Sea of orange at Teulon's annual Pumpkinfest

By Jennifer McFee

It was a warm way to welcome autumn last weekend at Teulon's 23rd annual Pumpkinfest.

Presented by the Teulon Agricultural Society, this year's festival was bigger and better than ever before.

When the new board took over Teulon's ag society, they amalgamated some of the annual fair items with the Pumpkinfest event. As a result, Teulon's fall festival celebrates all that is pumpkin.

This year's event featured higher prizes for the largest pumpkins, with $1,000 for first-place winner Kenny Loehmer for his 267.5-pound pumpkin. Second place of $500 went to Keenan Karnish for a 233-pound entry, and third place of $300 went to Tracy McClintock for her 212-pound pumpkin.

The board had heard that Roland, Man., offers big prizes in their pumpkin weigh-off, so that's what prompted Teulon to follow suit.

"We all looked around the table and said lets put Teulon on the map. We felt that was important," said chair Lana Knor.

"We have quite a few entries. There was a really bad hailstorm in Teulon. We heard from a lot of families that they were growing them but they got destroyed. We're happy with what we got, but we want to see this whole place full of pumpkins next year."

This year's event also featured facepainting, balloon art, a caricature artist and a silent auction. Board member Robin Chestnut acted as the event's

The festival included an outdoor component with 20 farmers' market vendors who braved the windy weather. Kids and adults alike were delighted by a petting zoo where they met pigs, goats, ducks, chickens, sheep, a horse and a cow.

And one lucky winner is the proud new owner of a Berkshire pig, donated by Knor as a unique raffle prize. Cindy Halayko of Teulon won the piglet, which she will leave on Knor's farm to raise until it is ready for slaughter.

This year's event was certainly a

WCI grad nominated for Heroes of Mental Health award

Tara Green recognized for her ongoing work in suicide prevention

By Jennifer McFee

A Warren Collegiate Institute graduate is being recognized for her work in mental health.

Tara Green, 18, has been nominated for a Heroes of Mental Health awards in the category called the RBC Believe in Youth Award.

"It's basically for my work with youth and how I've prevented suicide that are due to mental illnesses. I've prevented over 100 suicides, and 75 per cent of them were due to mental illnesses," said Green, who is studying education at the University of Winnipeg.

"It feels absolutely amazing to be recognized for the work that I have done. I wouldn't have even thought that this could happen."

Green is involved with an organization called Hateless, which travels to schools across the country to provide motivational speaking and to engage with students through music and drama. Their mission is to spread a message of hope and acceptance will also be providing resources about bullying and mental health.

"I share my story and I have kids in tears all the time, jaws dropping. It's powerful. I was bullied all my life from young to now," she said.

"I had both my knees broken. I've tried to commit suicide four times. I got into the drugs and alcohol. That's why I'm doing what I'm doing — because I want people to prevent others from doing what I tried to do."

Green, who was also nominated for a Women of Distinction award this year, said she provides her contact information while she does her motivational speeches.

"Kids are always coming up to me and talking to me right there personally, so I do keep in contact with a lot of them. I do drive out to where they are if it gets more serious," she said.

Stargazers across Canada were mesmerized by a blood-red moon in the sky on Sunday night as a rare lunar eclipse and supermoon happened simultaneously. Viewers across the Prairies could see the partial eclipse. Wells in Rockwood test positive for E. coli

By Natasha Tersigni

A routine test initiated and paid for by quarry operators Glacial Aggregates has found E. coli bacteria is present in wells in the RM of Rockwood.

As Glacial Aggregates prepared to begin mining a new section of land for limestone, located near Highway 236 and Road 78, they tested nearby homeowner wells as stipulated in their development agreement with the RM of Rockwood. Friesen Drillers, which Glacial Aggregates contracted the well testing to, found samples of E. coli in the wells before Glacial began drilling their new section.

E. coli is a bacteria found in the intestines of humans and animals that will appear in water samples that have recently been contaminated by fecal matter. Water containing E. coli is not safe to drink and corrective measures need to be taken.

RM of Rockwood CAO Chris Luellman confirmed that some wells tested by Friesen Drillers had samples that were positive for E. coli but adds it is not the RM's responsibility to contact homeowners to let them know of the positive test or to conduct further tests.

"In the Glacial development agreement, it says that they have to do pretesting of the wells surrounding their quarry. Friesen Drillers is preforming preliminary tests and I know they have come up with some E. coli samples. As far as I know, Friesen Drillers is contacting the homeowners to let them know they have found these samples," said Luellman.

"Once people are notified, they should come into (the RM office), grab a test bottle and test their wells. After that, it is the Office of the Drinking Water that should tell them what to do, if they should shock their wells."

While test bottles for water samples are available at the RM of Rockwood office, it is up to homeowners to send in and pay for their tests.

Luellman is recommending that anyone who has a contaminated well or needs more information regarding testing to contact the Government of Manitoba's Office of Drinking Water. For information on how to contact the office go to www.gov.mb.ca/waterstewardship/drinking_water.

and mexican flag.

Childhood friends Bernardo Rivera and Ruben Ruiz grew up together in the coastal city of Los Mochis, Mexico.

They likely never imagined that at the age of 13, they would embark on an adventure northward bound to Stonewall.

The adventurous amigos arrived in early September as exchange students in Grade 8 at Stonewall Centennial School, living in homestay arrangements with families in town. They plan to stay until early July, returning home to Mexico soon after Canada Day celebrations.

The teenage travellers both say they're enjoying the cool Manitoba weather, since their hometown is often a scorching 35 degrees.

So far, Bernardo says the experience has been fun, although the English language has been a challenge. For the rest of his Canadian quest, he has plenty of ideas for things to see and do.

"I would like to improve my English, learn how to skate, try snowboarding and see the lake frozen," Bernardo said via email.

For Ruben, he's still adapting to the school schedule, since he's used to a longer lunch and afternoon siesta. But he's making the most of his time and is looking forward to joining a soccer team.

