supervision.

Toasted Pecan Burgers

1 pound ground chuck
1/4 cup chopped red onion
1/4 cup chopped pecans, toasted
1 tablespoon finely chopped green bell pepper
3 tablespoons Bar-B-Q Sauce
2 tablespoons Bar-B-Q Spice Rub
Mix together chuck, onion, pecans, bell pepper, sauce and rub. Shape into 4 patties.
Prepare grill for direct cooking. When coals are ashed over in charcoal grill, spread them in bottom of grill so food can cook directly over coals. Grill burgers over direct, medium heat, first on one side then the other, 7-10 minutes, until they reach desired doneness. Medium burgers register an internal temperature of 160 F. Serve with your favorite burger toppings on toasted buns.

Spring runoff washes out road, damages others in Armstrong

By Patricia Barrett

Road 9E in the RM of Armstrong has taken a beating this spring as runoff from fields makes its way down to Lake Winnipeg. The road collapsed and washed away near the junction of Road 124NE.

Water was cascading through a gap about the length of a small sedan when the Tribune passed by April 28.

"As soon as we have a washout like that, our councillor closes the road for the safety of people," said a spokesperson at the RM's office in Inwood, roughly 35 kilometres south of the site. "And then we see what is the issue and why the wash-out [occurred]."

Ward 3 Coun. Ted Sumka, who is on the roads committee, erected signs and flags warning drivers of the wash-out.

"The road washed out the bottom of the culvert when it was frozen," said Sumka last Sunday. "I'm going to put another culvert [in]. I'm just waiting to get an OK from Water Resources."

Farther down Road 124NE near the junction of 13E, water had run over road, leaving behind deep gouges. And parts of road had been sucked into the ditch on the north side.

Much of the municipality is characterized by high groundwater levels, according to a 1999 Information Bulletin published by Manitoba Agriculture.

Pups ready to adopt

By Jennifer McFee

Nearly two months ago, the community came together to search for a lost pregnant foster dog named Sunshine.

She eventually made her way back to her foster home in Stonewall where she soon gave birth to 11 pups. One pup didn't make it, but the other 10 thrived under Sunshine's care.

"They're six weeks old as of last Friday," said John Savage, who is fostering the yellow lab. "They got big fast."

The pups are now available for adoption through Manitoba Underdog

Rescue, and three of them are spoken for — with Savage and his daughter each planning to keep one. A representative from the rescue organization also plans to keep one puppy.

That leaves seven pups available to adopt. Some of them are in foster homes right now, but they are in need of permanent homes.

Anyone who is interested can visit www.manitobaunderdogs.org for more information about the application process to adopt or foster a dog.

Project Linus knitting comfort for children in need

By Natasha Tersigni

The click-click of knitting needles was heard throughout most of Saturday at Stonewall United Church as members of Stonewall's chapter of Project Linus worked to ensure a number of projects were completed for their annual Make a Blanket Day.

Celebrating their fifth Make a Blanket Day on April 29, Project Linus members were joined by guests and Stonewall RBC employees for a day of quilt and blanket making. Project Linus works throughout the year at making, collecting and donating handmade quilts for children who are a going through a traumatic life experience. To help purchase supplies and materials, as part of their community service initiative, RBC employees volunteered their time to the event, and in turn the bank will be donating $1,000 to Project Linus.

During the day, special guest Mike Chiborak joined the group to talk about one organization that the quilts are donated to. Chiborak, a retired Winnipeg Police Services officer, works at Winnipeg's Snowflake Place as a forensic interview specialist. The non-profit organization is an advocacy centre for children and youth who have experienced abuse. After the first initial outcry, children and youth are brought to the centre to be interviewed and re-tell the story of their abuse. While Chiborak conducts the interview with the child, members of the police, family and child protection services and victim services are all watching the interview on monitors in separate rooms gathering the pertinent information they need.

Members of Project Linus and guests spent most of Saturday creating quilts and blankets in honour of Make a Blanket Day. The items that were created were donated to provide comfort to children and youth that are going through a traumatic life event.

After a child is interviewed about their experience, they are given a handmade blanket that was donated by Project Linus. While a simple act, Chiborak says the gesture goes a long way in helping the child heal from their traumatic event.