"Everyone has been very nice here," Ruben said. "It's a very good town with very good people."

Both boys attended the Sept. 28 school board meeting to introduce themselves to staff and trustees. They will also be appearing at Stonewall council in October.

In addition to Bernardo and Ruben, five more exchange students are attending school in Morden.

Other news in brief from Sept. 28 school board meeting.

Class size concerns resolved

After reviewing concerns from parents regarding the large class sizes at both Ecole R.W. Bobby Bend School and Ecole Stonewall Centennial School, the ISD board of trustees voted unanimously to hire a teacher for an additional Grade 7 class at Centennial and an EA on a more formal basis for the Grade 4 French Immersion (FI) class at Bobby Bend.

The decision was based upon the class size and composition, students with special needs, funded students and different variables that are important to be considered over and above the number of students in the room. For the 2015-16 school year, Centennial school will now have three Grade 7 classes, two English and one FI.

The board acknowledged the extremely valuable role that Educational Assistants play in every school in the division.

Listening for Grace to take stage in Stonewall

By Jennifer McFee

The latest outreach project at Stone-United Church wall is bound to provoke thought and maybe even start conversations.

On Thursday, Oct. 15, the sought-after show Listening for Grace will take the stage, hosted by Stonewall United Church along with other area churches.

Ted Swartz's one-man play is about a widowed father who finds out his son is gay. The performance includes musical accompaniment by a cellist and a pianist.

Rev. Leonard Oracheski said the play doesn't advocate for or against any particular lifestyles.

"It's more about the relationship of a father and the people he met after they found out his son was gay," he said.

"Looking for Grace is an interesting title because his wife's name was Grace. It's a little play on that."

Everyone is welcome to attend, since the play itself is not specifically geared for the church community. In > fact, no church-related paraphernalia will be visible for the performance.

Since the play tends to raise more questions than answers, Oracheski plans to offer a study group to the congregation and anyone else who would like to participate.

"A lot of people don't think about it until it happens within their family and then it takes on a whole different lifestyle," Oracheski said.

In the United Church, there's an option to do same-sex marriage, he added. "We went and had a discussion day, following an amendment to the Automobile Insurance Coverage Regulation. 'Our government has heard the concerns of those who have been victims of this senseless crime," said Gord Mackintosh, minister responsible for Manitoba Public Insurance.

"This amendment will benefit those vehicle owners who choose to carry the $100 or $200 deductible option, and who suffer damage to their vehicles as a result of criminal vandalism."

Last year there were about 10,000 vandalism claims opened with Manitoba Public Insurance. Vehicle vandalism came to the forefront earlier this year after a rash of criminal incidents within the capital region. Manitoba Public Insurance, Manitoba Justice, community representatives and the Winnipeg Police Service are committed to reducing this crime.

"As Manitoba's public auto insurer, we recognize the need to continually adapt our products and services to meet the evolving needs of our customers," said Ward Keith, vicepresident Business Development & Communications and Chief Product Officer Manitoba Public Insurance. "We're pleased to be able to offer our customers the option to eliminate the deductible for vandalism losses if they choose to do so.

This policy change, which will automatically benefit approximately 75 per cent of all Manitoba Public Insurance customers who currently have the optional $100 and $200 deductible packages, will result in a minimal premium adjustment of $3 to $5 per year, which is expected to apply to policy renewals and reassessments effective March 1, 2016 or later. The average cost of a vandalism claim is about $1,300.

Driveways and lot grades

At the Sept. 23 meeting, council passed first reading for bylaws regarding driveway guidelines and permits as well as lot grades.

If passed, the bylaws would require a $1,500 deposit plus a $300 permit fee to make changes to driveway. Similarly, the lot grade permit free would increase to $500 from $300 and the deposit to $1,500 to from $500.

In both circumstances, the deposit would be returned as long as the project complies with all requirements.

Red Wagon Transportation

Council showed support for Bryce Spittal's business plan for Red Wagon Transportation to provide transportation and transit services in the Town of Stonewall.

Council will allow the business to provide transportation and taxi services within the town; however, any transporting outside the town would require permission from the provincial Motor Transport Board.

As well, Red Wagon Transportation must ensure it gets the appropriate liability insurances recommended by MPI, and all of its drivers must have a valid Class 4 drivers licence needed to drive a public service vehicle in Manitoba.

Montgomery Avenue fence

Stonewall's works and operations department is proceeding with the installation and pavement of the pathway of Montgomery Avenue and Oakford Boulevard. In addition, a wood privacy fence will be included in the project along the pathway beside 44 Montgomery Ave., at a maximum cost of $3,500.

For the entire project, $30,000 will be allocated from the gas tax reserve if required.

Lagoon project

The Town of Stonewall needs to expand both the hydraulic and organic capacity of its lagoon, and the expanded lagoon must meet new regulations under the Environment Act.

Tetra Tech Consultants Ltd. provided a number of options to expand the lagoon. The town would like to move forward with the designs and environmental act proposal to seek a new licence for the first phase of expansion.

To do this, the town is requesting that the Manitoba Water Services Board cost-share in the Phase 1 works, including the design and the environmental act proposal.

Following the council resolution, the town can now get in the queue for future funding.

Utilities deficit recovery

The Public Utilities Board identified that the Town of Stonewall utility incurred a deficit in 2009 for $94,955 and in 2013 for $62,000.

These deficits will be recovered through the accumulated utility surplus.

Candidates rev up their campaigns as election nears

JAMES BEZAN

By Brandon Logan

With just over two weeks remaining until the Oct. 19 federal election, candidates in the Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman riding are hitting the campaign trail non-stop.

Following our recent look into Conservative Party candidate James Bezan's and Liberal Party candidate Joanne Levy's campaigns, the Tribune contacted the remaining three candidates running in the riding.

Nationally, the NDP have stayed near the top of most polls throughout the campaign and local candidate Deborah Chief hopes that is true of this riding.

Chief has been going door to door talking to constituents in recent weeks. She said from her talks with community members, it appears people want change from Prime Minister Stephen Harper and the Conservatives.

James said his party would address these problems head on instead of putting a"Band-Aid on top of a Band-Aid," which he says is what other parties are doing.

Rounding out the five Elections Canada official candidates is Libertarian Donald Grant.

Grant admits the Libertarian Party is in a stage where they want to be more recognizable in hopes of growing the party in the future.

He said the biggest component to this campaign is lowering taxes, something that is a topic of discussion for many Manitobans.

"I think the biggest component is we want a flat tax," Grant said. "We want people to pay less taxes. The governments are taxing the heck out of us. They're tired of it."

With very few candidates across the riding, the biggest goal Grant and the Libertarians have is to earn more seats than the Green Party.

Campaigning is expected to ramp up for all five candidates over the next few weeks as the election nears.

A Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman all candidates debate will take place on Monday, Oct. 5 at Gunton Greenwood Community Hall in Gunton hosted by the Stonewall-Teulon Chambers of Commerce. Admission is free and doors will open at 6 p.m. with the debate set to start at 6:30 p.m.

For those hoping to get their vote in early, advanced voting across the riding will be taking place everyday from Friday, Oct. 9 to Monday, Oct. 12.

Highway 7 concerns

At the Sept. 23 council meeting, Coun. Mark Hidlebaugh expressed concerns about the condition of Highway 7.

"Heading northbound on the two-lane highway up by Abas Esso is split all to heck. Right in the middle of the road, there's huge chunks of concrete out of there," he said.

"That's a main highway for us. It facilitates quarry traffic, and I'm really concerned, actually, about the way that highway is split. It's not little hairline cracks. There's pieces that are in there that are two and three inches open. They're all the way up to the bridge on Grassmere."

On the bridge, there is also a hump that seems to be getting higher, he added.

Council will write a letter to the province about the condition of the highway.

Changes to meetings

Rockwood council is moving towards changes in its meeting procedures. Pending final approval, a bylaw is in the works to regulate the proceedings and conduct of council and committees.

If approved, council meetings will be held the second Wednesday of each month followed by committee-of-the-whole meetings on the fourth Wednesday of the month.

Council also amended its schedule to accommodate Remembrance Day and the upcoming meeting for the Association of Manitoba Municipalities.

In October, meetings will be held on Oct. 7 and 28, with a board of revision meeting on Oct. 14. In November, meetings will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 10 and Thursday, Nov. 26.

Local book club to host Interlake author

By Natasha Tersigni

An honest and eye-opening account of the physical and emotional realities of going through treatments for prostate cancer is documented in the inspiring and passionate novel penned by Lake Winnipeg writer Bill Martin.

Martin's story of being diagnosed and treated for cancer is intertwined with poetry in his novel Ripped Out: One Man's Journey Surviving Prostrate Cancer. The book is this month's selection for the Stony Mountain Book Club and will be discussed at their upcoming meeting on Oct. 5. Martin will be in attendance at the meeting to lead discussions on the book he published in November 2014.

Throughout the novel, the reader is taken on a journey through Martin's discovery of prostate cancer at the age of 62 and then through the recovery from the removal of the prostate that left Martin impotent and incontinent.

Ten years ago, after a standard prostate-specific antigen (PSA) test came back high, Martin had a biopsy of his prostate and was told that he had cancer. After much discussions with his wife and debates with himself, he decided to have surgery to remove his prostate. The decision was not an easy one for Martin, who knew that the side effects were severe.

"At that time, my grandson Sam had just been born and I really wanted to see him grow up. I decided to have the surgery and I did become completely impotent and incontinent," said Martin, who added the book helped him work through his own feelings of the side-effects from the surgery.

"I wrote the book so I could survive. After I had written it, I wanted other men to benefit from it. For those men who have had prostate cancer, they get depressed because they become impotent and incontinent. They often just quit and that is not necessary. I have had surgery to correct my impotence and incontinence. A lot of men don't even know that you can get that. While your sex life changes, it is still wonderful, but you are not the same man you were before."

Throughout the book, Martin writes about intimate details of his own life. He said he hopes it helps men discover they are not alone and they should not feel emasculated just because they have had to have their prostate removed.

"I want to get men talking about sex and their prostate. I want men to get over being shy and ashamed, and to get back to being in charge again. A lot of men give up. The other thing I want men to do is get tested, get a PSA rating," said Martin, who added that if he had not had a PSA test then he would probably be dead now.

Martin also touches on his own sex life to help men who are going through their own prostate cancer treatments realize that it is not all over.

WCI goes to bat for the kids

Warren Collegiate's Grade 12 team, the Blue Jays, along with seven other teams from Interlake School Division went to bat for kids that need financial help to participate in sport. The third annual tournament raised $650 this year for KidSport. KidSport is a not-for-profit organization that provides financial support to children 18 and under in order to remove financial barriers that prevent them from playing organized sport.

Warren elementary needs your v

By Natasha Tersigni

Warren Elementary School students and staff need the public's help to stock the library shelves in their classrooms and at the school.

Principal Chris Gamble entered the school in Indigo's national Adopt a School contest. The Indigo Love of Reading Foundation Adopt A School contest has schools competing for votes in an effort to win a grand prize of $10,000.

Gamble is hoping to get the community supporting their effort by spreading the word about the voting process.

Schools in each province are competing for the most votes. The school in each province that receives the most online votes, or "adopts," will win $10,000 worth of books from Indigo. Those that come in second will win $7,500 in books and third place will receive $5,000 to purchase books.

While Warren Elementary School's library is well stocked, Gamble said students are in need of non-fiction books in their classroom libraries to support the school's Balanced Literacy learning model.

"Our school set some new goals last year, and one of them was we are going to explore something called Balanced Literacy, which includes reading and writing and embedding that into everything we do. Our school has books, but what we need are more non-fiction books. We would like to fill all of our classrooms and the library with more non-fiction books," said Gamble, who added he would use the prize money to ensure there is a wide variety of non-fiction books for students of all reading levels.