"When they leave, they get to take a blanket with them. It is turning a very traumatic event into a positive. When they first come in, you can see on their faces they are anxious and don't really know what to expect. When they are leaving, we hand them this blanket and it brightens them right up. We want the last thing they think about is that positive interaction and it really takes their mind away from everything we just talked about," said Chiborak, who adds the blankets and quilts are utilized quite a bit by their young clients.

"We have been partnered with Project Linus for two years, ever since we have been open. We do interviews for all the police services across Manitoba and, unfortunately, we go through many blankets over the months."

Last August, Stonewall's Project Linus donated 100 blankets and in January another 90. With just a few blankets left on the shelf after four months, Project Linus was able to ensure Chiborak left with enough blankets to restock the centre for the next few months.

Over the 10 years that the Stonewall chapter of Project Linus has operated, they have created and donated over 6,000 blankets and quilts to various community organizations.

5 Best-Kept Secrets for Buying a Home

Buying Secret #1: Get Pre-Approved for Your Home Loan
There's a big difference between a buyer being pre-qualified and a buyer who has a pre-approved mortgage. Nobody can get pre-qualified for a loan. Getting pre-approved means a lender has looked at all of your financial information and they've let you know how much you can afford and how much they will lend you. Being pre-approved will save you a lot of time and energy so you are not running around looking at houses you can't afford. It also gives you the opportunity to shop around for the best deal and the best interest rates.

Buying Secret #2: Keep Your Money Where It Is
It's not wise to make any huge purchases or move your money around three to six months before buying a new home. You don't want to take any big chances with your credit profile. Lenders need to see that you're reliable and they want a complete paper trail so that they can get you the best loan possible. If you open new credit cards, amass too much debt or buy a lot of big-ticket items, you're going to have a hard time getting a loan.

Buying Secret #3: Stalk the Neighborhood
Before you buy, get the lay of the land - drop by morning noon and night. Many homebuyers have become completely distraught because they thought they found the perfect home, only to find out the neighborhood wasn't for them. Drive by the house at all hours of the day to see what's happening in the neighborhood. Do your regular commute from the house to make sure it is something you can deal with on a daily basis. Find out how far it is to the nearest grocery store and other services. Even if you don't have kids, research the schools because it affects the value of your home in a very big way.

Buying Secret #4: You're Buying a House - Not Dating It
Buying a house based on emotions is just going to break your heart. If you fall in love with something, you might end up making some pretty bad financial decisions. There's a big difference between your emotions and your instincts. Going with your instincts means that you recognize that you're getting a great house for a good value. Going with your emotions is being obsessed with the paint color or the backyard. It's an investment, so stay calm and be wise.

Buying Secret #5: Don't Try to Time the Market
Don't obsess with trying to time the market and figure out when is the best time to buy. Trying to anticipate the housing market is impossible. The best time to buy is when you find your perfect house and you can afford it. Real estate is cyclical, it goes up and it goes down and it goes back up again. So, if you try to wait for the perfect time, you're probably going to miss out.

Three ways to split up the family home in a divorce

Determining what to do with the family home after a divorce is often an emotional and trying undertaking. However, on a practical level, you only have a few options to choose from.

- 1. Sell and split
Put the house on the market and sell it, then divide any profits made between the two parties. This option offers the cleanest break, as marital debts can be paid off and everyone gets their piece of the pie. However, it becomes less attractive when market conditions make a quick sale unlikely.
- 2. Arrange a buyout
One person buys out the other and remains in possession of the property. This person must have adequate monetary resources in place and get a lender to agree that they're well positioned to take on the added financial burden of a full mortgage. If the
- 3. Share it
If finances are tight and you can't sell your home, you may choose to share the space for a time. However, becoming your former spouse's roommate is intrinsically fraught with potential difficulties. You'll have to decide how to divide the space, how to share maintenance responsibilities and costs, and what rules there are about guests in the home.

Moving season: don't leave your animals to fend for themselves

For many animals, the arrival of moving season means parting ways with their owners for good. Every year, factors like moving to a smaller property or one that doesn't allow animals drive countless pet owners to abandon their furry companions. This mass abandonment results in numerous animals wandering the streets in distress each year, many of which are sick, wounded or extremely malnourished. Thankfully, there are solutions.

- If you anticipate moving, begin your search early to ensure you find a house, condo or apartment that not only suits your needs and budget, but also allows your trusted companion to come along for the journey.
 - Ask potential landlords if they'd be willing to meet your well-behaved pet prior to the big move. If impressed, would they consider making conditional modifications to the lease?
 - Track down a caring family who'd gladly adopt your furry friend. Ask your friends, co-workers and neighbours, and leaf through classified ads to find prospective pet owners in your area.
- If you aren't in a position to take your pet with you, leaving your dog, cat or bunny in a box by the side of the road is never the solution! As a last resort, entrust your pet to a no-kill shelter.

Location, location, location. No matter what type of real estate you're planning to buy - residential, commercial, investment property or otherwise - getting the best bang for your buck will always come down to where over what. Buying the smallest home on the best street over the largest home on the worst will always be the sounder strategy when it comes to a healthy return on investment.

Talented students of Ecole Stonewall Centennial school captivated the audience last week as they performed Disney's The Lion King Junior. The musical brought the African savannah to life on the stage with Simba, Rafiki and an unforgettable cast of characters as they journeyed from Pride Rock to the jungle and back again. The show directed by Bambi Rutherford included singing and dancing and colourful costumes and backdrops. WCI prepares for evening of entertainment

By Jo-Anne Procter

An evening of entertainment is planned at Warren Collegiate Institute (WCI) on May 9.

Students are ready to hit the stage, after a six-year hiatus in musical productions. The Grade 9-12 students have been rehearsing under the direction of Fallon Campbell, with help from Cathy Pleskach, since December to bring The Big Bad Musical to life in Warren.

The stage will be set for a lively and fun courtroom run by the Judge (Marc Normand) with the jury being the audience. The jury must decide the outcome of the biggest trial ever in the fairy-tale world. The notorious Big Bad Wolf (Tyler Findlay), is being slapped with a class-action lawsuit by storybooks of quirky characters who want to get even: Little Red Riding Hood (Ashley MacDonald), her Grandmother (Sierra Bullied), the Three Little Pigs and the Shepherd in charge of the Boy Who Cried Wolf (Mackenzie Langrell and Reanne Glover). With Sydney Grimm (Olivia Genio) as the commentator on live Court TV, the two greatest legal minds in the Enchanted Forest — the Evil Stepmother (Rebecca Myskiw) and the Fairy Godmother (Madeline Boonstra) — clash in a trial that will be remembered forever after. As our wronged fairytale characters testify, the wolf seems deserving of all that's coming. Yet, even though the infamous Evil Stepmother resents doing pro-bono work on such an obviously futile defense, Mr. Wolf makes a good case for himself.

To add to the entertainment, WCI's choral class, under the direction of Darlene Malazdrewich, will start the evening off with a mix of solos, duets and group numbers

At intermission fairytale characters will serve homemade desserts made by the home economics class. The evening starts at 7 p.m. on May 9 and tickets are $10, available at the office or at the door.

ParticipACTION 150: My not-so-green thumb

By Natasha Tersigni

According to the sticky note that I scrawled on and then placed above my desk, Mother's Day is right around the corner — Sunday, May 14, to be exact.

I am sure after you have read a few of these articles, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that maybe, just maybe, I wasn't the easiest child to raise. Now that I have grown and matured, please keep your laughter to yourself. I use Mother's Day to make up for all those awkward parent-teacher interviews, trips to the hospitals for stitches and sprained ankles, and basically just the many headaches I have caused my dear old ma over the years.

Last year, in my attempt to provide my mother with a useful yet sentimental gift, I made her an indoor herb garden. It was a beautiful windowsill garden that I had filled with her favourite spices including oregano, basil, rosemary and dill. Unfortunately, due to my lack of planning and foresight, the garden was placed next to a 425-degree oven that was turned on for six hours a day, five days a week. Needless to say, it didn't end well.

This year, I am going to be prepared for Mother's Day.

So for my activity of the week, #51 Gardening, I enlisted the help of greenhouse owners and plant experts Lori and Rick Schellekens. The Schellekens own the beautiful Whispering Oaks Greenhouse just outside of Warren. With over 300 different varieties of flowers, herbs, vegetables and plants in general, you will certainly be able to find everything you need to make your garden.

They quickly taught me that while heat and moisture are good for herbs gardens, maybe not 425-degree heat. Instead, they taught me how to properly transplant the herbs to hanging pots and explained how, if I put them in hanging pots outside and trim them regularly, they will survive the summer and I can bring them in for the winter.

So please don't spoil my Mother's Day present and tell my ma. If you, too, want a special day with your dear old mom, check out the Whispering Oaks Greenhouse. Did I mention their opening day will be Mother's Day? For hours of operation and anything else you need to know about the greenhouse, head to their Facebook page at Whispering Oaks Greenhouse.