"It is difficult to build classroom libraries and they are a bit on the tired side right now. We really want to make sure those are spruced up for students."

The school also has the only accessible library for children in the Warren area, and last year Gamble introduced an early years program to support children that are not yet school-aged.

"We offer an early years literacy library service to our community. We had over 350 books donated to the school last year for this program. I wanted a place where moms, dads and guardians could pick up books for their children before they are in school. The more they read to their kids, the better ready they are for school when they get here," said Gamble.

With support from the community, the school is currently in first place with 2,795 adopts. Voting is free and is open until Oct. 10. Anyone can vote once a day per email or Facebook account.

"Nobody else in the Interlake School Division is participating in this and we got in early enough that we have a fighting chance to actually win," added Gamble.

To vote, log on to adoptaschool.indigo.ca, search for Warren Elementary School in Manitoba and click "adopt." No money is needed, but those who wish can also purchase a book for the school, earning the school 10 extra votes.

Watch out for deer ticks

Lyme disease is caused by a bacterial infection that people can get from the bite of an infected blacklegged (deer) tick.

Manitobans can reduce contact with deer ticks by avoiding wooded or forested habitat, wearing long pants and a long-sleeved shirt, tucking in clothing, using an appropriate repellent (it should state 'for use against ticks' on the product label), looking for and removing ticks as soon as possible.

For more information about Lyme disease, its symptoms and how to prevent it, visit our website at www.manitoba.ca/ health/lyme/

You can help

You can help in the study of Lyme disease in Manitoba by collecting and submitting deer ticks for surveillance purposes.

- Deer ticks are smaller than the more common wood tick. Unlike wood ticks, they do not have white markings on their bodies.
- If you find a deer tick, remove it slowly from skin or clothing using tweezers and steady pressure; avoid twisting. Cleanse area with soap and water or a disinfectant.
- Place the tick in a small, crush-proof container (for example, a pill bottle) with a piece of slightly damp paper towel (to help keep the tick alive).
- Tirmly tape the lid shut.
- Check the pictures and additional information on the website to determine if your tick might be a deer tick.
- Hand-deliver or mail the sample to the address below. If mailing, place the container in a sealed plastic bag then in a cardboard box labeled: RESEARCH SPECIMENS – FRAGILE – HANDLE WITH CARE
- Include your name, telephone number, email address and information about where, when and on whom (ex: a dog, a person) the tick was found. Deliver or mail to:

Lions celebrate three decades of community service

By Natasha Tersigni

In the multipurpose room of their largest accomplishment in the community, the Stonewall and District Lions Manor, current and past members of the Stonewall and District Lions Club came together to celebrate the club's 30th anniversary on Saturday.

Volunteering at community events, assisting with funding to community projects and building a 123-suite independent 55-plus complex are just a few ways in which the Lions have been supporting Stonewall and surrounding communities for the past 30 years.

"To put in 30 years to help the district is great; that is what we are here for. We have had very good members and everybody chips in and helps," said Stonewall and District Lions Club president Ralph Sinclair, who has been a member of the club since it was first established in Stonewall in 1985.

"The Lions Manor is the biggest project that we have ever done and it took a lot of planning and organization. At first it was a challenge as we were not sure we would get enough people to come in, but then it took off. Now we have a wait list for a suite here."

During the celebration, Lion Wally Finnbogason was recognized for his continued commitment to the Lions as he is a charter member and has also been with the club for 30 years.

Warren and Rosser fire departments host open houses

By Jo-Anne Procter

The Woodlands and Rosser fire departments both hosted the their open houses last weekend. Visitors enjoyed great food and educational instruction by volunteer fire fighters.

Fire Prevention week Oct 4–10 is an ideal time for families to ensure smoke detectors are in working order, fire extinguishers are up to date and for families to discuss their home escape routes and a meeting place in case of a fire. This weekend Stonewall, Teulon and Stony Mountain will host their events.

Of all the beverage containers that weren't recycled, how many were yours?

Last year, Manitobans recycled more beverage containers than ever before. Unfortunately, tons of them still ended up in the landfill, not a blue bin. Even a few containers pile up fast, so recycle your empty cans, bottles, cartons, and juice boxes every time.

New, expanded Lyme disease risk areas identified

By Staff

Blacklegged ticks that carry Lyme disease are expanding their reach across the province.

Provincial health officials warned last Friday the bug is expanding to new areas in the northward and westward regions of the province, which includes the Interlake region.

Areas such as Teulon and Patricia Beach are now considered risk areas for Lyme disease.

A provincial monitoring program that tracks blacklegged ticks identified a number of new and expanded Lyme disease risk areas.

A press release from the province said the risk of tick-borne disease transmission is greatest in these areas.

Blacklegged ticks are commonly found along the edge of forests and in areas with thick, woody shrubs and other vegetation.

Limiting exposure to blacklegged ticks is the key to tick-borne disease prevention, officials say.

The province says Manitobans can take precautions to minimize their risk of tick exposure by applying tickrepellent, inspecting themselves, children and pets after spending time outside, and staying to the centre of walking trails.

Wearing long pants and longsleeved shirts is also recommended as is keeping grass and shrubs around homes cut short. This will create drier environments that are less suitable for blacklegged tick survival.

Blacklegged ticks can cause Ana-plasmosis, Babesiosis in addition to Lyme disease.

Symptoms of the three illnesses include everything from fever, chills, headache, joint aches, body aches, loss of appetite, nausea or fatigue and vomiting.

Symptoms can begin as early as three days after a bite has taken place or be delayed by as much as six weeks.

A total of 11 people have already contracted an illness from blacklegged ticks so far this year.

People who think they may have a tick-borne disease should see their doctor. For more information, they may also contact Health Links–Info Santé at 204-788-8200 or (toll-free) 1-888-315-9257.

With gratitude we honour OUR LOCAL HEROES

We thank all the brave men and women who make our communities a safe place to live. These people often put themselves on the line so that our lives and home may be more secure. They are the first to lend a hand in times of crisis.