If you are like me and was born without a green thumb, then head over to Whispering Oaks Greenhouse located just off of Highway 67 before Warren. There, I was able to complete activity #51 Gardening thanks to help and advice from owners Lori and Rick Schellekens.

Please keep your invites for ParticipACTION 150 coming. I was hoping to be at 100 completed activities by Canada Day, and I might be very disappointed. Email me at natasha@stonewallteulontribune.ca and I will profile your sport team or community organization.

Kinley, Lee win mixed doubles provincial badminton title

Staff

The rural team of Dale Kinley (Stonewall) and Katherine Lee (Brandon) defeated Kyle Grymonpre and Katherine Desautels 2-1 by scores of 17-21, 21-15, 21-17 to win the mixed doubles provincial championship.

Kinley and Lee lost a close first match but were able to figure out their strategy before starting the second and third matches on Sunday at the Winnipeg Winter Club.

With a punishing combination of hard smashes and soft touch at the net they were able to win the gold.

Another Interlake player, Winnipeg Beach's Hanna Rebizant teamed up with Kristin Szuminsky to win the women's double provincial title. The pair narrowly defeated previous winners, Clarissa Koh and Vanhphen Souvannarath, in the final (22-24, 21-11, and 21-17).

Meanwhile, in a hard-fought two-game set, Thien Vo defeated clubmate Kyle Grymonpre in the men's singles final 2-0 (21-18 21-13).

Vo also paired up with Anil Kaul to win the men's doubles provincial championship. They beat Sean Chawla and his partner Kyle Grymonpre 2-0 in the final by scores of 21-17 and 21-14.

On the women's singles side, Tiffany Tantakoun defeated Kristin Szuminsky in three games (18-21, 21-12, and 21-17).

The provincial championship capped off Badminton Manitoba's circuit events for the season unless athletes choose to play at junior nationals later this month or internationally through the summer.

Interlake players chosen for U18 Female Top-40 camp

Staff

Interlake athletes were a popular choice among the players chosen for Hockey Manitoba's U18 Female POE Top 40 Camp roster earlier this week.

Hockey Manitoba released the roster for the 2017 Program of Excellence Top-40 Camp, which included Stony Mountain's Ashley Hodge-Hirschfield (Balmoral Hall), Stonewall's Olivia Cvar (Balmoral Hall) and Annaliese Meier (Norman Wild), Riverton sisters Keayanna Lea (Balmoral Hall) and Keyara Lea (Balmoral Hall) and St. Andrews' Hailey Karbonik (St. Mary's Academy).

The camp, which will be held May 11-13 in Portage la Prairie, is the second phase of the Hockey Manitoba U-18 (female) POE.

Rams 2-0 in exhibition play

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall Collegiate Rams finished with a 2-0 record at an exhibition tournament last Thursday.

Stonewall slipped past the Selkirk Royals 4-3 and then outscored Lundar 10-6.

"It was nice to win," said Rams' head coach Kyle Nixon. "But it's just as important to play."

Selkirk jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the five-inning game but Stonewall tied the score at 3-3 in the fourth. The Rams then won the game in the bottom of the fifth inning with a walk-off single.

Scott Yeo pitched for the Rams in the fifth to secure the victory while Hunter Olson had the game-winning RBI.

Selkirk definitely gave Stonewall a good test in the first game action for both teams this season.

"They definitely looked like a ball team," Nixon said. "They had all of the gear and stuff. They threw a couple of their better (pitchers) against us and they had (Brittney Langlais) throw second for them and she was very good."

Against Lundar, Stonewall seemed to score a couple of runs every inning as they banged out several hits and benefitted from some walks and errors.

"We earned some of those runs and they helped us out, too," Nixon observed.

Brendan Labossiere started the game on the mound for the Rams, pitching two scoreless innings.

The Rams spent this past week practicing and won't play again until next Tuesday when they travel to Grosse Isle for a tournament hosted by the Warren Collegiate Wildcats.

Stonewall will then compete at an Altona tournament May 11-13.

Warren Wildcats ready for Zone 5 baseball action

By Brian Bowman

The Warren Collegiate Wildcats are looking to make a return trip to the MHSAA baseball provincials in just a few weeks.

But it won't be easy against a tough Zone 5 field of competition.

"We haven't had any game action yet," said Baily Proctor, who will be coaching Warren along with Reid Bruce, Tuesday afternoon. "We've been (practicing) about three weeks now."

Warren will be fielding a fairly young team of 15 players this season when they open Zone 5 action next Tuesday with a pair of games.

"I'm itching to get out there and see what we can do in a game," said Proctor, a player with the Wildcats last season. "You only know what you're capable of in practice to a certain extent."

The Wildcats will play Stonewall at 10 a.m. and then Gimli at 4 p.m. All games that day will be played in Grosse Isle.

The Wildcats have a younger team this season that is still learning the game, said Proctor. But what they lack in experience, they more than make up with enthusiasm and effort on the diamond.

Jayden Allary will play an important role on the Wildcats this season. The talented Grade 11 right-hander should see plenty of innings on the mound. Tristan Prystupa, a senior, is a pitcher/third baseman that will also be counted heavily on, said Proctor.

Warren will wrap up its four-game Zone 5 season with two more games on May 16 in Lundar. The Wildcats will battle the Lundar Kodiaks at 11 a.m. and then the Stonewall Collegiate Rams at 1 p.m.

The Wildcats will also be looking to find a couple of exhibition games before the Zone 5 championship May 24 in Stonewall.

The MHSAA provincials are slated for June 1-3 in Altona.

Ploszay, Faulkner to be honoured at MMJHL awards banquet

Staff

The Stonewall Jets will be well represented at the Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League's annual awards banquet tonight at Canad Inns Polo Park in Winnipeg.

Hunter Ploszay will be honoured with the MMJHL's top goaltender award after another brilliant season between the pipes for the Jets.

Ploszay posted a stellar 22-11-1 regular-season record to go along with a 2.83 goals-against average and .918 save percentage. He also had one shutout.

In the playoffs, Ploszay was 10-7-1 with a 2.46 GAA, .930 save percentage, and two shutouts as he led Stonewall to the MMJHL finals.

Faulkner, meanwhile, also enjoyed a tremendous season for the Jets. He finished the regular season tied for fourth in the league with 71 points. Faulkner scored 35 goals and added 36 assists in 44 games.

He was even better in the post-season, leading all players in goals scored (19) and points (33) in 18 games.

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANNOUNCEMENT

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of
Andre Catrysse
June 20, 1922 - May 5, 2016

Dad, we miss you every day,
Letting you know that mom is okay.
We remember your jolly laugh and hard working hand
And how you loved to farm the land.
Till we meet again
-Love, your wife of 71 years, Genowefa and family

ANNOUNCEMENT

IN MEMORIAM

Rose Pawluk
February 4, 1922 – May 7, 2016

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed,
While others are asleep.
A loving Mother, so gentle and kind,
What a wonderful memory she left behind.
Long days, long nights, she bore her pain,
To wait for a cure, but all in vain.
Till God Himself knew what was best,
He took her home and gave her rest.
-Love from your children,
Barry, Linda, and Peggy (Dennis), grandchildren and great-grandchildren

OBITUARY

Jamie William Romanchuk
1972 – 2017

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Jamie William Romanchuk. He is loved beyond words and will be deeply missed by his wife Shauna and daughters Arlee and Amber (Cole) and his granddaughters Aleah and Natalie. He leaves behind his mother Gail (Jerry) and his brother Mark (Britt), nephew Cain and niece Peyton. He is also survived by his loving grandmother Joey and his furrever buddies Stax and Maggie. He also leaves Betty and Harold Lillies and family, numerous aunts, uncles, cousins and friends that will mourn his loss.

He was predeceased by his father Bryan and his grandfather Victor.

Jamie's happiest times were spent with his wife and girls at the lake, fishing and boating and sitting around the campfire.

He always had a passion for his muscle cars and took great pride in his autobody work. His quiet and gentle soul will be missed by all who knew him.

The family would like to thank everyone for their condolences at this time.

As per Jamie's wishes a private family interment will take place at Woodlands Cemetery.

Letter from Heaven
When tomorrow starts without me,
and I'm not here to see,
if the sun should rise and find your eyes,
filled with tears for me.

I wish so much you wouldn't cry,
the way you did today,
while thinking of the many things
we didn't get to say.

I know how much you love me,
as much as I love you,
and each time you think of me.
I know you'll miss me too.

When tomorrow starts without me,
don't think we're far apart,
for every time you think of me,
I'm right there in your heart.