Stonewall EMS Paramedics

Every year, Stonewall and Teulon EMS staff respond to over 1,500 calls. When an accident or a critical health event occurs in this area, Interlake-Eastern RHA paramedics are among the first to arrive and provide care on-site. This care continues in transit to a medical facility if required. Paramedics also accompany patients on transports via ambulance from one medical facility to another. These men and women are trained to step into situations where most of us would be at a loss in terms of how to help. Paramedics take control of medical care, they provide comfort and they work to save lives. They are local, everyday heroes who are a part of our communities.

The Skill: Giving Recipes a Healthy Makeover

Whenever possible, opt for ingredients that are close to nature (such as fruits, vegetables, and whole grains) instead of using more processed items. Anything packaged should be low in fat, salt, and added sugars. Including fruits, vegetables, and whole grains will also help you pump up the volume of your food, helping you feel fuller and more satisfied from a smaller amount. You can also upgrade the nutritional value of meals you prepare by using skim milk instead of whole milk in your cooking and replacing some (or all) of the all-purpose flour with whole wheat flour, oatmeal, or wheat germ when making breads, muffins, or other baked goods.

Making healthy ingredient substitutions allows you to maintain the familiar taste and appearance of vour favorite dishes while boosting their nutritional value and health benefits. Opting for the more nutritious choice can have a variety of trickle-down benefits for your health and waistline. For example, a study from Navarra, Spain, found that when people were assigned to follow a Mediterranean diet that was rich in virgin olive oil for three years, they achieved significantly higher levels of antioxidants in their blood, which was associated with reductions in body weight during that time.

Meanwhile, culinary herbs and spices can give our health a boost as well as infusing our meals with extra flavor. For example, cinnamon may lower blood sugar as well as artery-clogging LDL cholesterol and total cholesterol. Rosemary has strong antioxidant properties and anti-inflammatory effects, both of which can help protect against heart disease and cancer. (Ground cloves, oregano, ginger, allspice, and cinnamon also have been found to have high levels of antioxidant activity.) Thyme, rosemary, and sage can inhibit the growth of human colon cancer cells, according to laboratory research from the University of Georgia. And turmeric (used in Indian curries and stews) has been found to have strong anti-inflammatory properties and appears to inhibit the growth of cancer cells. Moreover, in a recent study from China, curcumin (the major component of turmeric) was found to increase the level of apoptosis (cellular suicide or selfdestruction) in triple-negative breast cancer cells in a laboratory setting, thereby inhibiting the cancer cells' growth. (It has been found to have similar effects on lung cancer, prostate cancer, colorectal cancer, and oral cancer cells.)

Canadian winters are notoriously harsh and throw all kinds of weather our way, sometimes making driving a harrowing adventure, so it's important to be prepared.

Here are some tips to ensure that you and your car to make it through the season unscathed.

Switch to a winter weight oil. Viscosity varies with temperature, so your car may benefit from a different weight of engine oil in the winter. A lighter weight engine oil will improve engine start-up and provide better lubrication during the colder months.

Check your tire pressure. Be sure to check the pressure of your tires (including your spare tire) at least once per month this winter - every 5°C change in temperature results in about a 7_kPa (1 psi) change in tire pressure. Properly inflated tires last longer, make your vehicle safer to drive and can improve your fuel efficiency by 3.3 per cent.

Keep your gas tank at least half full. Maintaining at least a half tank of gas ing during the colder months. Adding a little gas-line anti-freeze every second fill-up can also help to prevent freezing.

Check and/or replace your battery. Very cold temperatures will reduce your car's battery power, so it's important to keep the connections clean, tight and corrosion-free. If your battery is more than five years old, you should also consider replacing it with one that is rated as high as the one specified in your owner's manual.

Use the right coolant. As strange as it sounds, your cooling system is one of the most important things to watch during the winter. In most parts of Canada, a 50/50 mix of coolant and water keeps the coolant from freezing, lubricates the water pump and protects the cooling system from corrosion. In very cold areas you may need to change the concentration, but your coolant concentration should never exceed 70 per cent.

Check your brakes. When you need to stop on slick and icy roads, every second counts. Check your brakes for wear and tear and buy yourself some time to Test your exhaust system for leaks. Leaks can be especially dangerous during cold weather driving when windows are closed. Be sure to check your exhaust system at least once per year to stay safe.

Check your lights. Over time, your lights may dim or burn out completely and the plastic in your light covers will degrade and cloud, leading to distorted and dimmed illumination. Be sure to replace both your bulbs and light covers to maintain high quality lighting. Waxing your headlight covers can also help prevent the build-up of ice and snow on your lights during the cold and dark winter months.

Avoid using cruise control. You should never use your cruise control on wet, snowy or icy roads. If you hydroplane or skid, your tires will rapidly spin as your car accelerates to maintain its speed, and you are more likely to lose control.

Pack an emergency kit. Never leave home without a safety kit in the winter. Make sure that you have a shovel, a snow/ice brush, jumper cables or a battery pack, extra windshield washer fluid, and warm clothes or a blanket in your trunk in case you get stranded. See our Emergency Preparedness page for a more detailed list.

Winter driving is no funny business, so be sure to slow down, be patient, and remember that there is no shame in being overly cautious. If you feel uncomfortable continuing to drive in poor weather conditions, pull over and wait it out or just stay home.

Together the guides, community volunteers and TD Stonewall branch employees planted 300 trees in the Stonewall Community Garden that in a few years will be transplanted to community places in Stonewall and Teulon.

"TD has a large nationwide campaign that we started and we are actually planting 150,000 trees across Canada. Stonewall was the benefactor of 300 this year, which is great. We are doing it to continue to be the 'Green Bank' and help the environment," said Stonewall TD branch manager Tina Giampaolo, who added that this is the second year that the treeplanting initiative has come to Stonewall.

The Stonewall Teulon Tribune Thursday, October 1, 2015 25 Lagoon expansion proposed for RM of Woodlands

By Natasha Tersigni

A plan for a lagoon expansion in the Hamlet of Woodlands, which has been in the works since 2012, is finally coming to fruition. Now that the environment licence and negotiations with the province over cost-sharing are complete, the RM is hosting a public hearing to discuss the project, which includes building a new primary cell and turning the two existing cells into storage cells. The public hearing will be at 7 p.m. on Oct. 8 at the Woodlands Recreation Centre

The expansion comes with a price tag of $1.8 million; Manitoba Water Services Board will be paying $900,000 and the RM of Woodlands is responsible for the other half. To cover the costs, the RM is planning on evoking a capital levy of 1.24 mills on municipal property tax bills, not including farmland and property in or near Warren. It is estimated that the RM will take 10 years to pay off the loan needed for the project. Based on costs today, a $150,000 home would see an increase of $84.02 on its annual bill for 10 years.

"Warren and the surrounding area are excluded because they already have their own lagoon service. It is a capital expenditure, not an operational expenditure. That is one of the reasons why we are including the whole RM. We need a place for waste for the entire RM," said RM of Woodlands CAO Adam Turner, who added that currently septic haulers have to travel outside the RM to dump their loads.

"The lagoon is at capacity right now. For the last couple of years, there has been no outside waste coming to the lagoon. It all had to go to Warren or outside the RM. With this expansion, it will allow the lagoon to be open again."

While the capital levy will mean an increase for ratepayers, the lagoon is at maximum capacity. If an expansion is not added, it will affect growth in the RM.

"This is a project that started in 2012 and has been on the books for quite a while. We are looking forward to see it coming through. The lagoon is at capacity and it is going to have an effect on growth. We will have to stop allowing sub-divisions to be built if the lagoon is not expanded," said Turner.

Using growth projections, it is estimated that the lagoon expansion will be adequate for 20 years.

While there is currently a petition started by RM residents who are against the increase in property taxes that will be required for the lagoon project, Turner added that the public hearing is a place for residents to state objections, ask questions and clarify information surrounding the project. "There are some changes that can be looked at. If there is enough of an objection to (the lagoon), then the project is looked at in more detail and could go to the Municipal Board. If it is rejected (by the Municipal Board), you cannot do a similar project for two years," said Turner.

WCI students witness the impact of impaired driving

By Jennifer McFee

The seriousness of impaired driving hit home for local students who witnessed the impacts of a staged car crash last week.

On Thursday, Sept. 24, Grade 11 students from Warren Collegiate Institute were among those invited to a mock car crash staged each September at Chapel Lawn Funeral Home.

This year, emergency personnel worked together with the Manitoba Brain Injury Association to set up a scene in which a carload of teens drove home drunk from a party. The scene looked realistic, with damaged vehicles donated by Manitoba Public Insurance. Actors portrayed a victim who died and was put in a body bag, as well as another who was rescued with the jaws of life and flown away by the STARS air ambulance.

After that, students witnessed a mock funeral in the chapel, complete with photos and music.

Mark Lawson, a guidance counsellor at Warren Collegiate Institute, said the event had an impact on the students.

"It was really impactful. Some were really engaged with that mock car crash that they saw," Lawson said. "Others were engaged by hearing some of the paramedics and the cops stories about real-life things that they've seen during their jobs."

One of those speakers was RCMP Sgt. Larry Dalman, who spoke about a fatal crash he attended on Highway 1 west of the Perimeter about eight years ago. A husband and wife burned to death in their vehicle after being hit by an impaired driver, while their six-year-old daughter had to be rescued from the back seat.

"The majority of the public drive by and see crashes and, depending how serious they are, they have no idea what goes on inside the vehicle," said Dalman, a Stonewall resident who looks after the Selkirk traffic services unit.

"Then the officers who arrive on scene have to deal with the carnage and the aftermath and continue doing their job."

In many circumstances, including that one, the drivers are not only impaired but they are also engaging in other dangerous behaviours such as speeding or talking on a cell phone.

"One of the things we try to bring out to the students and everybody else when we do these presentations is that when you operate a motor vehicle, it's also considered a weapon," Dalman said.

"In sports like hockey, they advise you to keep your head up so you don't get hit because even with full gear on, hockey players can be injured. Out on the highway when we take our eyes off the road — when we're having conversations with family or friends, when we're trying to text or use the cell phone — we're concentrating on things while we're driving. It only takes a second and it can have devastating consequences."

Based on feedback from students, they take the event seriously, Dalman added.

"That is one of the reasons why we do it. Education is the key to this and we're trying to prevent future tragedies from occurring," he said.

"The hardest part for most of the traffic officers is doing next-of-kin. It doesn't matter who you are. If I show up at your door at three o'clock in the morning and your children aren't home, you have a dread."

Legion continues to support veterans and community

Branch #52 celebrated national Legion Week

By Natasha Tersigni

As Royal Canadian Legions across Canada struggle to maintain membership and keep up with mounting costs, Stonewall's Royal Canadian Legion Branch #52 has thrived. Thanks to a strong contingent of members and volunteers matched with innovative events and programs to attract and maintain members of all ages, whether they have military ties or not, Branch #52 has been able to withstand the decline that legions in Manitoba and across the country have faced.

Last week Branch #52 celebrated Legion Week with a Member's Night Dance on Sept. 19 and a Legion Tea on Sept. 24. The national initiative is aimed at emphasizing the important role that legions have and still play in supporting veterans.

Legions across Canada began being formed in 1926 following the unity of First World War veterans' organizations. The purpose was to provide a support system to veterans, whether military or RCMP, and their families. Since Stonewall's legion formed in 1927, it has been doing just that.

Stonewall Legion's No. 1 priority still remains to support those who have or are still serving their country, including through donations to the Military Family Resource Centre in Winnipeg and other organizations that support soldiers and veterans. Through fundraising initiatives, the legion also helps to support various non-profit community organizations. This past spring, thanks to the legion's Chase the Queen fundraiser, close to $80,000 from the legion was donated to various community groups.

During last week's tea, legion members told the Tribune about the important role that the legion has played in their lives and in supporting the larger community.

"I wanted to connect back to my military roots. I like what the legion does," said Rev. Leonard Oracheski, who served as a combat officer in the Navy for 24 years. He has been a member of Branch #52 for the past six years.

"We raise funds and put them back in the community, over $60,000 a year. We have recently supported the Stonewall-Rockwood Fire Department with their purchase of the Jaws of Life and we continually support the local cadet movement. There are a lot of community services the legion helps keep going,"

"We pool money from our fundraising efforts and distribute them throughout the community. That is one of our big functions," added legion vice-president Howard Hilstrom. For the next few months, legion members will focus their attention on upcoming Remembrance Day activities including local poppy sales, the legion's Remembrance dinner and dance and the annual community Remembrance Day ceremony held every Nov. 11 in the legion hall.

Culture Days comes to Teulon

Teulon Library and Teulon Museum pair up to create a historical display

By Jennifer McFee

In a celebration of arts and culture, Teulon got in on the action as one of 900 Canadian communities to participate in the sixth annual Culture Days.

Founded in 2009, the non-profit Culture Days is dedicated to providing Canadians with the chance to participate in arts and culture.

Last weekend, Teulon Library partnered with Teulon Museum to create a Settler's Tea Party display, providing a peek into the past as soon as you walk through the library's doors.

Guests glimpsed an antique teacart topped with a Yellow Tea Rose tea set, as well as a table set with dinnerware and a hand-crocheted tablecloth.

Overseeing the exhibit is a manikin dressed in a homesteader-style calico dress alongside a well-loved green high chair.

On a nearby side table, history came to life through antique photos in a family album and a basket of wool ready for knitting.

Although Culture Days officially ran from Sept. 25 to 27, the library will continue to showcase its historical display until the following weekend.

Meanwhile at the South Interlake Regional Library, Culture Days visitors had the chance to meet nature photographer Robyn Brown and view the photography exhibit Out in the Open: The Beauty of the Interlake. Other local Culture Days activities included bird banding at Oak Hammock Marsh and Pumpkinfest in Teulon.

Stonewall makes history, winning back-to-back city championships

Stonewall claimed the U14B boys' soccer city championship two years in a row, after a thrilling 2-1 overtime victory over South Winnipeg at the John Blumberg Complex last Saturday evening.

The ball had been crossed into play by Noah Bracken.

Stonewall's first goal was scored by Nic Vandenbossche (pictured bottom left), who took a pass from Aiden Erickson down the field and drilled the ball to the back of the net.

The championship victory was a great way to end the season for Stonewall, which finished its regular season with an 11-2-1 record. Thunder has mixed results on the gridiron

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Thunder football teams had mixed results on the gridiron last Saturday.

The Interlake Bantams doubled the Transcona Nationals 44-22 while the Atoms outscored the Fort Garry Lions 50-46.

Lucas Kmet scored the game-winning touchdown in the Atom game with just 21 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter.

In Midget action, the Thunder were defeated 51-0 by the Mustangs in St. Vital Saturday evening.

Dylan Condie led St. Vital with 127 yards rushing and three touchdowns. Mustangs' quarterback Josh Jamieson also had a rushing touchdown while Jude Tanghe hauled in a TD reception.

Chad Ladan had a fumble recovery for a major.

With the loss, the Thunder have now lost five games in a row and are 1-5 on the season. And things don't get much easier for the Interlake as the Thunder will visit the first-place Nationals (6-0) this Friday evening in Winnipeg. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

The other Thunder teams will be back in action on Saturday in Stonewall. The Bantams will play St. Vital at 9 a.m., followed by the PeeWees against the St. James Rods (11:30 a.m.), the Atoms versus Charleswood (2 p.m.) and the Crunchers versus Fort Garry (4:30 p.m.).

The Thunder's Connor Henry (16) of Warren brings down a National player during Interlake's 44-22 win last Saturday.

Locals feeling BMX bug

By Brian Bowman

The idea hasn't even left the starting blocks yet, but Al Sullivan is hoping to see a BMX racing track built here in Stonewall soon.

Over the past couple of months, local youth have been travelling to Grand Forks, N.D. to compete in BMC racing, one of the newest Olympic sports.

The idea, however, is to build a local track to have better access to training, the option to host their own events, and save the six hours travel time that they currently experience.

"That's what we're moving towards now," said Sullivan Monday morning. "I've been in communication with Sport Manitoba and Manitoba Cycling and they suggested that the kids write letters to Cycle Manitoba to sort of gain some interest and share their experiences.

"That's the first step that we're going to work on this week."

Sullivan said another step is look for a chunk of land in the area and scout out some potential locations. He said his group would be looking for some financial help from the Town of Stonewall.

"We haven't made it to the point of (asking) yet," he noted."But we would be looking for support from various levels of the government."

To his knowledge, Sullivan said there are no BMX tracks anywhere in Manitoba.

Erin and Michael Sullivan, Jack Campbell, and Bryce and Brooke Wadge have all travelled down to compete south of the border and have consistently found a place on the podium.

Recently, Erin and Michael Sullivan and Campbell made the trip to

Grand Forks and Campbell took third place in his class while the Sullivans each placed second in their respective classes.

Approximately 75 to 100 BMX enthusiasts show up on race day each week. Sullivan said BMX Racing is rapidly growing in popularity throughout North America. The track resembles a motocross track with high berms, jumps, tight turns and rapid bumps. There is an age and skill class for everyone from two years old to 50-plus. "The kids found this sport on their own and they have been super enthusiastic about it," Al Sullivan said, noting the sport is not dangerous at all. "They love going down and they get pretty upset when we have to miss a week. It's a great sports and it's relatively inexpensive.

"It costs $10 a week to participate in the races, they come home with a trophy and feel good about themselves, and get a little exercise in the process."

Jets soar to pair of wins in MMJHL action

By Brian Bowman

The Stonewall Jets could not have had a better weekend.

Stonewall was very good in a pair of Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League victories last weekend.

The Jets soared past the Raiders Jr. Hockey Club 6-3 at home on Friday and then crowned the River East Royal Knights 7-2 Sunday evening in Winnipeg.

In Sunday's victory, Codi Lashewicz scored three goals and added an assist while Brett Meilleur also netted a hat trick in the lopsided win.

Kris Sigurdson gave River East an early 1-0 lead with a power-play goal and then Lashewicz tallied at 18:36 of the opening period.

Lashewicz and Meilleur (two) potted power-play goals in the second to stake the Jets to a 4-1 lead.

Chase Faulkner increased Stonewall's lead midway in the third but River East's Matt Davis scored just 15 seconds later.

Meilleur and Lashewicz then completed their hat tricks late in the third.

Riley Bannerman made 30 saves for the win.

Against the Raiders, it was Robert Smith's turn to have a huge offensive game as he scored four times and added an assist.

The Raiders grabbed a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Niklos Loeppky and Nicholas Mathews. But Stonewall dominated the middle frame, scoring four goals in a 14:57 span.

Smith scored twice while Chase Faulkner and Tanner Faulkner also tallied.

The Jets' Chase Faulkner scored twice this weekend giving his team a pair of wins.

Mac Playford brought the Raiders to within a goal early in the third period but Smith scored twice to close out the scoring. He scored on a penalty shot midway in the third and then added minute.

Stuart Fleury made 31 saves for the win.

The Jets (2-0-1) will visit the Charleswood Hawks on Friday and then will host the St. Boniface Riels on Sunday. an empty-net goal in the game's final Both games have 7:30 p.m. start times.

Midget Lightning loaded up front this season

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Lightning Midget Provincial team used the preseason to evaluate talent.

Now, they're ready for their Manitoba Midget "AAA" Hockey League regular season, which begins Friday when they host the Pembina Valley Hawks at 7:30 p.m. in Teulon.

The Lightning expect to be very competitive in the league this season. Interlake is hopeful to be, at least, several games over .500 by season's end.

"We think our forward lines are as good as anybody in the league," said Lightning head coach Dwayne Swanson confidently last week. "We think we have some strong forwards and we can roll three, sometimes four, lines that will be just fine."

Forwards Noah Basarab, Riley Vautour, Jordan Kristjanson, Karson Collins, Storm Swan, James Maxwell, and Wyatt Bear, expected to be returned to the Lightning by the WHL's Seattle Thunderbirds soon, are each expected to make huge contributions to the Lightning this season.

While the Lightning are strong up front, there may be some question marks on the blueline. Finding six solid defencemen on the back end may be a work in progress, at least early in the season.

In goal, Nathan Cvar is expected to give the Lightning a solid netminder with Midget "AAA" experience. The other goaltending spot was still up for grabs, said Swanson, late last week. It was expected to be cleared up by this past weekend.

"We have a couple of first-year Midgets that are vying (for the second spot) right now," Swanson said. "They're both very good goaltenders and it's making a very tough decision for us."

Interlake started its preseason with a pair of losses to Eastman (6-2) and Parkland (8-4) on Sept. 11 and 12, respectively.

The following week, the Lightning were defeated 2-1 by Southwest in a very good game, said Swanson, and 7-3 by Pembina Valley before edging Yellowhead 7-6 to wrap up its preseason.

"We changed our line combinations in order to have a better chance to get a win (against Yellowhead)," Swanson said. "It was important to get some confidence before the season started. It wasn't our regular team (during the preseason), but we didn't want to go into the regular season with five straight losses under our belt."

In the Pembina Valley loss, the Lightning surrendered seven goals in a 13-minute span in the second period after leading 1-0 after 20 minutes.

"We were still evaluating kids," Swanson said."We weren't concerned about those games. We had a lot of first-year Midgets in the lineup and a lot of the kids that were going to play with us were away at junior camps."

worship with us FAITH The Heavens Declare...

Did you see the "Super Moon" lunar eclipse this past week? We spent the evening outside, my family and I, watching the bright harvest moon (I hear Neil Young singing in my head right now!) rise and make its arc across the clear prairie sky. We watched in awe as the shadow of our planet traversed across the moon, bringing an eerie, albeit temporary darkness to the night. We discussed what earlier generations might have thought about such a mysterious event - without all the over-kill science brings to such things - and collectively we all wondered what it would be like to be seeing something like this through 'primitive' eyes... We waited for the eclipse to begin regressing, leaving the moon as bright as ever. My son-in-law and I went out on the front deck, and his young eyes were actually able to read a scrapbooking magazine! (Hey, I grabbed what was close, and it was kind of its own entertainment just listening to him read about cutting patterns for making some scrapbooky thing or another!) What a beautiful evening!

And of course, we checked the news for cataclysmic events. Many people were predicting dire and apocalyptic happenings, but so far the only major event was the evening which I spent, outdoors with people I love, watching a remarkable and rare natural event. It gave me a certain kind of 'thrill' just to be outside witnessing God's Creation. In fact, at one point as we all gazed heavenward, the most brilliant meteor shot across the sky, burning its way from north to south, right across our line of vision. We all saw it (rare enough!) and we all agreed: it was like God himself couldn't resist showing off! It felt like He said, "You're enjoying this, are you? Hahaha! Well, try THIS on for size!" and whipped a piece of space rock through our atmosphere, just for us. Indeed, far from being a portent of bad news, the whole moon event was, for me, one glorious witness to what I've known most of my life: God made this world absolutely, knock-your-socks-off beautiful!

Psalms 19:1 says it best – "The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands." (NIV)

I'm not sure what the near future holds. Perhaps there is some major event (good or evil) that will yet occur in the coming days. And if or when it does, I'm sure some people will spend valuable energy and time seeking to link it to this phenomenal event. But as for me and my household, well, we just feel privileged and blessed – and incredibly thankful – to be living in such a wonderful world!
